County Areas Lucky With Snow But Going Was Slippery for Time

Compared to other spots on the eastern seaboard, Ulster County was pretty lucky as yesterday's snowstorm slicked highways and tied traffic lines in major cities.

Locally a half inch to an inch of snow caused some driving difficulties in the early afternoon. One fatality was attributed to icy road conditions.

Sanding crews were out early in the afternoon and most roads were in good condition by peak traffic hours. In Saugerties, traffic was snarled for about an hour on East Bridge Street.

Belleayre Ski Center this morning reported a fresh frosting of one inch powder. Skiing at the upper level of the mountain listed as good on a two to eight inch packed base and it is expected the center will be opened for limited skiing again this weekend.

New York and Washington metropolitan areas were hit with heavy snowfalls which delayed traffic, caused some school closings and generally impeded the big cities activities.

As much as 12 inches of snow blanketed suburban Virginia and Maryland. Flights to and from Washington National Airport and Friendship International Airport, between Washington and Baltimore were cancelled. Dulles International Airport remained in operation.

County Sales Tax Seen To Meet Budget Costs

By JEAN F. DOLAN
HUGH REYNOLDS

It is expected that John C. Sangaline, Republican supervisor of the Third Ward will propose a county-wide sales tax at the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

In the Works

A resolution for the sales tax is known to be in the works, and will undoubtedly be presented at the board meeting. No date has been set for the meeting as it is in adjournment. Next regular date is Dec. 14.

Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, when asked his opinion on a county sales tax told The Freeman today, "Why sure. We need a two per cent sales tax in this county. Real estate has had it. If we don't get a sales tax people in Kingston won't be able to afford to own their own homes."

Other Successes

Garraghan has often mentioned the success Poughkeepsie has with its sales tax, pegged at one per cent. "They collect over $800,000 a year on the sales tax in Poughkeepsie. In terms of Kingston real estate tax that's almost $20 on a thousand."

The mayor has taken a dim view of a city-only sales tax, stating it might tend to drive business out of Kingston.

In a final word on the sales tax today, Garraghan said, "We've got to have new forms of revenue. Real estate hikes are out. The best way, and the most painless way, as I see it, is a county sales tax, the sooner the better."

The county sales tax is seen as the only logical solution to rising county costs. It is expected next year's budget will be up approximately $2 million over last year's expenditures mainly because of increase in welfare costs brought about by Medicaid.

Savage in Favor

Peter J. Savage, (Republican-New Paltz), chairman of the board of supervisors, is seen favoring the county sales tax especially in view of the statewide trend to this money raising method. A number of counties throughout the state have resorted to sales taxes ranging from one to three per cent.

Supervisors are contacting the state tax commissioners to determine the percentage of tax needed.

Nothing Exclusive

Savage said the problem of increased county budgets is by no means exclusively Ulster County's concern. The Medicaid costs have become a problem for all counties in the state.

County sales tax has been proposed to increase local revenue on a number of previous occasions but has never been brought to a vote.

Increase in welfare costs to the county have been of growing concern and have been the subject of much discussion in the board of supervisors.

Mulled By City

Mayor Garraghan has proposed sales taxes as solution to city financial problems in the past and has met with mixed emotions and no concrete proposals.

In Dutchess County, the city has sales taxes but no county-wide tariff. Ulster counties have been adopting sales taxes in recent months. In more populous counties such as Broome and Onondaga have had sales taxes for a number of years and of course the New York City area has had the tax for a long time.

On previous mentions of the county sales tax in this area, resident reaction was heatedly opposed.

Driver Thrown Out of Cab

W. Hurley Man Killed

An icy Route 28 yesterday claimed Ulster County's 43rd highway fatality for the year when a panel truck skidded into a guard rail ejecting the driver.

Dead is Fred Trost, 56, of West Hurley. State Police said the victim suffered brain lacerations and a fractured skull.

Lost Control

According to troopers, Trost was traveling west on Route 28, Town of Ulster, around 6:15 p. m. when he lost control of his truck and skidded into a guard rail. Officers stated that the man was thrown out of the truck head-first striking another guard rail. Coroner William Keyser pronounced Trost dead at the scene, troopers added.

The driver was headed toward home when the tragedy occurred. Coroner Keyser said Trost worked as a house painter.

Early this morning two Greene County men were hurled through the windshield of the auto in which they were traveling when the operator failed to negotiate a curve along Route 23, Leeds troopers said.

Treated and released at Greene County Hospital, Catskill, were Jerome Murphy, 22, Bridge Street, Catskill, and his passenger, Dennis Mahoney of nearby Leeds. Authorities disclosed that Murphy was ticketed for failure to keep right.

Police said the vehicle was headed west along the route. Town of Catskill, when Murphy lost control and skidded into a pole. Both men were treated for minor cuts and contusions, police concluded.

Third This Week

Trost's death Thursday at the height of yesterday's snowstorm was the third highway fatality in the county in less than a week. Saturday, two men, William Dover of Kerhonkson and Willie Miles of Elenville, were killed in a spectacular two-car crash on Route 209.

Last year's 43rd fatality was recorded Sept. 24 when three persons were killed.

Arrest of Cong Emissary Thwarts Talk With Bunker

SAIGON (AP) — Well-informed sources said today a meeting between U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and a high-ranking representative of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was thwarted recently when South Vietnamese police arrested the Viet Cong emissary.

The U.S. Embassy issued a statement later saying: "All allegations about planned or actual meetings between high officials of the U.S. Embassy and representatives of the VC-NLF are reported by The Associated Press are false. The U.S. Embassy would, of course, not undertake any such contacts without the knowledge of the GVN (Government of South Vietnam)."

The "actual meetings" referred to in the statement apparently regarded reports from other sources that a meeting between U.S. officials and Viet Cong representatives did take place in a "neutral embassy" in Saigon within the last 10 days.

A Saigon newspaper said the proposed Bunker meeting was arranged by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency without letting the Vietnamese government know about it. A member of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives also implied that the CIA tried to get up a contact with the Viet Cong without advising the Saigon government.

The sources who reported the meeting that didn't come off said it was arranged for early in November but national police arrested the Communist envoy in Saigon before he reached the embassy.

The sources said it was believed the police did not know the purpose of the Viet Cong agent's visit to Saigon, but the agent "spilled the beans" after he was questioned.

The embassy also denied a report from other sources that Viet Cong representatives did meet in a "neutral embassy" in Saigon within the past 10 days with Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the deputy U.S. military commander in Vietnam; Deputy U.S. Ambassador Eugene M. Locke and Capt. Robert J. O'Brien, in charge of the embassy security guard.

Bunkered Reds Ousted

SAIGON (AP) — The Con Thien war front erupted again Thursday, with U.S. Marines driving North Vietnamese troops from their bunkers after a close-quarter battle just below the demilitarized zone. Meanwhile, a Red force continued to menace a U.S. infantry battalion at the Bu Dop Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border.

A company of Marines searching for Red troops 2.4 miles northeast of Con Thien ran into heavy machine-gun and mortar fire from an entrenched North Vietnamese company, estimated at about 135 men.

Three more Leatherneck companies joined the battle, giving the Marines about 700 men. Maneuvering around the enemy's flank, the Americans drove the Communists out of their heavily fortified positions in a four-hour battle.

Field reports said 26 North Vietnamese and 15 Americans were killed and 54 Americans wounded in the fighting, which was at such close quarters that the Marines could not use their artillery.

The fighting broke a lull on the DMZ front during which the Communists had concentrated on new targets, chiefly allied outposts along South Vietnam's 400-mile-long land border with Cambodia. The enemy's aim on both fronts apparently is the same—to operate close to his supply trails and to draw Americans away from protection of more populous areas where the government's pacification program has been making progress.

At Bu Dop, three miles from the Cambodian border and 80 miles north of Saigon, an under-strength battalion from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division which drove off a hard Red assault early Thursday reported today that a large Communist force was still facing it.

An American patrol bumped into the enemy lines just 75 yards from the end of the American air strip and pulled back from a Communist volley of sniper fire and claymore mines. The Americans called in Air Force jets to hit the enemy positions with bombs and napalm.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the camp that the air strip was the battalion's only link to the outside.

Fighting around the Bu Dop Special Forces camp and the nearby Bo Duc district headquarters has been going on since Tuesday. The 1st Division battalion was sent in Wednesday to reinforce South Vietnamese troops.

Edinger Explains U.S. Air Grant

Harry Edinger likes to know that there is money in the bank before he spends it—even if it is federally promised money for air pollution abatement.

The director of sanitary engineering for the Ulster County Health Department said this morning that the first quarterly payment of an $11,300 grant is now in the hands of the county treasurer, but that it wasn't at the time the Citizens' Committee for Clean Air asked him Oct. 25 if he had received the federal appropriation.

Edinger was answering a statement issued yesterday by Congressman Joseph Y. Res-nick's office claiming the Health Department had been given authorization to begin spending money for air pollution projects Oct. 1.

Edinger said that an October resolution of the Board of Supervisors was necessary in order that the treasurer be allowed to receive and disburse the money and that the $9,600 had been received in mid-November.

Some of the grant money has already been committed, he explained, in particular for the costs of 60 days of air pollution sampling in the East Kingston area, home of the Hudson Cement Company last Spring.

Results of the testing, claims Edinger, are responsible for the state's recent conclusion that ambient air standards are being exceeded and that the cause of this is the emissions from the Hudson Cement Company.

According to Hollis Ingraham, state health commissioner, in a letter to Senator Jacob Javits, Oct. 27, "the state has met with the firm twice in an effort to secure voluntary correction of the problem on a scheduled basis. Unfortunately to date it does not appear that this firm is willing to act cooperatively to reduce the problem caused by its emissions."

Therefore, it appears that more formal action as provided by law may be necessary.

A new law, regarding enforcement of air pollution standards will go into effect about Jan. 1. It was passed this week. It will according to Edinger allow the state to go "direct to the smoke stack" to test for air pollution rather than testing an area and pinpointing an industry as a violator by inference.

Regarding Hudson Cement's position, Edinger claims the company, late in November, filed an abatement proposal with the state.

A request for another federal grant for next year was made by Alderman Clifford Sinsbaugh (D-Fifth Ward) at last night's meeting of the Citizens' Committee for Clean Air, attended by close to 30 persons.

Objection was taken to the holding of state hearings on air pollution in Albany and Alderman John Machione (R-12th Ward) said he would request that in the future such hearings be held in Kingston when they pertain to Ulster County air pollution problems, and at night in order that they may be better attended.

Chairman David Fletcher informed the group that no deciministration a broad hint his committee may want to see the 1969 budget figures before deciding on taxes.

"I believe that more—particularly more specific—information is needed in this area before we can come to any conclusions on the tax increase," he said.

The committee's senior Republican, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, agreed the panel would want to know 1969 budget plans before endorsing a tax hike.

Death Knell for Tax Bill

But Next Year Is Something Else Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American taxpayer won't pay higher income taxes this year but might in 1968 if President Johnson cuts spending enough, says Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Out of Question

Mills told reporters Thursday it's out of the question for Congress to pass the administration's complex tax bill in the remaining weeks of the current session of Congress.

The Arkansas Democrat's remarks followed completion of his committee's hearings on Johnson's plan for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, combined with an administration spending cut plan.

In presenting the plan, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said it would be unthinkable not to start work on it promptly.

But Mills let the hearings lapse without scheduling any working sessions.

"We will reconvene, however, whenever there is more for the committee to consider on which we can appropriately take action," he said.

Mills said he assumed the next move would be for Budget Director Charles L. Schultze to discuss the proposed spending cuts with the House Appropriations Committee.

The tax spending plan would require action by three committees—ways and Means for the $7.4 billion tax increase; Appropriations for spending cuts, projected at $4.1 billion but which Mills said should be greater; and Government Operations for a proposal, initiated by Mills, for a commission to make a long-range study of government programs.

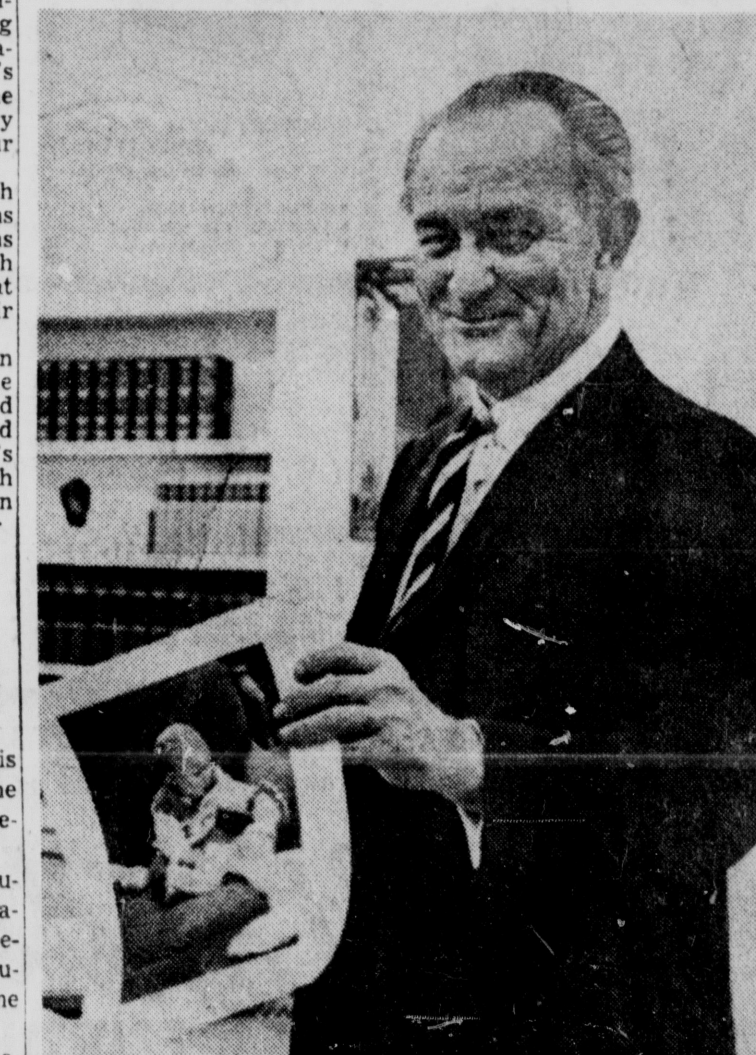

Mills said he doubts even his committee could complete its part of the work by Jan. 1.

Mills said the administration should be able to cut expenditures by $2 billion to $3 billion more than its estimate, and that such a cut "would enhance the acceptance of a tax increase by the American people."

Figures Before Decision

He also emphasized he wants spending held down during the year beginning July 1 as well as the present fiscal year, and applauded Schultze for saying this was the administration's intention.

But Mills also gave the ad-

Family Loses Possessions

Six-Hour Cottekill Fire

A Cottekill family was completely burned out of possessions Thursday in a blaze that firemen from neighboring hamlets battled for nearly six hours.

Destroyed was the two-story home of John Cracchiolo, situated on Lucas Turnpike in Cottekill. Mutual Aid said the family possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Cracchiolo and three children, were completely wiped out and are in need of clothing. Firemen said that approximately 50 volunteers responded to the 1:49 p. m. alarm and were hindered by the weather in their efforts to extinguish the inferno. It is thought the fire originated in the home's basement, a fireman noted.

Witnesses said the home was old and had recent work done on it. This made the effort to quell the blaze difficult due to double partitions, they declared.

Fire companies responding to the fire were Cottekill, Rosendale, High Falls and Tillsen. The blaze was secured at 7:45 p. m.

Seeks Fire Company Post In W. Hurley

Charles M. Ring of 309 Britany Drive, West Hurley, is a candidate for the post of fire commissioner in West Hurley District No. 1. Voting will take place Tuesday from 7 to 10 p. m. at the West Hurley Firehouse.

Ring pledges "proper administration of the responsibilities pertaining to the business functions of our fire district" if elected to the board.

In Albion, meanwhile, the 10-member Orleans County board gave unanimous approval to a two per cent levy to help finance a 1968 budget of $4.8 million. This year's spending plan totals $3.85 million.

Scholarship Grant

Applications are now being accepted for a $1,000 college scholarship to be awarded early next year. The grant will be made by the New York Chapter of the Defense Supply Association.

To be eligible, applicants must be high school seniors, male or female, and dependents of active duty or retired Air Force personnel, stationed or living within 100 miles of New York City. Applications should be sent to the Education Services Officer at either McGuire AFB, N.J., Stewart AFB, or Suffolk County AFB.

Beaumont's Case Ready for Trial

A former Kingston auto agency owner, Robert G. Beaumont of Elmendorf Heights, indicted by the grand jury on two counts of grand larceny and two counts of conspiracy as a misdemeanor, has entered a plea of innocent and has had his trial marked ready in County Court.

Beaumont, who operated the Bob Beaumont Inc., Chrysler-Plymouth agency on Albany Avenue, was arraigned before Judge Raymond J. Mino in November. He is represented by attorney Harry Gold.

According to Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, the people's case against Beaumont and his company arises out of alleged larceny in connection with the sale of two cars.

MacKinnon reported that the two complainants had entered into written contracts with Beaumont in which the former agency owner is alleged to have agreed to take two late-model heavily mortgaged cars in trade from the complainants, sell them and then pay the mortgage holders, a bank and GMAC (General Motors Acceptance Corporation).

Beaumont is also alleged to have sold the cars and not paid the mortgage holders who in turn demanded payment from the complainants.

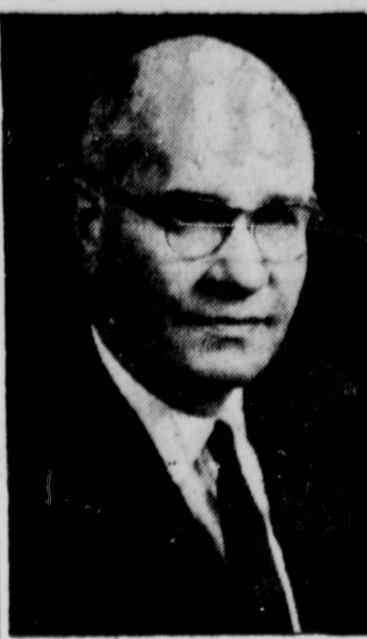

Benefit Movie Saturday for Yule Baskets

Admission for a special children's movie Saturday at the Walter Reade Community Theater will be a can of food. Sponsored by the Volunteers of America, the show is designed to gather enough food to help fill Christmas baskets for the needy of Ulster County.

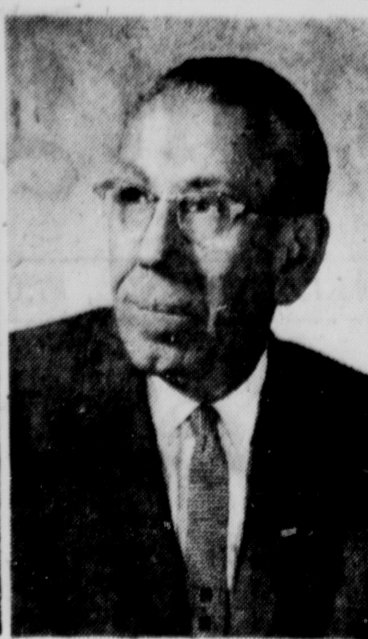

Theater Manager Jon Doyle said the doors will open at 10 a. m. and the movie is scheduled for 11. A special feature, "The Ghost of Mr. Chicken" will be viewed as well as cartoons.

Captain Ted Bentley of the volunteers said he anticipates a "heavy load of requests" for baskets this year. He noted that some of these parcels would be filled by children's donations on Saturday.

However, Bentley said persons unable to attend the movie were encouraged to call the Volunteers of America to place contributions and that the volunteers would make arrangements for food pick up.

Family Loses Possessions

Six-Hour Cottekill Fire

A Cottekill family was completely burned out of possessions Thursday in a blaze that firemen from neighboring hamlets battled for nearly six hours.

Destroyed was the two-story home of John Cracchiolo, situated on Lucas Turnpike in Cottekill. Mutual Aid said the family possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Cracchiolo and three children, were completely wiped out and are in need of clothing.

Firemen said that approximately 50 volunteers responded to the 1:49 p. m. alarm and were hindered by the weather in their efforts to extinguish the inferno. It is thought the fire originated in the home's basement, a fireman noted.

Witnesses said the home was old and had recent work done on it. This made the effort to quell the blaze difficult due to double partitions, they declared.

Fire companies responding to the fire were Cottekill, Rosendale, High Falls and Tilton. The blaze was secured at 7:45 p. m.

This morning Cottekill's Fire Department sent a special appeal to area residents to aid the family with needed clothes, linen and beds. Measurements include a man's size medium, two woman's sizes 15, a girl's size 10 and a smaller girl's size 6x. Donations may be left at the firehouse.

The Cracchiolos are presently staying with friends.

Sales Tax Due For 2 Counties In West N.Y.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Livingston and Orleans have joined a growing list of Upstate counties that have decided to institute a local sales tax to ease the financial pinch of Medicaid.

The boards of supervisors of the two Western New York counties adopted the levies Thursday in approving record budgets for 1968. Both taxes go into effect March 1, and spiraling local costs of the state's medical aid program were cited as the major reasons for them.

At a meeting in Geneseo, the Livingston County board approved, by a 9-6 vote, a $5.3 million general budget for next year, about $1.2 million above the present fiscal program.

Tied to it was a three-per-cent sales tax, with two per cent of the proceeds going to the county treasury and one per cent to local school districts.

In Albion, meanwhile, the 10-member Orleans County board gave unanimous approval to a two-per-cent levy to help finance a 1968 budget of $4.8 million. This year's spending plan totals $3.85 million.

Scholarship Grant

Applications are now being accepted for a $1,000 college scholarship to be awarded early next year. The grant will be made by the New York Chapter of the Defense Supply Association.

To be eligible, applicants must be high school seniors, male or female, and dependents of active duty or retired Air Force personnel, stationed or living within 100 miles of New York City. Applications should be sent to the Education Services Officer at either McGuire AFB, N.J., Stewart AFB, or Suffolk County AFB.

Benefit Movie Saturday for Yule Baskets

Admission for a special children's movie Saturday at the Walter Reade Community Theater will be a can of food.

Sponsored by the Volunteers of America, the show is designed to gather enough food to help fill Christmas baskets for the needy of Ulster County.

Theater Manager Jon Doyle said the doors will open at 10 a.m. and the movie is scheduled for 11. A special feature, "The Ghost of Mr. Chicken" will be viewed as well as cartoons.

Seeks Fire Company Post In W. Hurley

Charles M. Ring of 309 Britany Drive, West Hurley, is a candidate for the post of fire commissioner in West Hurley District No. 1. Voting will take place Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the West Hurley Firehouse.

Ring pledges "proper administration of the responsibilities pertaining to the business functions of our fire district" if elected to the board.

Beaumont's Case Ready for Trial

A former Kingston auto agency owner, Robert G. Beaumont of Elmendorf Heights, indicted by the grand jury on two counts of grand larceny and two counts of conspiracy as a misdemeanor, has entered a plea of innocent and has had his trial marked ready in County Court.

Beaumont, who operated the Bob Beaumont Inc., Chrysler-Plymouth agency on Albany Avenue, was arraigned before Judge Raymond J. Mino in November. He is represented by attorney Harry Gold.

According to Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, the people's case against Beaumont and his company arises out of alleged larceny in connection with the sale of two cars.

MacKinnon reported that the two complainants had entered into written contracts with Beaumont in which the former agency owner is alleged to have agreed to take two late-model heavily mortgaged cars in trade from the complainants, sell them and then pay the mortgage holders, a bank and GMAC (General Motors Acceptance Corporation).

Beaumont is also alleged to have sold the cars and not paid the mortgage holders who in turn demanded payment from the complainants.

Two-Thirds of Vietnamese Now Under Saigon Control

SAIGON (AP) — Two thirds of South Vietnam's 17 million people now live in secure areas controlled by the Saigon government, U.S. mission's computers say.

The U.S. Embassy today unveiled its new computerized Hamlet Evaluation System—or HES—and said the "secure" population has increased more than a million since last January.

Ambassador Robert W. Komer, who heads the American side of the pacification program, told a news conference that HES provides a detailed monthly check on the campaign for the allegiance of the South Vietnamese living in the country's 12,600 cities and hamlets.

A checklist on 18 major criteria is filled out on computer cards for each hamlet by the U.S. district adviser and put through computers in Saigon and Bangkok, he said, enabling the allies to get a good idea of where the "other war" stands.

In addition to hamlet security, the cards include information on such matters as schools available, health facilities and even whether the hamlet chief sleeps in the hamlet at night.

Pointing out that human evaluators weren't even sure how many hamlets were in South Vietnam before HES went into operation last January, Komer said the new system is "not even near perfect, but it's more objective, more systematic and it focuses on the key aspects of pacification."

"I think it's getting a pretty accurate picture," he added. HES evaluates hamlets on an A-to-E scale. A hamlet being most secure, E the least.

Only 8,650—or 63 per cent—of South Vietnam's 12,600 hamlets can be evaluated. The rest are controlled by the Viet Cong. But Komer said population figures are more important than the number of hamlets considered secure because the hamlets vary in population from 50 to 20,000 persons, Saigon and other large cities are classed as A-HES.

He said government-controlled hamlets tend to be larger and more prosperous since the government gives higher priority to more heavily populated areas.

Secure hamlets are those in the A, B and C categories. They now embrace 66.6 per cent of the population. Contested, or D and E hamlets account for 16.2 per cent of the population, while another 17.2 per cent lives under Viet Cong control, according to HES.

On McNamara Shift

LBJ Felt Powerless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both in public and in private, President Johnson is saying Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's shift to the presidency of the World Bank reflected McNamara's own desire—and that Johnson felt powerless to stand in his way.

Moreover, no matter what others may think, Johnson seems satisfied McNamara is content with the way the President handled the situation and will depart the Cabinet with only warm feelings and appreciation for Johnson's role in the matter.

Unjustified, He Feels

The President portrays himself as the target of wholly unjustified charges, speculations and innuendos that somehow he eased McNamara out of the federal government for political or other purposes.

In the Chief Executive's view, the Pentagon boss will be shifting from first base to shortstop when he resigns to become president of the 107-nation bank.

And Johnson insists that, had the decision been the President's alone, McNamara would have remained on first base indefinitely.

If some baseball fans feel the shortstop has more status than the first baseman, perhaps it might be well noted Johnson was a first baseman in his younger days.

McNamara has been approached about two dozen or more jobs in recent years—one reportedly offering $1 million a year—and rejected all of them. Johnson finds this convincing evidence the Pentagon boss really had his heart set on the World Bank position, one paying $40,000 a year but presumably offering greater opportunities for public service.

The President has often said he would not stand in the way of any appointee who felt the grass was greener elsewhere. He has cited the case of one of his closest assistants, Jack Valenti, who quit to become the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Association of America, and noted that Mc-

George Bundy, his original national security adviser, departed to become Ford Foundation president.

In Johnson's view, he could no more thwart McNamara's desires for other employment than he did in the Valenti and Bundy cases.

At the same time, he wants no one to think that he encouraged McNamara's decision or even hastened it.

A Likely Chronology

If the President were to draw up his own chronology of how the McNamara saga progressed, it doubtless would go very much like this:

—April 18: George D. Woods, current president of the World Bank, invited McNamara to lunch, saying it was a personal matter. McNamara accepted the invitation and was sounded out by Woods, whose term was expiring Dec. 31, of this year on whether the defense secretary might be interested in the job. McNamara was.

McNamara subsequently reported this conversation to the President and, while expressing interest in the bank job, made it clear he would remain in the Cabinet as long as Johnson felt necessary.

—August: With no firm successor lined up, Woods worked out an arrangement to remain as bank president until Dec. 31, 1968, with a proviso that he would leave earlier if a successor were found.

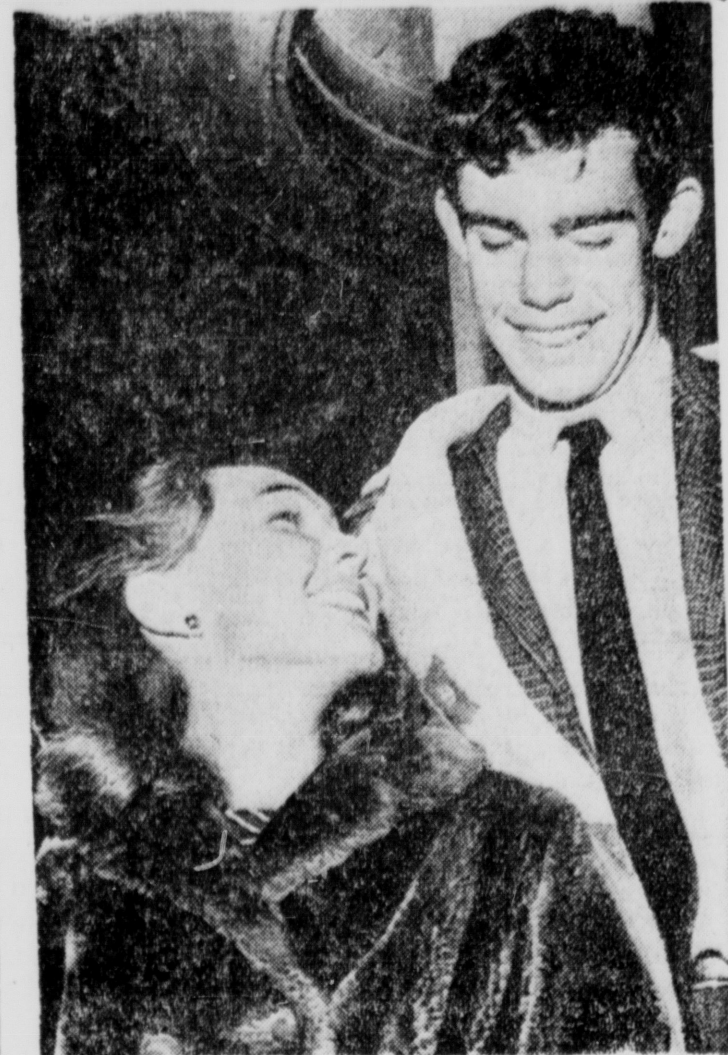

—September: Directors of the bank worked out an agreement that the United States would propose, by Oct. 31, one or more candidates for the bank presidency.

—Mid-October: Johnson told McNamara that candidates

Nov. 13: Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler met with Johnson, who told him McNamara is his only choice for the bank post.

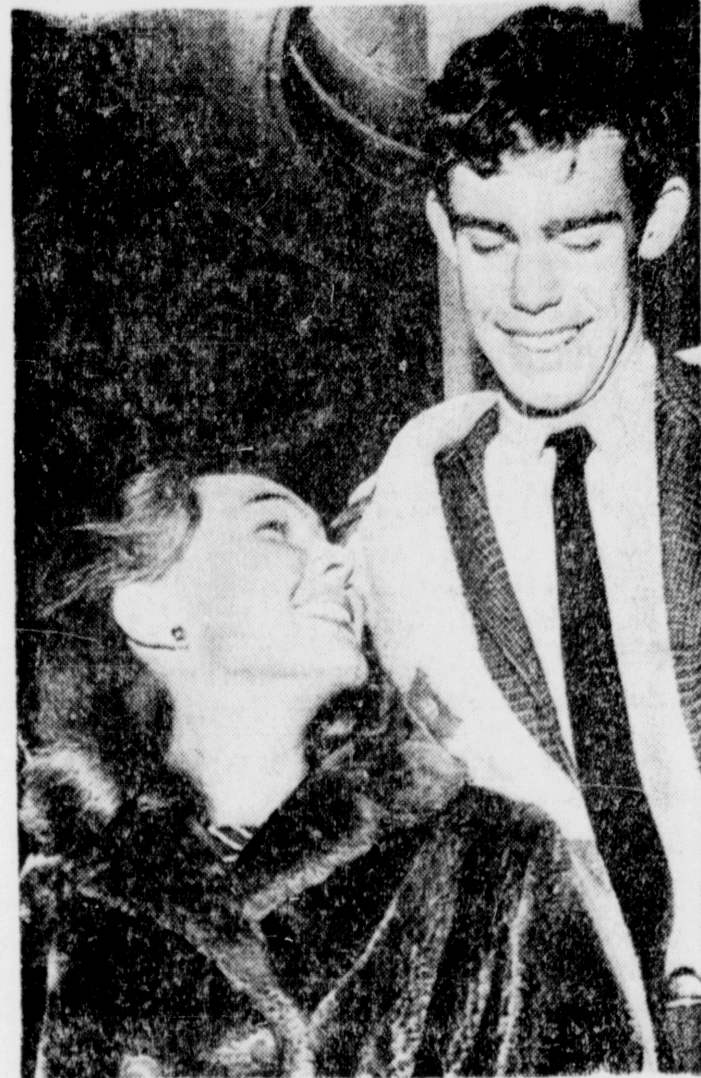

Nov. 16: Fowler met at the Treasury with Woods and Livingston Merchant, U.S. director of the bank, and all agreed McNamara is their man.

Nov. 19 or 20: Woods phoned McNamara and told him Johnson backed the McNamara candidacy and that his name would be placed in nomination Nov. 21.

Nov. 21: Merchant proposed McNamara to the World Bank directors.

Nov. 27: News of the McNamara candidacy started leaking to newsmen in foreign capitals. McNamara and Johnson conferred about the matter and the defense secretary said he would take a "no comment" stance.

Nov. 29: Directors of the bank formally offered McNamara the presidency.

Given 5 Years

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A North Adams man was sentenced Thursday to a five-year prison term for the kidnaping a month ago of a high school girl, who was held for several hours in a cabin in the woods.

Clarence J. Sullivan pleaded guilty to the kidnap charge before Judge Vincent R. Brogna in Berkshire Superior Court.

Louis H. Poirot Jr., 16, charged with Sullivan, was placed on probation for two years with a one-year sentence suspended.

The two also were charged with armed robbery and assault with a dangerous weapon.

DeGaulle Struck Home

David Lawrence in his column on this page points out that France should start paying off its huge war debts to the United States for money borrowed in World War 1 and World War 2. Since General de Gaulle wants to pursue an independent course, economically as well as militarily, this would seem logical.

Instead of showing some signs of gratitude for this help, de Gaulle, the troublemaker, warns Quebec that it must be prepared for invasion by the United States. However, along with this display of thanklessness and pure nonsense, he struck home when he chided the United States and Great Britain for spending far in excess of their incomes. Britain's deficit caused its present financial trouble and the current U.S. budget deficit of some $30 billion looks shakier than it did with the British devaluation.

Even with devaluation, the British have a long way to go, with no assurance that they may not have to further lower the value of the pound. Should the pound be further downgraded, there is little hope that the dollar won't also slide downward, our leading economists warn us. The United States, as General de Gaulle notes, is leaning heavily on the dollar to keep its financial ship in order, but dollars, when all is said and done, are paper, and they must have gold backing to have any value. Should there be recurrences of the gold buying of earlier this week, it could knock the props out from under the dollar. And the more we spend that we haven't got, the worse the situation becomes.

Briefly, to illustrate the trouble we could be heading for: At present foreign traders are holding about $16 billion they have received from the U.S. Should all this be cashed in at once for gold, unlikely, nevertheless a possibility—the U.S. Treasury would be $3 billion short of satisfying the demand. Imagine the prospects, then. Fortunately, we have thus far got foreign countries to hold onto our dollars, but that situation can always change.

De Gaulle's plan is simple to understand but dangerous. He would have the world go on a gold standard, meaning that all barter would be with gold or an equivalent. If a nation ran out of gold, it would be all done, as far as the world's markets were concerned. While deficits are not to be desired, anything as rigid as the de Gaulle plan might spell disaster for a country that, while today it couldn't meet its obligations, could very easily do so in a short time.

The ironic part of Le Grand Charles' twitting, of course, is that France owes us something like $6 billion, counting interest, from her World War I debt with no intention of paying it. Even more ironic is the fact that twice we have bailed France out of more than just economic disaster with the blood of American boys. So it's doubly hard to swallow the lesson in economics when it comes from President de Gaulle. But the cold hard fact is that should we be forced to devalue the dollar international chaos would follow, and the Depression of the 1930s would be as nothing compared to what would ensue. Penny-pinching must be the order of the day, and this must begin with the Johnson Administration and its reckless spending must be stopped.

What General de Gaulle said about the precarious U.S. monetary situation has been said many times over by responsible people in and out of Congress, but it has received nothing more than token acknowledgement. Even though there's little else we can thank the French President for, if his criticism does wake up the U.S. to its danger, than thanks for that we do owe him.

Helping Alcoholics

Contrary to the commonly held theory that alcoholism is a disease, Edward J. McGoldrick Jr. held that it was a habit and that only an alcoholic can help an alcoholic. Putting his theory to the test, in the last quarter century he saw several thousands, more than half all those who submitted to his treatment, fully recovered.

McGoldrick was the son of a state Supreme Court Justice of New York. A lawyer, he took to drinking heavily. After rehabilitating himself, he resolved to attempt to cure others. He founded Bridge House, a large clublike house where alcoholics could go for treatment.

His tenets of faith, which he called "Suggestions for Alcoholics," became a guide for his work. They are summed up in these avowals: "I refuse to amuse others with my drinking escapades of the past. My abnormal drinking was pathetic, not funny. If I pray for help, I can't expect God to throw a miracle. An alcoholic is made, not born. Heredity is not the cause. That excuse is an age-old dodge to avoid seeing myself as I really am."

McGoldrick just died of a heart attack. His work, of helping alcoholics to help themselves out of the doldrums, will go on at Bridge House and, nationwide, through his recent book, "The Conquest of Alcohol, a Handbook of Self-Therapy."

David Lawrence Says

France Should Start Paying Debts to U.S.

WASHINGTON — Maybe the time has come for the United States Government to become as hardboiled in its relations with the French Government as President De Gaulle has revealed himself to be in his attitude towards this country. He insisted that American military forces get out of France last year, and now is seeking to repulse what he regards as an economic and financial "invasion" by the United States.

America can, however, become realistic, too, and ask France to pay back the money borrowed from this country in World War I and World War II. Members of Congress are urging this. The unpaid bill runs as follows:

1. World War I debts of France to the United States include 4.1 billion dollars of original loans and 3.2 billions of interest charges. There has been a repayment of only 488 million dollars, made mostly in the early 1920s. So the total bill to date is nearly 6.9 billion dollars.

2. Of the foregoing sum, 5.1 billion dollars is past due and in default, and principal payments of 1.8 billion are payable in future years.

3. In the period after World War II ended, France borrowed 2.5 billion dollars from the United States, most of it before 1950. Of this sum, 2.2 billions have been repaid, some of it in advance of the due date, so there is only about 300 million dollars of World War II debt outstanding.

Contrary to the general impression, the debts owed by France for money borrowed in World War I have never been cancelled by the United States, though a deferment was granted during the Hoover Administration because of the international financial crisis. The last French payment of World War I debts was made in 1931. Up to that time, France had paid off about 226 million dollars of its debt, leaving 3.9 billion dollars of loans still to be paid. There the situation has remained ever since, with no payments on principal or interest.

France has given as the reason for nonpayment the fact that Germany did not pay its World War I reparations to France. The United States Government, however, has always maintained the position that there is no connection between the two debts. Some 2 billion dollars in loans to France have matured and are past due, plus interest. The United States considers this to be a valid obligation.

It would help the balance-of-payments problem of this country if the French government paid its debts to the United States government. Due to the outflow of gold, all sorts of restraints are being placed nowadays on the export of funds by American businesses to Europe. Legally, France has the option of paying its war debts in gold or in any legal tender of the United States.

French gold stocks currently amount to about 5.2 billion dollars, more than three times the 1.6 billion held by France at the end of 1960. Certainly there is a greater need for this gold to be paid to the United States than to be hoarded by France.

The United States, on the other hand, has spent big sums for the defense of France by means of the NATO Alliance and in otherwise providing for the safety of western European peoples, plus economic aid. But today this country has only 12.9 billion dollars in gold, as contrasted with 17.8 billion it held at the end of 1960.

The United States has to keep 10 billion dollars of gold as a reserve to back its paper money, and it now has left less than 3 billion to meet potential foreign claims of ten times that figure. So payment by France of its debts would be a real benefit to the United States.

Very little was said in government circles here during the 1950s about the World War I debts, as it was considered more tactful to wait till the European debtors could get into a healthier financial situation. But France has already reached that point. Since de Gaulle has made it clear that he wants to pursue an independent course, economically as well as militarily, it would seem logical for the United States to ask the French government to begin to pay its debts and help establish in the world a sounder financial condition. For much of the French gold should flow to the United States, which is legally and morally entitled to it, especially since this country's loss of gold is due to a philanthropic interest in Europe. This deserves at least some acts of gratitude on the part of France.

Drew Pearson Says Capitol Hill Military Hawks Were Out to 'Get' McNamara

WASHINGTON — Three years ago, Rep. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, the resourceful and able third-ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, called in one of the authors of this column and asked co-operation in a plan to "get" Secretary of Defense McNamara.

The plan included keeping the new chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, sober and using him to battle against the civilian boss of the Pentagon, whom the generals, the admirals and the hawks on Capitol Hill hated. Hebert expressed the hope that this column would not report on Rivers' alcoholic binges.

Today, three years later, the hawks and the military have "got" their man.

The exit of Robert McNamara, only Secretary of Defense in history who has stood up against the military, came about on his own initiative, primarily because he felt he had lost his usefulness on Capitol Hill. He knew that the President sets great store on good relations with the Hill, and that enemies on the Hill were planning to explode three time bombs against McNamara during the election year. They were:

Bomb No. 1—Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., would publish the bitter criticism of their civilian chief by generals and admirals.

Bomb No. 2—Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., would continue his hearings on the TFX airplane contract.

Bomb No. 3—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., showed no sign suspending his hearings on McNamara's civilian control of the Pentagon.

These and other factors had caused McNamara to consider for some time retiring as Secretary of Defense. He figured that if he did so next year, an election year, it would hurt Lyndon Johnson politically. This was the last thing he wanted to do. The President has shown great loyalty to the Secretary of Defense. So McNamara made the decision to announce his retirement now.

Doubts Over Bombing

Other factors were also involved. In addition to his sour relations on Capitol Hill which he knew concerned a President who had served 26 years on the Hill, McNamara had nagging concern in his own conscience over bombing of North Vietnam. He had gone along with it, but he had reservations, and some of his blunt doubts upset the generals and admirals.

He was among the very close circle of advisers consulted by the President about extending the bombing holiday this Christmas and New Year's, and was strong for it. However, since Gen. William Westmoreland's visit to Washington, the President has indicated he was not going to take McNamara's advice.

There has also been a running-fire series of disagreements with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. These have not been abrasive or bitter. They have been sincere and reasonable, differences between men who had the welfare of their country at heart. But the hawks on Capitol Hill have fanned them into disturbing proportions.

The chief differences were:

1. The TFX Contract, over which McNamara got Admiral George Anderson transferred from Chief of Naval Operations to be ambassador to Portugal. On this, McNamara was proved wrong. The TFX has not been suitable for Navy carriers.

2. Nuclear Ships, which the Admirals wanted but which McNamara overruled on the ground of cost-effectiveness. He keeps hammering on this. The military keep hammering on national security regardless of cost.

3. ABM System. This also involved security vs. cost efficiency. McNamara argued that scientific progress was so fast that the anti-ballistic missile system would be out of date before it was built, that there was no use spending $40 billion on it.

A compromise was reached whereby we are spending $5 billion on a thin ABM system to protect against Chinese missiles. Privately McNamara still feels this is $5 billion down the drain.

4. Manpower. Westmoreland still wants more than 525,000 men in Vietnam, though he's taking this figure as the minimum. On this, McNamara is in the middle between the military and the President, who doesn't want to call out the reserves or increase the draft. McNamara, however, feels Westmoreland has been extravagant with men, used too many on housekeeping chores, rather than combat; hasn't trained enough South Vietnamese.

The McNamara Line

5. The Electronic Barrier. The military have contended this was foolish, tied up too many troops to build and guard it; that the construction crews and defending Marines are already under North Vietnam artillery fire.

6. The Chief Difference, however, has been over bombing North Vietnam. The military leaders have always pressed for more and more targets. McNamara has held back on risky targets. He has been flatly opposed to bombing too close to the Chinese line, or against hitting the docks in Haiphong Harbor.

In the end, the generals and admirals generally have won. We are now bombing within seven miles of the Chinese border and the warehouses not far from the Haiphong docks.

The military complain that in the end the Secretary of Defense comes around to their viewpoint, but only after a delay which gives the enemy time to strengthen defenses around targets.

The Joint Chiefs are loyal to McNamara, and once a decision is made they stick to it. However, the differences have continued; at times they have run deep. Therefore, the only Secretary of Defense in history who has carried out the law that civilians shall run the all-powerful Department of Defense which spends two-thirds of the national budget, is now bowing out to the generals, the admirals and to the hawks on Capitol Hill.

There is something spectacular about a man stepping out of a shower, reaching for a towel, holding a scotch in one hand and an open newspaper in the other, and watching his bifocals slide down his nose. Joe E. Lewis did it. With all the grace of a panicky basketball player going over Niagara Falls in a cracker box.

It had no effect on his assortment of ailments, none of which occupy his attention because they are chronic. He wears an old bathing cap with blowout patches, and he has a figure like eighty cents worth of bubble gum. The step out of the shower was not filmed by James Wong Howe, or any other lens poet. It was done alone at El Rancho, in Las Vegas, where Mr. Lewis goes to give his money a vacation.

He was laying himself out to five he wouldn't make it, and lost. The toilet-sies touched the tile outside the tub, and held. If they hadn't, Joe E. Lewis would have executed the old one-and-a-half with twist, and after restoring his strength with the Johnny Walker plasma, would have phoned the bungalow next door and asked for Arturo Petterino, a remarkable maitre d' from the Eden Roc in Miami Beach.

Mr. Petterino is tall, dark, handsome and goes to mass regularly to ask God for the morning line on the horses. He is the only man who, before a track opens, makes dry runs in his automobile to find out which is the fastest way to get to the clubhouse. Arturo is a young man. Lewis isn't. Arturo is Joe E. Lewis' keeper. When Lewis begins to mumble, which sometimes occurs before noon, Arturo slams him into the sack and hides the plasma.

This is done with affection. Lewis is a great performer; that most of his fans never heard of one called Jerry. He had a stroke or two recently, so he holed up in the Warwick Hotel in New York and began to count his annuities. Then he went to Las Vegas with Arturo to bet a few bob on anything that would spin, flip, tumble or light up.

Two nights before the shower episode, he had lost his money clip. This is 14 karat, like most of Joe's observations, and it held several one hundred dollar bills that this clown keeps on hand in case he has to spring himself for small crimes, like walking smack into skyscrapers.

He didn't whine about the money clip. But he tossed it at Arturo, who reminded his idol that Lewis has, on frequent occasions, lost everything including his memory. Now he came out of the shower, drinking, reading, scratching the shower cap and, over the top of the newspaper, saw a friendly spider doing a soft shoe routine along the base of the wall.

Lewis pretended to continue to read. "My friend," he said, "you have exactly eight seconds to live. Just long enough for me to get one slipper." The spider paused. "Poor ploy," said Lewis. "I do not believe in sportsmanship and I will flush you before the whack. You have six seconds." He reached down, as nude as a dressed chicken and picked up the slipper. "I lose the money clip," he intoned, "and you lose your life. This is the moment of truth, Feet." Mr. Lewis hauled off and hit the floor a mighty whack. He missed. The spider ran backward along the wall. In panic, Lewis slammed again. And again.

Arturo, who can take Lewis' pulse from a block away, was in bed next door listening. He thought that Joe was giving himself a Swedish switching. If so, he was doing it with a log. He got out of bed. Joe dropped his glasses, lost the paper, and finished the scotch. Then he whacked again and the spider ran under a clothes hamper, which was like hopping into a Russian tank.

Joe grabbed the hamper and yanked it aside. With one tremendous whack he dispatched the spider to his eternal reward, a place where all the demigods have a foot fetish. Then he leaned against the basin and began a little unhandicapped breathing. "You lasted 15 seconds, my friend," said the comic. That's seven seconds on borrowed time.

Arturo Petterino burst into the bungalow and Lewis dropped the slipper. He pointed to the remains of Feet, imprinted in the bathroom tile. "Stupid," he said, "thought I was reading. But I got him."

Then he crouched beside the hamper and picked up his money clip and the assortment of hundred dollar bills, now exposed on the floor. Arturo shook his head. "You thought the maid took it. You thought the bellboy took it. You accused the waiter. You even had a bead eye on me." "All I can say," intoned Lewis, "is that the real crook just paid the extreme penalty."

War May Take Tougher Turn With McNamara's Departure

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara's almost mysterious switch in jobs from secretary of defense to the presidency of the World Bank is just a bout complete after a public relations m-x-up with few equals.

Although McNamara as secretary has one of the most important posts in government, the news of his leaving came not as a public announcement at the White House but as a report from London last Monday.

It wasn't until Wednesday night that President Johnson and McNamara, in separate public announcements, confirmed it.

On Monday the London Financial Times reported McNamara's departure on the basis of information supplied by a World Bank director. That afternoon at a news briefing in the White House the President's press secretary, George Christian, was asked about the report. His reply was, "no comment."

This was almost the same as saying, "It's true." It would have been indeed strange if such a story about a man in such a high position was untrue and the White House didn't hasten to refute it.

say nothing — and they went to work on them and got answers.

As a result the Tuesday morning papers were able to say flatly that Johnson had nominated McNamara for the bank presidency. It wasn't certain McNamara would get the job until the board of directors approved.

But it was about as certain as anything could be because an American has headed the bank since it was opened for business in 1945. However, the board was not scheduled to meet until Wednesday.

Since the board was almost certain to approve McNamara, which it did Wednesday afternoon, the reticence of Johnson and McNamara in saying anything until the board acted could be interpreted as deference to the board or a desire not to be accused of trying to pressure it.

Shortly after McNamara got approval — the board will ask him formally to be president after some other necessary steps are taken — he issued a statement saying he is resigning as defense secretary to be president of the bank. Johnson followed this speedily with a statement of his own. The President spoke in the highest terms of McNamara's service in the Defense Department but, to this writer, his language seemed rigid if not frigid.

And there was even a bit of the mysterious in what the two men said.

McNamara said that last April the outgoing president of the bank, George D. Woods, asked him if he would be interested in being president, and added the secretary didn't have to make a decision then.

McNamara said he was interested in the kind of job the bank does — helping in the economic development of backward countries — and told Johnson later about his conversation with Woods.

In October, McNamara said, Johnson told him the nomination for bank president would soon have to be made and asked if McNamara was still interested. The secretary said he was.

UN Assembly Head Sees War End If U.S. Stopped Bombing

By BETTY FLYNN
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 29 — The president of the General Assembly has re-emphasized his assertion that the war in Vietnam might be ended if the United States stopped bombing.

"Cessation or intensification of air raids is a question of paramount importance," said Corneliu Murescu, the Romanian foreign minister, who holds the top Assembly post this session.

"By (stopping the bombing), conditions would be created that would lead toward initiating positive steps toward peace."

His remarks, made yesterday at a luncheon for UN correspondents, were viewed as significant by diplomats in the context of two developments outside the United Nations.

The current visit of U. S. Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman to the Romanian capital of Bucharest, considered a key listening post for diplomatic tremors from Hanoi.

The departure of Robert S. McNamara from his job as Defense Secretary, which has touched off speculation here and in Washington that a significant escalation can be expected in Vietnam.

Manescu said Harriman will be told his government's views that the Vietnamese war is "unjust" and that the Romanians feel the Vietnamese people should be left to "decide their future and their fate according to their own wishes."

He recommended that the Geneva Agreements of 1954 be used as a basis for negotiations.

"The Vietnamese will never agree to discuss any settlement under pressure of intensification of air raids or escalation of the war," he declared.

U. S. Ambassador to the UN Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov exchanged a few words on Vietnam yesterday afternoon during an Assembly debate.

Kuznetsov charged that the United States and other countries were "using" armed forces to repress the aspirations of peoples for independence.

Goldberg then rose to the podium and invited Kuznetsov to step down the hall to the Security Council Chamber if he wished to debate on Vietnam.

"We are in Vietnam to help the people... exercise their rights... free from force... and when that purpose is achieved, we will leave," Goldberg said. "We do not covet one square inch of Vietnam."

Diplomats here believe that recent events in Cyprus have interfered with U. S. efforts to initiate a Security Council meeting on Vietnam. The Russians oppose such a meeting, stating that it would be meaningless without the participation of North Vietnam.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 1, 1967

DeGaulle Struck Home

David Lawrence in his column on this page points out that France should start paying off its huge war debts to the United States for money borrowed in World War I and World War II. Since General de Gaulle wants to pursue an independent course, economically as well as militarily, this would seem logical.

Instead of showing some signs of gratitude for this help, de Gaulle, the troublemaker, warns Quebec that it must be prepared for invasion by the United States. However, along with this display of thanklessness and pure nonsense, he struck home when he chided the United States and Great Britain for spending far in excess of their incomes. Britain's deficit caused its present financial trouble and the current U.S. budget deficit of some $30 billion looks shakier than it did with the British devaluation.

Even with devaluation, the British have a long way to go, with no assurance that they may not have to further lower the value of the pound. Should the pound be further downgraded, there is little hope that the dollar won't also slide downward, our leading economists warn us. The United States, as General de Gaulle notes, is leaning heavily on the dollar to keep its financial ship in order, but dollars, when all is said and done, are paper, and they must have gold backing to have any value. Should there be recurrences of the gold buying of earlier this week, it could knock the props out from under the dollar. And the more we spend that we haven't got, the worse the situation becomes.

Briefly, to illustrate the trouble we could be heading for: At present foreign traders are holding about $16 billion they have received from the U.S. Should all this be cashed in at once for gold—unlikely, nevertheless a possibility—the U.S. Treasury would be $3 billion short of satisfying the demand. Imagine the prospects, then. Fortunately, we have thus far got foreign countries to hold onto our dollars, but that situation can always change.

De Gaulle's plan is simple to understand but dangerous. He would have the world go on a gold standard, meaning that all paper would be with gold or an equivalent. If a nation ran out of gold, it would be all done, as far as the world's markets were concerned. While deficits are not to be desired, anything as rigid as the de Gaulle plan might spell disaster for a country that, while today it couldn't meet its obligations, could very easily do so in a short time.

The ironic part of Le Grand Charles' twitting, of course, is that France owes us something like $6 billion, counting interest, from her World War I debt with no intention of paying it. Even more ironic is the fact that twice we have bailed France out of more than just economic disaster with the blood of American boys. So it's doubly hard to swallow the lesson in economics when it comes from President de Gaulle. But the cold hard fact is that should we be forced to devalue the dollar international chaos would follow, and the Depression of the 1930s would be as nothing compared to what would ensue. Penny-pinching must be the order of the day, and this must begin with the Johnson Administration and its reckless spending must be stopped.

What General de Gaulle said about the precarious U.S. monetary situation has been said many times over by responsible people in and out of Congress, but it has received nothing more than token acknowledgement. Even though there's little else we can thank the French President for, if his criticism does wake up the U.S. to its danger, than thanks for that we do owe him.

Helping Alcoholics

Contrary to the commonly held theory that alcoholism is a disease, Edward J. McGoldrick Jr. held that it was a habit and that only an alcoholic can help an alcoholic. Putting his theory to the test, in the last quarter century he saw several thousands, more than half all those who submitted to his treatment, fully recovered.

McGoldrick was the son of a state Supreme Court Justice of New York. A lawyer, he took to drinking heavily. After rehabilitating himself, he resolved to attempt to cure others. He founded Bridge House, a large clublike house where alcoholics could go for treatment.

His tenets of faith, which he called "Suggestions for Alcoholics," became a guide for his work. They are summed up in these avowals: "I refuse to amuse others with my drinking escapades of the past. My abnormal drinking was pathetic, not funny. If I pray for help, I can't expect God to throw a miracle. An alcoholic is made, not born. Heredity is not the cause. That excuse is an age-old dodge to avoid seeing myself as I really am."

McGoldrick just died of a heart attack. His work, of helping alcoholics to help themselves out of the doldrums, will go on at Bridge House and, nationwide, through his recent book, "The Conquest of Alcohol, a Handbook of Self-Therapy."

"We've Stopped the Bombing, Removed Our Troops and Fired Those Fellows in Saigon. Now Can We Have a Little Chat?"

David Lawrence Says

France Should Start Paying Debts to U.S.

WASHINGTON — Maybe the time has come for the United States Government to become as hardboiled in its relations with the French Government as President De Gaulle has revealed himself to be in his attitude towards this country. He insisted that American military forces get out of France last year, and now is seeking to repulse what he regards as an economic and financial "invasion" by the United States.

America can, however, become realistic, too, and ask France to pay back the money borrowed from this country in World War I and World War II. Members of Congress are urging this. The unpaid bill runs as follows:

1. World War I debts of France to the United States include 4.1 billion dollars of original loans and 3.2 billions of interest charges. There has been a repayment of only 488 million dollars, made mostly in the early 1920s. So the total bill to date is nearly 6.9 billion dollars.

2. Of the fore-going sum, 5.1 billion dollars is past due and in default, and principal payments of 1.8 billion are payable in future years.

3. In the period after World War II ended, France borrowed 2.5 billion dollars from the United States, most of it before 1950. Of this sum, 2.2 billions have been repaid, some of it in advance of the due date, so there is only about 300 million dollars of World War II debt outstanding.

Contrary to the general impression, the debts owed by France for money borrowed in World War I have never been cancelled by the United States, though a deferment was granted during the Hoover Administration because of the international financial crisis. The last French payment of World War I debts was made in 1931. Up to that time, France had paid off about 226 million dollars of its debt, leaving 3.9 billion dollars still to be paid. There the situation has remained ever since, with no payments on principal or interest.

France has given as the reason for nonpayment the fact that Germany did not pay its World War I reparations to France. The United States Government, however, has always maintained the position that there is no connection between the two debts. Some 2 billion dollars in loans to France have matured and are past due, plus interest.

The United States considers this to be a valid obligation. It would help the balance-of-payments problem of this country if the French government paid its debts to the United States government.

Due to the outflow of gold, all sorts of restraints are being placed nowadays on the export of funds by American businesses to Europe. Legally, France has the option of paying its war debts in gold or in any legal tender of the United States.

French gold stocks currently amount to about 5.2 billion dollars, more than three times the 1.6 billion held by France at the end of 1960. Certainly there is a greater need for this gold to be paid to the United States than to be hoarded by France.

The United States, on the other hand, has spent big sums for the defense of NATO by means of the NATO Alliance and in other-wise providing for the safety of western European peoples, plus economic aid. But today this country has only 12.9 billion dollars in gold, as contrasted with 17.8 billion it held at the end of 1960.

The United States has to keep 10 billion dollars of gold as a reserve to back its paper money, and it now has left less than 3 billion to meet potential foreign claims of ten times that figure. So payment by France of its debts would be a real benefit to the United States.

Very little was said in government circles here during the 1950s about the World War I debts, as it was considered more tactful to wait till the European debtors could get into a healthier financial situation. But France has already reached that point. Since de Gaulle has made it clear that he wants to pursue an independent course, economically as well as militarily, it would seem logical for the United States to ask the French government to begin to pay its debts and help establish in the world a sounder financial condition. For much of the French gold should flow to the United States, which is legally and morally entitled to it, especially since this country's loss of gold is due to a philanthropic interest in Europe. This deserves at least some acts of gratitude on the part of France.

Drew Pearson Says Capitol Hill Military, Hawks Were Out to 'Get' McNamara

WASHINGTON — Three years ago, Rep. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, the resourceful and able third-ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, called in one of the authors of this column and asked co-operation in a plan to "get" Secretary of Defense McNamara.

The plan included keeping the new chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, sober and using him to battle against the civilian boss of the Pentagon, whom the generals, the admirals and the hawks on Capitol Hill hated. Hebert expressed the hope that this column would not report on Rivers' alcoholic binges.

Today, three years later, the hawks and the military have "got" their man.

The exit of Robert McNamara, only Secretary of Defense in history who has stood up against the military, came about on his own initiative, primarily because he felt he had lost his usefulness on Capitol Hill. He knew that the President sets great store on good relations with the Hill, and that enemies on the Hill were planning to explode three time bombs against McNamara during the election year. Joe grabbed the hamper and yanked it aside. With one tremendous whack he dispatched the spider to his eternal reward, a place where all the demigods have a foot fetish. Then he leaned against the basin and began a little unhindered breathing. "You lasted 15 seconds, my friend," said the comic. That's seven seconds on borrowed time.

Arturo Patterino burst into the bungalow and Lewis dropped the slipper. He pointed to the remains of Feet, imprinted in the bathroom tile. "Stupid," he said, "thought I was reading. But I got him."

Then he crouched beside the hamper and picked up his money clip and the assortment of hundred dollar bills, now exposed on the floor. Arturo shook his head. "You thought the maid took it. You thought the bellboy took it. You accused the waiter. You even had a bead eye on me."

"All I can say," intoned Lewis, "is that the real crook just paid the extreme penalty."

UN Assembly Head Sees War End If U.S. Stopped Bombing

By BETTY FLYNN

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

UNITED NATIONS, Nov. 29 — The President of the General Assembly has re-emphasized his assertion that the war in Vietnam might be ended if the United States stopped bombing.

Cessation or intensification of air raids is a question of paramount importance," said Corneliu Murescu, the Romanian foreign minister, who holds the top Assembly post this session.

"By (stopping the bombing), conditions would be created that would lead toward initiating positive steps toward peace."

His remarks, made yesterday at a luncheon for UN correspondents, were viewed as significant by diplomats in the context of two developments outside the United Nations:

The current visit of U. S. Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman to the Romanian capital of Bucharest, considered a key listening post for diplomatic tremors from Hanoi.

The departure of Robert S. McNamara from his job as Defense Secretary, which has touched off speculation here and in Washington that a significant escalation can be expected in Vietnam.

Manescu said Harriman will be told his government's views that the Vietnamese war is "unjust" and that the Romanians feel the Vietnamese people should be left to "decide their future and their fate according to their own wishes."

He recommended that the Geneva Agreements of 1954 be used as a basis for negotiations.

"The Vietnamese will never agree to discuss any settlement under pressure of intensification of air raids or escalation of the war," he declared.

U. S. Ambassador to the UN Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov exchanged a few words on Vietnam yesterday afternoon during an Assembly debate.

Kuznetsov charged that the United States and other countries were "using armed forces to repress the aspirations of peoples for independence."

Goldberg then rose to the podium and invited Kuznetsov to step down the hall to the Security Council Chamber if he wished to debate on Vietnam.

"We are in Vietnam to help the people . . . exercise their rights . . . free from force . . . and when that purpose is achieved, we will leave," Goldberg said. "We do not covet one square inch of Vietnam."

Diplomats here believe that recent events in Cyprus have interfered with U. S. efforts to initiate a Security Council meeting on Vietnam. The Russians oppose such a meeting, stating that it would be meaningless without the participation of North Vietnam.

Supreme Court Must Decide on Laws Barring Welfare to New Residents

WASHINGTON (AP) — In 1941, a unanimous Supreme Court decided California could no longer make it a crime to bring a poor man into the state.

California had argued to no avail that a huge influx of Depression migrants had increased the state's taxes and the cost of welfare outlays. The California law, said Justice James F. Byrnes, posed an unconstitutional barrier to the interstate movement of "commerce"—which to the 1941 Court meant people as well as goods.

Gives Reason

The states, said Byrnes, cannot write laws to isolate themselves "from difficulties common to all of them by restraining the transportation of persons and property" across their borders.

Now, 26 years later, the Supreme Court is being called upon to decide if the states can protect themselves against increased welfare costs by barring aid to new residents.

Three federal courts—in Connecticut, Delaware and the District of Columbia—have ruled out such residency requirements.

Connecticut has appealed to the Supreme Court and Delaware, at least, is expected to join.

Elsewhere in the nation's courts the attack on residency barriers continues, with the open support of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Said Earl Johnson Jr., director of the OEO's Legal Services Program, after the Connecticut case had been struck down: "Once the challenge is made, the illegality has come clear. Hopefully, this process of refinement will continue."

One year without losing federal money.

Last year, according to government figures, $2,265,346,000 was spent on the aid to dependent children program, with the federal contribution — $1,299,940,000 — accounting for 57.4 per cent.

The latest figures, for July 1967, show 4,978,000 persons assisted.

There probably is no accurate way of determining how many would-be recipients were kept off the rolls by residency requirements. For one thing, explained Peter Smith, a lawyer with Neighborhood Legal Services here, social agencies advise the poor against applying when they know they haven't been in the state long enough to qualify.

Connecticut aside, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare lists only nine states as not having residency requirements for the program. They are Alaska, Georgia, Hawaii, Kentucky, Maine, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Medical Group to Elect Tuesday Night

The annual meeting of the Medical Society of the County of Ulster will be held Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The dinner meeting at 7:30 p.m. will be preceded by a social hour beginning at 6:30.

Scheduled business includes the election of five members of the board of censors, delegates and certain standing committees.

$132 Million Counties Levied Welfare Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A survey of the state's 57 counties outside New York City shows they levied a total of $132 million in taxes for welfare purposes this year, State Comptroller

Arthur Levitt reported today. In publishing results of the survey, Levitt also noted that New York City has set aside $267.2 million of its tax revenues for welfare during its current fiscal year. The comptroller said his surveys "should provide a valuable basis for research" on the question of whether the state should take over the local governments' share of welfare costs.

Dr. Lewis M. Neporent, treasurer, has resigned and will be succeeded by Dr. Charles A. Galyon by appointment of the president with the approval of the Comitia Minora.

Buffalo Smoke Fells Children; Girl 1, Dies

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Three young children were overcome by smoke inhalation, one fatally, Thursday when a minor fire erupted in their East Side home. Their mother was unable to help them because she was locked out of the apartment.

One-year-old Jennifer Aigner died shortly after arrival at Emergency Hospital. Her sister, Deborah, 4, and brother, Michael, 2, were transferred to Children's Hospital, where they were listed in serious condition. Firemen said a short circuit in a bedroom lamp triggered the smoky blaze, which caused damage estimated at $200.

The mother, Mrs. David Aigner, was doing laundry elsewhere in the two-family house when the fire began. She was unable to come to the children's aid because one of the youngsters apparently had snapped the lock on a kitchen door for which she had no spare key, a neighbor said.

Firemen, summoned by Mrs. Aigner, smashed through a rear door and carried the children out.

The apartment is at 71 Weaver St.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Dec. 1, 1947 — An inquest was scheduled to determine the cause of an accident which resulted in the deaths of three workers on the New York City aqueduct near Jeffersonville.

The alertness of Mrs. John Frederick Jr. in discovering a fire in the J. J. Hoy building on Rt. 9W was believed to have helped hold damage to a minimum.

Dec. 1, 1957 — Christopher Rappolt, 50, was killed in a collision on the Washington Avenue viaduct. The driver of the other car was charged with criminal negligence.

Four deer hunters were shot accidentally while hunting in the area, one severely with a bullet wound in the stomach.

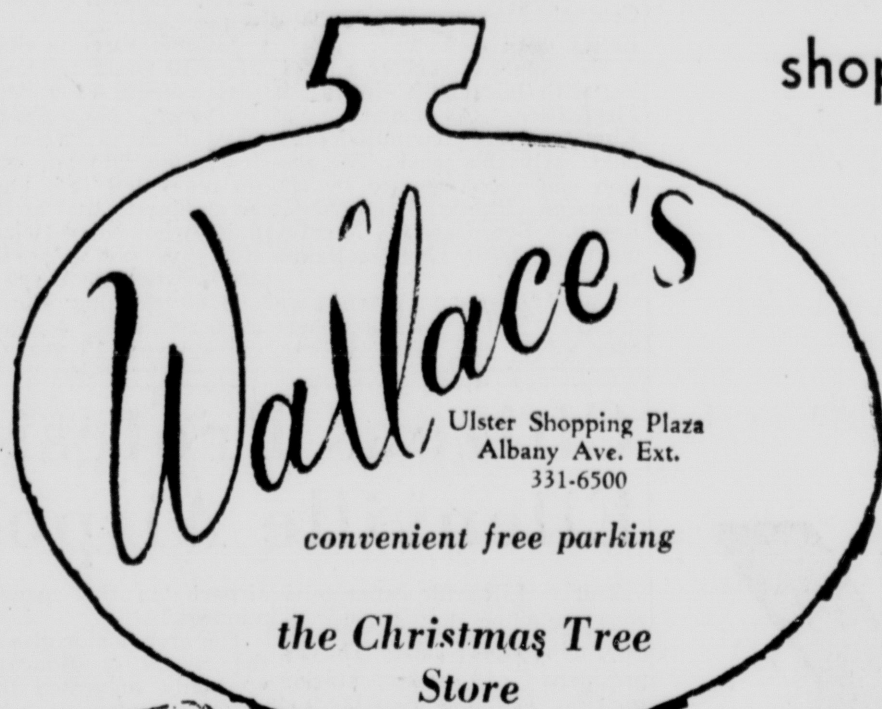

Illegal Search

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Four Kansas Wesleyan students are contending that officers illegally searched their quarters to obtain evidence supporting marijuana charges against the students.

Arguments were set for today and Monday in the preliminary hearings of William Strangfeld of Ramsey, N.J.; Ken Von Schrititz, Clay Center, Kan., 19; Phillip Banks, 19, New Rochelle, N.Y., and Melvin Rose, 19, Beaver, Pa.

Another student, James Shields, 19, of North Arlington, N. J., waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in Saline County District Court. Already bound over for trial was Joseph Levoti, 22, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Officials said they seized 20 pounds of marijuana in raids on half a dozen Salina places Oct. 31.

Levitt Bucking Rocky on Tax Hike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt sought today to flag down Gov. Rockefeller's obvious drive for a major increase in state taxes next year.

Adopting the "fiscal watchdog" posture he savors, Levitt issued a statement Thursday calling on the Legislature to exert every effort "to ease the impact of any required new taxation."

Without mentioning Rockefeller by name, the Democratic office-holder took direct issue with the governor's recent warnings that demands for greater state spending would force a tax boost.

"It is being said that new programs and enriched aid formulas are put forth in answer to a demand by the people," Levitt said. "But the state government cannot be completely permissive. We have reached the point at which an order of priority, based on economic realities, has to be established."

Rockefeller has said that, if the state grants present requests for more school aid and more help in meeting Medicaid costs, budget spending next year would exceed revenue by at least $600 million.

The obvious solution, Rockefeller says, is to raise taxes. He has not specified what taxes might be increased, however.

Levitt said his own staff had made a study showing the present tax structure would fall about $525 million short of spending needs in the next fiscal year. The following year, he said, the gap would rise to about $650 million.

"In the face of a prospective federal income tax increase and the actuality of widespread local tax rises," he continued, "it is necessary for the state to do all it can to avoid imposing a further burden on the taxpayers."

Accordingly, he urged the Legislature "to examine critically all state programs and activities."

He also recommended stretching out the highway building program "to improve competition and reduce the growing inflationary trend." He suggested using cash appropriations to finance it, rather than bond borrowing, which tends to contribute to inflation.

This would conflict with Rockefeller's plan to finance most — if not all — of next year's highway construction from the $2.5-billion transportation bond issue approved by the voters last month.

Complicated Days Possible

Levitt also cautioned that the pattern of tax collections during the first seven months of the state's current fiscal year indicated revenues would fall "somewhat short" of the $400 million increase Rockefeller had anticipated in framing the present budget.

While the disparity may not be considered significant in the context of a $4.6-billion budget, Levitt said, "it will probably be large enough seriously to complicate the budget-balancing process for the next year."

Seek Leary's Son For Questioning

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Police said today they seek the son of Timothy Leary, advocate of the use of the drug LSD, on a warrant charging the boy was under the influence of a drug.

John Leary, 18, was taken into custody by police Thanksgiving night and hospitalized for four days at the Orange County Medical Center in Santa Ana.

Police said a housewife reported the youth had been acting strangely on her porch. He looked dazed, police said.

The youth was released into his father's custody Monday.

Firemen Ballot Today on Contract

Kingston firemen will begin voting at 4 o'clock today on a proposed 1968 contract at Central Station. Voting continues until 8 p. m.

The vote comes after a meeting with Local 461, Uniformed Firefighters Association and Kingston fire commissioners, held early this week. The session was recommended by the Kingston Public Employment Relations Board after a Monday meeting with fire commissioners.

The firemen had reached an impasse with commissioners over wages and vacation time.

They were offered a wage package in the area of $23,000 but were asking for $750 across the board, a $47,000-plus request.

Offered three weeks vacation after 10 years service, the firemen asked for four weeks after 10 years. No official figures have been given on the contract the firemen are voting on today but it is expected to be similar to that of the policemen who settled last week. Kingston police agreed to a $300 across the board increase, a $100 clothing allowance increase and four weeks paid vacation after 12 years.

Citizens Protest Ellenville Airport

Thirty Ellenville area citizens, including the editor of an area newspaper, Harry Thayer, president of radio station WGHQ; Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein; the Superintendent of Schools Thomas Haden; Dr. Fred Horowitz who presided, and concerned parents, met last night to protest a proposed new airport which would be built some 1,500 to 2,000 feet from the Ellenville Central School playground.

A pilot, who came to the meeting, said that if an airplane ran into trouble the pilot could come down on top of the playground, according to Dr. Horowitz.

Dr. Horowitz also said that the Wawarsing Town Board approved the plans for the private airport "in the space of five minutes."

The area doctor also said that the Board of Education had originally suggested the building of the airport as being potentially hazardous.

An official at Ellenville Central confirmed the statement and said that the school board had drawn up a resolution to the effect some three months ago.

Dr. Horowitz said that if the airport becomes commercial or if it is "excessively used" it could be "quite dangerous."

It was also pointed out by the doctor that the proposed site is "only 800 feet from the hospital."

The protest group, tentatively called the Parents Committee of Ellenville Central School, will lodge a formal protest to the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

Husband, 3 Sons Are Now in Service

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Julia Stillwell's husband and three sons will miss Christmas at their North Carolina home this year because all four are in the armed services—two in Vietnam and another on his way to the combat zone.

T. Sgt. William R. Stillwell retired from the Air Force in 1963 after 23 years service. He re-enlisted and volunteered for combat duty as the Vietnam war escalated and after his two oldest sons were drafted into the Army last year.

Billy Stillwell, 21, has been serving in Vietnam since March and Bobby Stillwell, 20, received orders this week to depart for the combat zone.

Jack Stillwell, 18, enlisted in the Army Monday.

Mrs. Stillwell, who makes her home at Rt. 2, Goldsboro, said her husband told her in a recent letter: "Maybe Billy and I can be together for Christmas, since you will have the other two boys." He had not learned of Bobby's orders or Jack's enlistment.

Mrs. Stillwell says she has occasional pangs of loneliness but refuses to complain. Her sacrifice, she says, is small when compared to the sacrifices made by her husband and sons and other Americans fighting in Southeast Asia.

She said Billy, in his most recent letter, bolstered her courage when he wrote: "If you could just see what we are fighting for here, you would be able to understand this war. We're so lucky to be living in a free country."

Law Halted

The new air pollution law was halted as a step forward and pollution complaints were urged by the guest speaker, Philip Dodge to place priority on their protests. Dodge is executive director of the Hudson River Conservation Society. He offered the Kingston group, the office of the society in combating pollution in the area.

Ulster County Health Associations, including the TB and Heart Association, came under verbal attack by Sinsbaugh and others who strenuously objected to the fact that none of the organization's representatives attended the Citizens Committee for Clean Air meetings. Citing the TB and Heart Association in particular for advertising its program for clean air, Sinsbaugh said "I can't buy this. No one shows. They have had invitations."

Robert Johnson, executive director of the TB and Health Association said this morning that he had telephoned the chairman's home yesterday, sending regrets, due to a death in the family. He said that when past meetings were held they conflicted with other sessions he was obligated to attend.

Johnson explained that his organization was working toward the same objective as the citizens' group but that the methods were different. Ours is a program of education, he said. We are working in connection with the state's clean air committee toward effecting legislation.

Dodge urged the group to effect more and better communications with the community in order to sell its program.

Car Stranded

An old car was left stranded last night at a Citco gas station on Albany Avenue and Foxhall Avenue, its engine running, police disclosed. The auto, carrying dealer license plates, was abandoned by a would-be car thief shortly before midnight, police said. Its owner, Cosmo Paicastro, was brought to headquarters to claim his vehicle, officials concluded.

Detergent Price

In a Grand Union advertisement appearing in Thursday's Freeman, the price for Fab detergent was listed as two five pound four ounce packages for $1.29. It should have read one five pound, four ounce package for that price.

Levitt Bucking Rocky on Tax Hike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt sought today to flag down Gov. Rockefeller's obvious drive for a major increase in state taxes next year.

Adopting the "fiscal watchdog" posture he savors, Levitt issued a statement Thursday calling on the Legislature to exert every effort "to ease the impact of any required new taxation."

Without mentioning Rockefeller by name, the Democratic officeholder took direct issue with the governor's recent warnings that demands for greater state spending would force a tax boost.

"It is being said that new programs and enriched aid formulas are put forth in answer to a 'demand' by the people," Levitt said. "But the state government cannot be completely permissive. We have reached the point at which an order of priority, based on economic realities, has to be established."

Rockefeller has said that, if the state grants present requests for more school aid and more help in meeting Medicaid costs, budget spending next year would exceed revenue by at least $600 million.

The obvious solution, Rockefeller says, is to raise taxes. He has not specified what taxes might be increased, however.

Levitt said his own staff had made a study showing the present tax structure would fall about $525 million short of spending needs in the next fiscal year. The following year, he said, the gap would rise to about $650 million.

"In the face of a prospective federal income tax increase and the actuality of widespread local tax rises," he continued, "it is necessary for the state to do all it can to avoid imposing a further burden on the taxpayers."

Accordingly, he urged the Legislature "to examine critically all state programs and activities."

He also recommended stretching out the highway - building program "to improve competition and reduce the growing inflationary trend." He suggested using cash appropriations to finance it, rather than bond borrowing, which tends to contribute to inflation.

This would conflict with Rockefeller's plan to finance most - if not all - of next year's highway construction from the $2.5-billion transportation bond issue approved by the voters last month.

Complicated Days Possible

Levitt also cautioned that the pattern of tax collections during the first seven months of the state's current fiscal year indicated revenues would fall "somewhat short" of the $400 million increase Rockefeller had anticipated in framing the present budget.

While the disparity may not be considered significant in the context of a $4.6-billion budget, Levitt said, "it will probably be large enough seriously to complicate the budget - balancing process for the next year."

Seek Leary's Son For Questioning

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) —

Police said today they seek the son of Timothy Leary, advocate of the use of the drug LSD, on a warrant charging the boy was under the influence of a drug.

John Leary, 18, was taken into custody by police Thanksgiving night and hospitalized for four days at the Orange County Medical Center in Santa Ana.

Police said a housewife reported the youth had been acting strangely on her porch. He looked dazed, police said.

The youth was released into his father's custody Monday.

The elder Leary is a former Harvard University psychology lecturer.

Firemen Ballot Today on Contract

Kingston firemen will begin voting at 4 o'clock today on a proposed 1968 contract at Central Station. Voting continues until 8 p. m.

The vote comes after a meeting with Local 461, Uniformed Firefighters Association, and Kingston fire commissioners, held early this week. The session was recommended by the Kingston Public Employment Relation Board after a Monday meeting with fire commissioners.

The firemen had reached an impasse with commissioners over wages and vacation time.

They were offered a wage package in the area of $23,000 but were asking for $750 across the board, a $47,000-plus request.

Offered three weeks vacation after 10 years service, the firemen asked for four weeks after 10 years. No official figures have been given on the contract the firemen are voting on today but it is expected to be similar to that of the police-men who settled last week. Kingston police agreed to a $300 across the board increase, a $100 clothing allowance increase and four weeks paid vacation after 12 years.

Citizens Protest Ellenville Airport

Thirty Ellenville area citizens, including the editor of an area newspaper; Harry Thayer, president of radio station WGHQ; Assistant District Attorney Albert I. Lonstein; the Superintendent of Schools Thomas Haden; Dr. Fred Horowitz who presided, and concerned parents, met last night to protest a proposed new airport which would be built some 1,500 to 2,000 feet from the Ellenville Central School playground.

A pilot, who came to the meeting, said that if an airplane ran into trouble the pilot could come down on top of the playground, according to Dr. Horowitz.

Dr. Horowitz also said that the Wawarsing Town Board approved the plans for the private airport "in the space of five minutes."

The area doctor also said that the Board of Education had originally suggested the building of the airport as being potentially hazardous.

An official at Ellenville Central confirmed the statement and said that the school board had drawn up a resolution to the effect some three months ago.

Dr. Horowitz said that if the airport becomes commercial or if it is "excessively used" it could be "quite dangerous."

It was also pointed out by the doctor that the proposed site is "only 800 feet from the hospital."

The protest group, tentatively called the Parents Committee of Ellenville Central School, will lodge a formal protest to the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

Husband, 3 Sons Are Now in Service

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) —

Julia Stillwell's husband and three sons will miss Christmas at their North Carolina home this year because all four are in the armed services—two in Vietnam and another on his way to the combat zone.

T. Sgt. William R. Stillwell retired from the Air Force in 1963 after 23 years service. He enlisted and volunteered for combat duty as the Vietnam war escalated and after his two oldest sons were drafted into the Army last year.

Billy Stillwell, 21, has been serving in Vietnam since March and Bobby Stillwell, 20, received orders this week to depart for the combat zone.

Jack Stillwell, 18, enlisted in the Army Monday.

Mrs. Stillwell, who makes her home at Rt. 2, Goldsboro, said her husband told her in a recent letter: "Maybe Billy and I can be together for Christmas, since you will have the other two boys." He had not learned of Bobby's orders or Jack's enlistment.

Mrs. Stillwell says she has occasional pangs of loneliness but refuses to complain. Her sacrifice, she says, is small when compared to the sacrifices made by her husband and sons and other Americans fighting in Southeast Asia.

She said Billy, in his most recent letter, bolstered her courage when he wrote: "If you could just see what we are fighting for here, you would be able to understand this war. We're so lucky to be living in a free country."

Edinger ...

Law Halted

The new air pollution law was hailed as a step forward and pollution complaints were urged by the guest speaker, Philip Dodge to place priority on their protests. Dodge is executive director of the Hudson River Conservation Society. He offered the Kingston group, the aid of the society in combating pollution in the area.

Ulster County Health Association, including the TB and Heart Association, came under verbal attack by Sinsabaugh and others who strenuously objected to the fact that none of the organization's representatives attended the Citizens Committee for Clean Air meetings. Citing the TB and Heart Association in particular for advertising its program for clean air, Sinsabaugh said "I can't buy this. No one shows. They have had invitations."

Robert Johnson, executive director of the TB and Heart Association said this morning that he had telephoned the chairman's home yesterday, sending regrets, due to a death in the family. He said that when past meetings were held they conflicted with other sessions he was obligated to attend.

Johnson explained that his organization was working toward the same objective as the citizen's group but that the methods were different. Ours is a program of education, he said. We are working in connection with the state's clean air committee toward effecting legislation. Dodge urged the group to effect more and better communications with the community in order to sell its program.

An old car was left stranded last night at a Citco gas station on Albany Avenue and Foxhall Avenue, its engine running, police disclosed. The auto, carrying dealer license plates, was abandoned by a would-be car thief shortly before midnight, police said. Its owner, Cosmo Palcastro, was brought to headquarters to claim his vehicle, officials concluded.

Detergent Price

In a Grand Union advertisement appearing in Thursday's Freeman, the price for Fab detergent was listed as two five pound four ounce packages for $1.29. It should have read one five pound, four ounce package for that price.

PLAN CONCERT — Discussing details of a concert to be held at Congregation Ahavath Israel Dec. 10 are Robert Beckwith publicity chairman; Dr. Henry Jacobs, president and Dr. Bernard Cohen, program chairman. Cantor Chaskele Ritter and his choir will present the program. Cantor Ritter is currently on radio station WEVD and is acclaimed as one of the finest tenors in the country. He has appeared on many radio and television programs including Ed Sullivan and Jack Paar shows. Tickets will be available at the door. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Oldsters Attend Centennial

A continuous line of interest? citizens and former students participated in the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of School No. 4. Age or infirmity did not deter attendance for one was 92 years old, one came in a wheel chair, and another brought a graduation diploma dated 1894.

One of the highlights was the presence of Raymond Van Valkenburgh who had served as principal for 43 years. Other principals in order of service were: 1867—A. A. Schepmoes, 1868—Charles M. Ryon, 1870—H. R. Jolley, 1872—Mr. Edwards, 1878—Mr. Hawkins, 1882—Frank Giffin, 1890—Egbert Lewis, 1895—W. A. McConnell, 1900—J. R. Gillett, until 1917—W. B. Kelsey, Mr. Haines, Mr. Aogetsinger, Mr. Romaine, Mr. Barth, 1917-1960—Raymond Van Valkenburgh, 1960-1964—Donald Sweeney.

What was once the elementary school before the building of the John F. Kennedy School is now converted for use by several special programs all of which were open for inspection.

The Multi-Media Center is in this building. This is a reading, testing, and remediation program for the entire school district. This program is under the direction of Mrs. Frieda Dingee and includes St. Mary's, St. Peter's, Immaculate Conception, and Immanuel Lutheran Parochial Schools. The children from these schools also benefit from this program.

Serves Many
The building also houses the practical crafts project under direction of Donald Anderson, principal of the Myron J. Michael Junior High School. Frank Parkes is the instructor.

The program is geared to save potential dropouts in the school system. It involves the use of practical tools and skill required in the trades and occupies about half the time of the students. The other half of student time is directed toward academic studies.

The third program in the building is the Man Power Development and Training Program — Stenographer Section under the direction of Loryne Connick from Kingston High School. This is an adult training program geared to train people in stenographic skills.

The Day Training Center and School of the Association for Retarded Children is also housed in this building. Murray Weiss is executive director of the association. Carl Genna, president of the Parent's Club was on hand to discuss the program.

School 4 is being used as a book depository for the school system. Most of the textbooks used in the district are shipped through this depository. Books are stored here and delivered to various schools upon request.

Elks Memorial Set For Sunday, 3 p. m.

Members of Kingston Lodge No. 550, BPO Elks will join Elks Lodges across the country Sunday in a memorial service for deceased members of the fraternity.

The memorial services, which are conducted annually to show that an Elk is never forgotten, will be held at the Elks Lodge Home on Fair Street at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 3.

The opening session will be conducted by Albert Macholdt, Exalted Ruler, followed by the invocation by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger. A sacred session will be conducted by the officers of Kingston Lodge and the eulogy will be by Past State Vice - President Bruce Miller, PER.

Members of the Elks fraternity and friends may participate in the ceremony. The memorial service will be held in honor of 10 members of Many expressed their pleasure that the school had not been abandoned but was being used for such good purposes. They were also amazed with its excellent condition and felt the board of education and custodial staff were to be congratulated. It was predicted that the school would still be standing for its 200th anniversary since the foot thick walls are constructed of the same type of Rosendale cement used in the Brooklyn Bridge. It is believed this is one of only four buildings and probably the first in the United States that used this cement in its construction. All are located in the Ponckhockie section of Kingston.

The bell which signaled the children to school for 97 years is now on display in the hall of the John F. Kennedy School.

Kingston Lodge No. 550, BPO Elks who have died since the last annual memorial service was held. They are: Samuel Astolas Sr., Henry P. Barmann, John Dellay, Paul R. Fisher, Louis Goldstein, John J. Mazzini, Edmund J. O'Reilly, James J. Polito, William H. Van Gaasbeck and Richard Young.

Plan Yule Party
The sixth annual Christmas party of the Ulster County Grand Jurors Association will be held Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at the Moose Lodge Hall, 82 Prince Street.

Those attending will bring gifts. Refreshments will be served.

Chester Elliott, president, urges all members to attend as there will be no December meeting. Guests may attend. Anne Ashdown is chairman assisted by Mildred Burgher, co-chairman.

5 More Upstaters Killed in Vietnam

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Five more servicemen from upstate New York have been killed in the Vietnam war.

Marine Lance Cpl. Gerald A. Demunda, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Demunda of Niagara Falls, was killed on a patrol, less than a month before his tour of duty was to end. He had enlisted in the Marines after graduation from Niagara Falls High School in 1968.

Army Sgt. George F. Knowlton, 27, of Gainesville in Wyoming County, was killed by artillery fire, relatives said. He was an eight-year Army veteran and had been in Vietnam since last April.

Also killed recently in battle action were:

Marine Lance Cpl. William H. Prothero, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Prothero, 1 Grove Place, Schenectady.

Oldsters Attend Centennial

A continuous line of interested citizens and former students participated in the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of School No. 4. Age or infirmity did not deter attendance for one was 92 years old, one came in a wheel chair, and another brought a graduation diploma dated 1894.

One of the highlights was the presence of Raymond Van Valkenburgh who had served as principal for 43 years. Other principals in order of service were: 1867—A. A. Schepmoes, 1868—Charles M. Ryon, 1870—H. R. Jolley, 1872—Mr. Edwards, 1878—Mr. Hawkins, 1882—Frank Giffin, 1890—Egbert Lewis, 1895—W. A. McConnell, 1900—J. R. Gillett, until 1917—W. B. Kelsey, Mr. Haines, Mr. Aogetsinger, Mr. Romaine, Mr. Barth, 1917-1960—Raymond Van Valkenburgh, 1960-1964—Donald Sweeney.

What was once the elementary school before the building of the John F. Kennedy School is now converted for use by several special programs all of which were open for inspection.

The Multi-Media Center is in this building. This is a reading, testing, and remediation program for the entire school district. This program is under the direction of Mrs. Frieda Dingee and includes St. Mary's, St. Peter's, Immaculate Conception, and Immanuel Lutheran Parochial Schools. The children from these schools also benefit from this program.

Serves Many

The building also houses the practical crafts project under direction of Donald Anderson, principal of the Myron J. Michael Junior High School. Frank Parkes is the instructor.

The program is geared to save potential dropouts in the school system. It involves the use of practical tools and skill required in the trades and occupies about half the time of the students. The other half of student time is directed toward academic studies.

The third program in the building is the Man Power Development and Training Program — Stenographer Section under the direction of Loryne Connick from Kingston High School. This is an adult training program geared to train people in stenographic skills.

The Day Training Center and School of the Association for Retarded Children is also housed in this building. Murray Weiss is executive director of the association. Carl Genna, president of the Parent's Club was on hand to discuss the program.

School 4 is being used as a book depository for the school system. Most of the textbooks used in the district are shipped through this depository. Books are stored here and delivered to various schools upon request.

Vegetable Winner A Hybrid Cucumber

The hybrid cucumber 'Spartan Valor' is an attractive dark green slicing type that retains its slender cylinder shape. All American trial reports show its length to 8 and 9 inches with diameter of less than 2 inches in Canada to as much as 2 1/2 inches as widest reported. Developed by Dr. C. E. Peterson of Michigan State University, this crisp fleshed white spine variety is a gynoecious, female, type for prolificacy. It is highly resistant to mosaic and scab and very free from color mottling or speckling. A vigorous producer, it is also found with short vines and concentrated fruiting, taking less space in the garden or field. It is highly recommended.

Economy Ranch Features Privacy

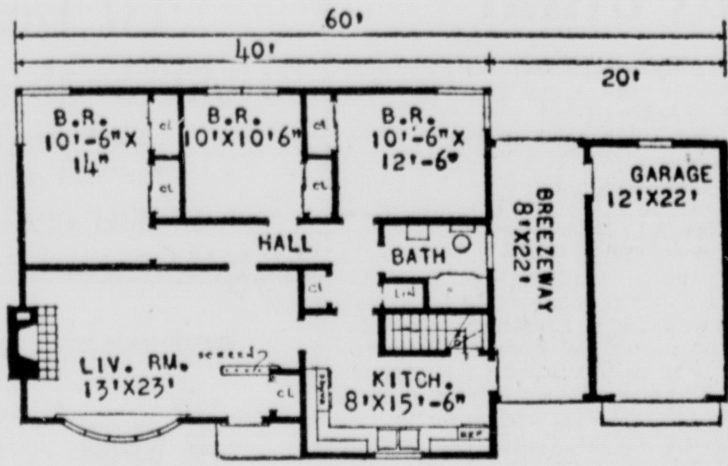

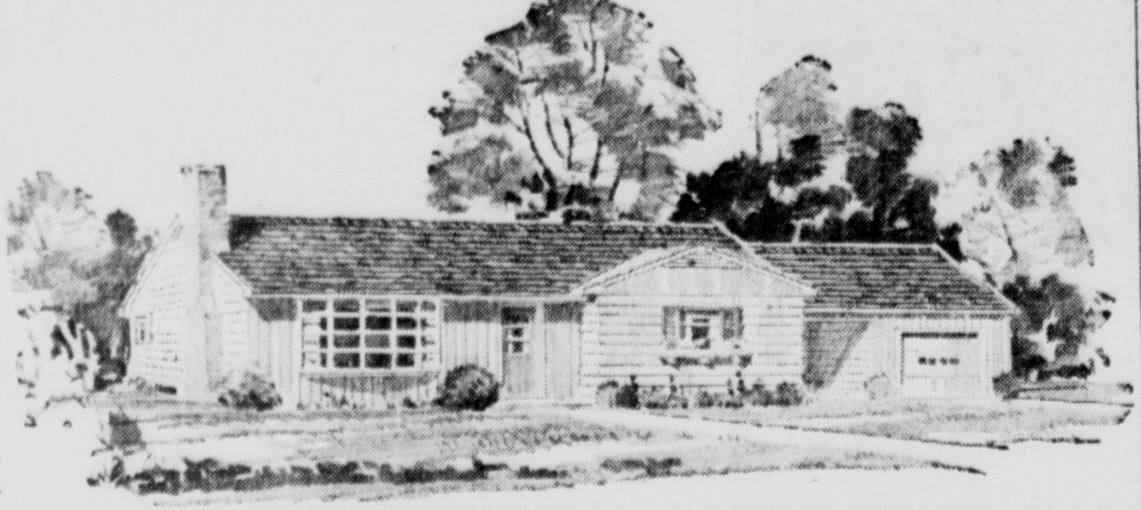

By JACK MC EENEY

Today's house plan, called "The Albata," is an economy ranch style dwelling with three good-sized bedrooms all located at the rear for privacy and quietness. The "L"-shaped kitchen is efficient and shows wall space at the stairs for a kitchen table. Finally, is the main living area which boasts a spacious living room that occupies a position to the left of the main entrance with a modern fireplace and picture bow window overlooking the front.

Economy construction was the primary consideration in planning this house, with the results that the living space amounts to 1,200 square feet only, plus another 440 square feet for the breezeway and garage.

The exterior is made up of vertical siding in the area of the bow window and front entrance, with standard wood shingles around the gable, sides and rear. This design does not show a family room, however, should such a room be desired, the breezeway with the width increased to 12 feet would make an ideal area for fun and games. Working plans for this attractive dwelling are available at reasonable cost by using the accompanying coupon. Your order will be promptly filled. Note that plans are available for construction with basement or without basement. The stair area would become heater room for plans without basement.

Helmeted Leg

SEATTLE (AP) — A police officer stopped a motorcycle driver recently because the cyclist was not wearing a crash helmet as required by a law passed by the 1967 legislature. The cyclist, however, insisted on a quick check of the new law.

The law specifies that a cyclist must wear a helmet with the chin strap fastened, but does not specify where the helmet must be worn. The cyclist didn't get a ticket. His helmet was strapped on to his leg.

Ceramic Tile Is Best for Kitchen Counter

Kitchen design today emphasizes the sink-range-refrigerator work triangle, says the Tile Council of America, but nothing can dishearten the housewife more about a kitchen than inadequate working space about the three major appliances — or counter surfaces that easily burn or stain. Ceramic tile, the trade group points out, is a good surfacing material needed for counters because it is stainproof and fireproof.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

FLORIST'S HYDRANGEA: The common greenhouse hydrangea is not hardy enough to be kept outdoors. You can outwit the cold weather by potting the plant and keeping it in the cellar during the winter. Apply just a tiny amount of water so it won't shrivel completely. Keep it in a fairly bright window and in spring when warm weather rolls around, set the plant outdoors where it will bloom freely for you. The cellar treatment prevents the buds from winter-killing.

Those of you who brought your azaleas in are reminded to keep the soil uniformly moistened at all times. Do not let the plant dry out. Your poinsettia needs a bright window now and a temperature of around 72 degrees. At night keep it in a cooler room, 65 to 70 degrees. Jerusalem cherry needs a bright window, a good supply of moisture and a room temperature of 72 degrees or so. Bud dropping is due to dry soils, hot dry rooms or poor drainage.

A GOOD TRICK: A reader who harvested a big crop of hickory and walnuts writes: "Here's good tip. After we have cracked the shells on our hickory and walnuts, they are placed in a pan and put in an oven at slow heat. This keeps them from molding, brings out the flavor and makes it much easier to pick the meats out." Green Thumb note: We appreciate this fine tip and hope more of our readers will feel free to send us their hints. Pass them along so we can help other gardeners.

GERANIUMS AGAIN: If your geraniums are tall and gangly don't be afraid to cut them back at least half way. Take tip cuttings (about 4 inches long) and root them in moist sand, or just plain tap water. Have you ever tried growing geraniums from seed? There's a new strain which can be started from seed about late January and be in blossom by July. The seed germinates fast and easily. We feel many home gardeners will be resorting to geraniums started from seed.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Each year birds eat our cherries. I heard that if I plant a mulberry tree it will attract the birds and thus save our fruit. Is that true?"

Ans.: Birds do like mulberries and will feast on them. You can plant the red mulberry (Morus rubra) or the White Mulberry (Morus alba). The white species is the one used in feeding silkworms. There are male and female trees. The plants are often dioecious, meaning that male (staminate) and female (pistillate) flowers are on separate trees. Very often you find both sexes on the same tree. The fruit of mulberry is edible, although somewhat flat and insipid. Birds love it, though. It's difficult to find varieties true to name. Usually a seedling from a parent tree will be good enough to dig up and plant. Caution: Don't plant mulberry too near the house as it can be messy.

Green Thumb Clinic: A reader writes: "Please name some good small flowering shrubs which can be grown on the east side of our home. It gets plenty of sun."

Answer: How about Hydrangea Peegee, deutzia gracilis, pink flowering almond, blue mist shrub, Chartreuse shrub (Ligustrum vicari), which can be kept trimmed to any height you wish. Winterberry (E. radicans vegetus) has masses of glassy green foliage all winter. And you might try the red leaf barberry, noted for its bronzed foliage.

Snowberry grows in a variety of soils, has waxy white berries in August and continues into fall. And of course, there's the old fashioned bridal wreath, Spirea van houttei, noted for its pure white flowers in May.

Free: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my bulletin, How To Landscape Your Home. It has a lot of good information for you to read so you'll be ready to dress up your home next spring.

DISHWASHER

- 1 No Scraping — Just shake off large particles of food into garbage.
- 2 No Rinsing — New Dishwashers don't need it.
- 3 Thorough Cleaning — A Dishwasher gets dishes truly clean by using water hot enough to sanitize — much hotter than your hands could stand — then utensils are rinsed and rinsed again in hot hot water.
- 4 No Drying — Dishes, Glassware, Silver come out sparkling clean without a water spot or smudge.
- 5 Less Handling — means less breakage.
- 6 Smaller families can store dishes in the dishwasher — wash only once a day.
- 7 College Laboratory Tests have shown that Kitchen Cleanup Time takes only about 1/4 as long when you use a Dishwasher. That's time a busy housewife (or husband) can use to good advantage.

Kitchen design today emphasizes the sink-range-refrigerator work triangle, says the Tile Council of America, but nothing can dishearten the housewife more about a kitchen than inadequate working space about the three major appliances — or counter surfaces that easily burn or stain. Ceramic tile, the trade group points out, is a good surfacing material needed for counters because it is stainproof and fireproof.

NOTICE OF SALE

IN PURSUANCE and by virtue of a Judgment or Decree in Foreclosure, duly granted in the above entitled action on the 26th day of October, 1967, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 30th, 1967, I, MICHAEL J. COOPER, the undersigned, Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Ulster County Court House, 285 Wall Street, in the City of Kingston, New York, on the 5th day of December, 1967, at 12 o'clock Noon, of that day, as one parcel and property the premises described in said Judgment as follows:

ALL THOSE FIVE CERTAIN LOTS OF LAND situate, lying and being in the Village of South Rondout (now Connelly), Town of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York, known and distinguished on a map of the property of the said F. Von Beck as Lots Numbers No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5 of the Brewery lots, said lots being together two hundred and fifty feet in front, two hundred and fifty feet in rear and one hundred feet in depth, and are bounded in front by Gilead Street in the rear by the property now or formerly of George F. Von Beck and Jane M., his wife, on the south side by Second Street, on the North side by First Street which street is forty feet wide, being the same property conveyed to Stephan M. Hyatt by George F. Von Beck, and Jane M., his wife, by deed bearing date the twenty-fourth day of October, eighteen hundred sixty-eight and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office on the seventeenth day of November, eighteen hundred sixty-eight in book of deeds Number one hundred eighty-nine, etc.

EXCEPTING AND RESERVING therefrom all of the following described premises:

ALL that tract or parcel of land with dwelling thereon situate, lying and being in Connelly, Town of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Second Avenue and the easterly side of Gilead Street and running thence in a northerly direction along the easterly side of Gilead Street 150 feet to a point, thence easterly and about at right angles with Gilead Street 100 feet to a point on the westerly bounds of lands conveyed by Lenora Britcliffe as trustee under the last will and testament of Herman Miller, deceased, to Ole Christensen and Ruth M. Christensen, his wife, by deed dated June 4, 1945 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 631 of Deeds at page 584; thence southerly along the westerly bounds of lands of said Christensen 150 feet to the northerly side of Second Avenue; thence westerly along the northerly side of Second Avenue 100 feet to the point and place of beginning.

The premises hereby conveyed being the premises described in deed from Arthur Maurer and Gertrude A. Maurer, his wife, to Andrew C. M. Christensen and Bertha J. Hotel Buffalo Going

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The 425-room Hotel Buffalo, first hotel of the former Statler chain, will be demolished after its contents are auctioned off next month, it was announced Thursday.

The 13-story hotel, built by Ellsworth M. Statler in 1908, has been closed since Feb. 1. It is near a 10-acre, downtown site that a real estate dealer hopes to redevelop at a cost of from $60 million to $100 million.

Future Teachers Meeting Slated

Dutchess Community College shops dealing in specialized education, and a hootenanny. Lunch will not be served, but a light snack will be available. Invitations have been sent to the schools in Orange, Ulster, Sullivan, Dutchess, and Rockland Counties. Both active and inactive clubs may attend.

Those interested may contact Helen McCue, care of Sister M. Elaine, O.P. Mt. St. Mary's Academy, Newburgh.

Charges Censorship

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—It was censorship, says the student newspaper, when the University of Oregon athletic department delayed a special homecoming edition.

The edition was to be passed out at the Oregon-Oregon State game Nov. 18, but it was confiscated and held about an hour.

The paper's banner headline read: "Abolish Homecoming?" and an editorial suggested that the university do just that.

ALL that tract or parcel of land with dwelling thereon situated, lying and being in Connelly, Town of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at a corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Second Avenue with the easterly side of Gilead Street and running thence in a northerly direction along the easterly side of Gilead Street 150 feet to a point, thence easterly and about at right angles with Gilead Street 100 feet to a point, on the westerly bounds of lands conveyed by Lenora Britcliffe as trustee under the last will and testament of Herman Miller, deceased, to Ole Christensen and Ruth M. Christensen, his wife, by deed dated June 4, 1943 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 651 of Deeds at page 584; thence southerly along the westerly bounds of lands of Ole Christensen 150 feet to the northerly side of Second Avenue; thence westerly along the northerly side of Second Avenue 100 feet to the point and angle of beginning.

The premises hereby conveyed being the premises described in a deed from Arthur Maurer and Gertrude A. Maurer, his wife, to Andrew C. M. Christensen and Bertha J. Christensen dated January 25, 1946 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the same date in Liber 660 of Deeds at page 331 except so much thereof as has heretofore been conveyed by Andrew C. M. Christensen and Bertha J. Christensen to Walter Bigler and Loretta Bigler by deed dated April 28, 1950 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the same date in Liber 842 of Deeds at page 231. The premises now being conveyed being a parcel with a frontage of 100 feet on Gilead Street and 100 feet in the rear with a depth of 100 feet.

The above described property being the same as conveyed by Andrew C. M. Christensen and Bertha J. Christensen, his wife, to Elliott P. Houser and Ruth C. Houser, his wife, by deed dated Oct. 24, 1952 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 24th, 1952, in Liber 841 of Deeds, page 514.

Also being the same property as conveyed by Edward C. O'Connor to Paul F. Clark and Grace L. Clark, his wife, by deed dated Dec. 20, 1955 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on Dec. 21, 1955 in Liber 953 of Deeds at page 58.

Also being the same property as conveyed by Paul F. Clark and Grace L. Clark, his wife, to Henry L. Boness and Violet Boness, his wife, as tenants by the entirety, by deed dated June 8th, 1957, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on June 10th, 1957, in Liber 1002 of Deeds, page 495.

Said Violet Boness died, on August 21st, 1961.

Also being the same property as conveyed by Henry L. Boness to Eloise Waits, by deed dated Dec. 15, 1965 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on August 3rd, 1966, in Liber 1186 of Deeds, page 58.

Also being the same property as conveyed by Eloise Waits and Lewis H. Waits, her husband, to Henry L. Boness, by deed dated Dec. 29, 1966 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on January 17th, 1967, in Liber 1192 of Deeds, page 1006.

Hotel Buffalo Going

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The 425-room Hotel Buffalo, first hotel of the former Statler chain, will be demolished after its contents are auctioned off next month, it was announced Thursday.

The 13-story hotel, built by Ellsworth M. Statler in 1908, has been closed since Feb. 1. It is near a 10-acre, downtown site that a real estate dealer hopes to redevelop at a cost of from $60 million to $100 million.

Charges Censorship

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — It was censorship, says the student newspaper, when the University of Oregon athletic department delayed a special homecoming edition.

The edition was to be passed out at the Oregon-Oregon State game Nov. 18, but it was confiscated and held about an hour. The paper's banner headline read: "Abolish Homecoming?" and an editorial suggested that the university do just that.

Successful Investing....

Investment Advisor & Analyst
Insurance Shares Are Long-Term Holdings

Q — In 1963 I put $10,000 in to the Insurance Securities Trust Fund, with the understanding that after 1968 I could withdraw $50 monthly for a certain number of years. I have now learned that the price has sunk and that my capital is accordingly impaired. Should I shift to another mutual fund or leave the money in and take my $50 withdrawal — K.F.

A — Insurance Securities Trust Fund, in my opinion, is a thoroughly reputable and well-managed company. The fund, as its name implies, has invested most of its assets in insurance securities which, as a group, have been among the poorest performers in the entire market in recent years. There is nothing really unusual about this, since insurance stocks go quite regularly through periods of feast or famine. I have said here frequently that insurance stocks — particularly life issues — should never be bought except for a long period of holding. Those with patience who have held such stocks over a period of five to 10 years have usually been well rewarded. I would certainly not sell Insurance Securities Mutual, or any good insurance stocks, at present depressed levels. I believe that with patience your fund will return to favor and that you will be well rewarded. Q — What do you think of Frontier Airlines? Would you buy the common at 20, the 6 per cent debentures convertible at 22½ — or warrants at 10? — W.F.

A — I think quite well of Frontier Airlines, which is the largest local service company covering a growing territory in the Southwest. Like all its group, the line is facing some problems from rising costs and expansion into new aircraft, but seems to be doing better than most. I would be inclined to buy the convertible 6s which offer a reasonably good return, selling around 99, with an exchange privilege that could work out very well for you. Girl Scout News Crafts Day Program To Offer Varied Fare

Junior Girl Scouts of the Kingston area Ulster County Girls Scouts, will participate in an all day crafts program at the Fair Street Church on Saturday, Dec. 8.

There will be a wide variety of interesting crafts such as ceramics, weaving, leathercraft, printing and stenciling, dramatics, creative stitching, nature crafts, folk dancing, and basketry. Each girl will have an opportunity to participate in two different interest groups of her own choosing as well as join with the entire group in a special lunch program featuring Harry Siemsen, well known local historian, folk singer and author of a folklore book of local interest. Siemsen is becoming well known among folk groups for his humorous and historical stories and songs, having just recently returned from the National Folk Festival in Syracuse, where he was one of the featured entertainers.

Each of the sessions will be based on proficiency badge requirements in the Junior Handbook of Girl Scouts. Among the many volunteer trainers are William Skilling, well known for his radio and Coach House Players work, who will conduct a class in dramatics; Lowell Hellard, high school vocational teacher, will specialize in leathercraft; Mrs. Ronald Hill, former art teacher in Rondout Valley School will lead a course in printing and stenciling; Mrs. Robert Wirth, who operates a ceramics studio on the Rosendale Road, has agreed to train the scouts in ceramics; Mrs. David Fox, conservationist and Girl Scout leader from West Hurley has planned an interesting course in nature crafts. Mrs. John Valentine, dance instructor, will teach folk dancing; and Miss Marie Siemsen, hobbyist, will conduct the basketry classes.

Each of the girls will bring their own nosebag lunch with beverage and dessert being supplied by the committee. Scouts will wear their uniforms, bring along their handbooks and those who will be in the folk dancing class will wear sneakers.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is an active participating member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Divorced Die Faster
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Divorced men and women are dying at a faster rate than married persons, according to a California census report.

The figures issued by the California Department of Public Health show that the suicide rate of divorced persons tops the figure for married persons by three to five times.

$240,330 for Welfare

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $240,330 for December to the 65 social service districts in the State. Ulster County is allotted $240,330 of these funds. These monies represent approximately 80 per cent of the federal and state share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities. The federal share of these advances amounts to $42,803,700.

'No Cause' Verdicts in Court Cases

A "no cause" verdict was returned Thursday afternoon by a Supreme Court jury in a negligence action brought by Sally and Joseph Genco and others against the New York Telephone Company. The action was brought to recover damages for a fire Feb. 16, 1959, in the property owned by plaintiffs. They alleged faulty equipment installed on the premises by the telephone company was responsible for a fire which damaged the building and caused loss to the tenant.

Bouck and Holloway appeared for plaintiffs and G. Wallace Bates was attorney of record for defendant. The action was tried before Justice Louis G. Bruhn.

In another negligence action tried before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury, a "no cause" verdict was also returned Thursday. Sylvia H. Goldseger as administratrix of estate of Jacob Goldseger, brought an action against Vito Florio Trucking Corporation, to recover for the death of Jacob Goldseger in 1965 as the result of a collision of a car and truck on Route 209 in the Summitville-Wurtsboro area. William S. Miller appeared for plaintiff and Mendes and Mount for defendants.

Jurors have been excused for the term.

Void Checkoff As Penalty for Teacher Strike

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The United Federation of Teachers faces loss of its dues - checkoff privileges today as a penalty for the union's 14-day strike of New York City schools.

Informed sources said Thursday that the Public Employment Relations Board, enforcement agency for the new state law on government - employee relations, would hand out the penalty for violation of the Taylor Law's "no-strike" provision.

The action would force the 50,000-member AFL-CIO union to handle for a year its own collections and bookkeeping of the 85 dues paid monthly by each UFT member. The chore currently is performed by the City Board of Education.

The removal of the dues-checkoff would be the first punitive action taken by the Public Employment Relations Board.

Under the Taylor Law, a union stripped of its dues-checkoff privileges must, after fulfilling the penalty, sign a "no-strike" pledge before it can win reinstatement.

The UFT currently is appealing a Supreme Court judgement demanding that the union pay a $150,000 fine for striking the city schools.

Negligence Case

On trial before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury in Supreme Court is a negligence action brought by Sylvia H. Goldseger, administratrix of the estate of Jacob Goldseger, a death action arising out of an automobile accident on Route 209 between Wurtsboro and Summitville in 1965, involving the car of deceased and a truck. Vito Florio Trucking Corporation and another are defendants. William S. Miller appears for plaintiff and Mendes and Mount for the trucking company.

Distributes Leaflets

Nathan Pressman, Ellenville member of the Socialist Labor Party, was at Sullivan Community College in South Fallsburg recently, handing out SLP leaflets prior to a college-sponsored debate on Vietnam. The David A. Howe public library in Wellsville has accepted a gift subscription from the State Executive Committee of the SLP to the "Weekly People," official organ of the party.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly lower early Friday following the sharp setback of Thursday.

Gains and losses were about even. Softness in some blue chips depressed industrials.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 2.25 at 873.36.

Great Northern Railway was up 5 points on favorable news about its proposed merger.

Gains of a point or so were made by Control Data, Polaroid and Schering.

Losses of around a point were taken by American Investment Co., Avnet and Standard Oil of California.

Fractional gains on heavy volume were made by Nalco Chemical, Corn Products, Ford and Occidental Petroleum.

Little group leadership was apparent. Steels, rubbers and motors were narrowly mixed. Oils were a little lower on balance.

Exchange Yule Idea:

Put Stock in Their Stockings

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How can you give your children a Christmas gift that will "combine sentiment with good sense, show thought, and add excitement and involvement to life?"

Give them a football you say? Perhaps. But the correct answer, says the New York Stock Exchange, which poses the question, is to "put stock in their stockings."

For Minors, Employees

Once again the exchange is urging its member firms to promote Christmas sales, especially as gifts to minors, but also as donations to employees and relatives.

The exchange promotion, which statistics indicate is successful, illustrates a tendency among some affluent Americans to buy investment gifts as well as objects, to give U.S. Savings Bonds, insurance policies, stocks and small bank accounts to youngsters.

Added to the investment list this year, of all things, are one-square-foot plots of land in Old England at $10 each. The deeds guarantee access to the plots at Castle Goring, Sussex, but forbid hunting or building. The beauty of such investment gifts is that they usually grow rather than diminish in value.

One of the problems in giving such gifts, however, has been the dreary appearance of a securities certificate, a piece of paper that looks as merry on Christmas morning as a bill from the dentist.

Slight Drawback

This slight drawback now has been overcome through the use of bright, informative cards congratulating the recipient on having been given a share in America or, in the case of the British land, an elaborate scroll—bigger than the plot—in gold and heraldic colors.

Through promotional efforts such as these the exchange now estimates that around 1.5 million minors now own stocks, almost wholly through gifts or inheritances.

But there are far more basic reasons as well for the spurt in stocks as gifts: liberalizing legislation, big tax benefits, a steady rise in the disposable income of families.

Legislation approved by all 50 states now permit a parent to buy, sell, collect dividends and reinvest stock issued in a child's name, with the only restrictions being those of normal prudence.

The tax advantages are worth noting. First, any gift up to $3,000 is exempt from the donor's gift tax. For parents, this means they can transfer $6,000 to their children without paying gift taxes.

Second, the income from the gift that is the dividends and capital appreciation, is payable not by the parent but by the child. This means that the first $600 of profit is excluded automatically. And the parent retains the child as an exemption.

B'way O'Reilly Continuing Operations

William O'Reilly Inc., office supplies, 611 Broadway, filed petition of bankruptcy Tuesday in Southern District Court.

Liabilities were listed as $157,309 and assets, $172,355.

William J. O'Reilly, president of the firm which was founded in 1888, said today that the move was one of "reorganization" and that business operations could continue as usual.

He noted the stationery store John Street was a separate corporation and was not connected with the office supply firm on Broadway.

Successful Investing....

Long-Term Holdings

Q — In 1963 I put $10,000 in the Insurance Securities Trust Fund, with the understanding that after 1968 I could withdraw $50 monthly for a certain number of years. I have now learned that the price has sunk and that my capital is accordingly impaired. Should I shift to another mutual fund or leave the money in and take my $50 withdrawal? — K.F.

A — Insurance Securities Trust Fund, in my opinion, is a thoroughly reputable and well-managed company. The fund, as its name implies, has invested most of its assets in insurance securities which, as a group, have been among the poorest performers in the entire market in recent years. There is nothing really unusual about this, since insurance stocks go quite regularly through periods of feast or famine. I have said here frequently that insurance stocks — particularly life issues — should never be bought except for a long period of holding. Those with patience who have held such stocks over a period of five to 10 years have usually been well rewarded. I would certainly not sell Insurance Securities Mutual, or any good insurance stocks, at present depressed levels. I believe that with patience your fund will return to favor and that you will be well rewarded.

Q — What do you think of Frontier Airlines? Would you buy the common at 20, the 6 per cent debentures — convertible at 22½ — or warrants at 10? — W.F.

A — I think quite well of Frontier Airlines, which is the largest local service company covering a growing territory in the Southwest. Like all its group, the line is facing some problems from rising costs and expansion into new aircraft, but seems to be doing better than most. I would be inclined to buy the convertible 6s which offer a reasonably good return, selling around 99, with an exchange privilege that could work out very well for you.

Girl Scout News Crafts Day Program To Offer Varied Fare

Junior Girl Scouts of the Kingston area Ulster County Girls Scouts, will participate in an all day crafts program at the Fair Street Church on Saturday, Dec. 8.

There will be a wide variety of interesting crafts such as ceramics, weaving, leathercraft, printing and stenciling, dramatics, creative stitching, nature crafts, folk dancing, and basketry. Each girl will have an opportunity to participate in two different interest groups of her own choosing as well as join with the entire group in a special lunch program featuring Harry Siemsen, well known local historian, folk singer and author of a folklore book of local interest. Siemsen is becoming well known among folk lore groups for his humorous and historical stories and songs, having just recently returned from the National Folk Lore Festival in Syracuse, where he was one of the featured entertainers.

Each of the sessions will be based on proficiency badge requirements in the Junior Handbook of Girl Scouts. Among the many volunteer trainers are William Skilling, well known for his radio and Coach House Players work, who will conduct a class in dramatics; Lowell Hellard, high school vocational teacher, will specialize in leathercraft; Mrs. Ronald Hill, former art teacher in Rondout Valley School will lead a course in printing and stenciling. Mrs. Robert Wirth, who operates a ceramics studio on the Rosendale Road, has agreed to train the scouts in ceramics; Mrs. David Fox, conservationist and Girl Scout leader from West Hurley has planned an interesting course in nature crafts. Mrs. John Valentine, dance instructor, will teach folk dancing; and Miss Marie Siemsen, hobbyist, will conduct the basketry classes.

Each of the girls will bring their own nosebag lunch with beverage and dessert being supplied by the committee. Scouts will wear their uniforms, bring along their handbooks and those who will be in the folk dancing class will wear sneakers.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is an active participating member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Divorced Die Faster

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Divorced men and women are dying at a faster rate than married persons, according to a California census report.

The figures issued by the California Department of Public Health show that the suicide rate of divorced persons tops the figure for married persons by three to five times.

$240,330 for Welfare

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $21,062,800 for December to the 65 social service districts in the State. Ulster County is allotted $240,330 of these funds. These monies represent approximately 80 per cent of the federal and state share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by the localities. The federal share of these advances amounts to $42,803,700.

'No Cause' Verdicts in Court Cases

A "no cause" verdict was returned Thursday afternoon by a Supreme Court jury in a negligence action brought by Sally and Joseph Genco and others against the New York Telephone Company. The action was brought to recover damages for a fire Feb. 16, 1959, in the property owned by plaintiffs. They alleged faulty equipment installed on the premises by the telephone company was responsible for a fire which damaged the building and caused loss to the tenant.

Bouck and Holloway appeared for plaintiffs and G. Wallace Bates was attorney of record for defendant. The action was tried before Justice Louis G. Bruhn.

In another negligence action tried before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury, a "no cause" verdict was also returned Thursday. Sylvia H. Goldseger as administratrix of estate of Jacob Goldseger, brought an action against Vito Floriglio Trucking Corporation, to recover for the death of Jacob Goldseger in 1965 as the result of a collision of a car and truck on Route 209 in the Summitville-Wurtsboro area. William S. Miller appeared for plaintiff and Mendes and Mount for defendants.

Jurors have been excused for the term.

Void Checkoff As Penalty for Teacher Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The United Federation of Teachers faces loss of its dues — checkoff privileges today as a penalty for the union's 14-day strike of New York City schools.

Informed sources said Thursday that the Public Employment Relations Board, enforcement agency for the new state law of government — employee relations, would hand out the penalty for violation of the Taylor Law's "no-strike" provision.

The action would force the 50,000-member AFL-CIO union to handle for a year its own collections and bookkeeping of the $5 dues paid monthly by each UFT member. The chore currently is performed by the City Board of Education.

The removal of the dues-checkoff would be the first punitive action taken by the Public Employment Relations Board.

Under the Taylor Law, a union stripped of its dues-checkoff privileges must, after fulfilling the penalty, sign a "no-strike" pledge before it can win reinstatement.

The UFT currently is appealing a Supreme Court judgment demanding that the union pay a $150,000 fine for striking the city schools.

Negligence Case

On trial before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury in Supreme Court is a negligence action brought by Sylvia H. Goldseger, administratrix of the estate of Jacob Goldseger, a death action arising out of an automobile accident on Route 209 between Wurtsboro and Summitville in 1965, involving the car of deceased and a truck. Vito Floriglio Trucking Corporation and another are defendants. William S. Miller appears for plaintiff and Mendes and Mount for the trucking company.

Distributes Leaflets

Nathan Pressman, Ellenville member of the Socialist Labor Party, was at Sullivan Community College in South Fallsburg recently, handing out SLP leaflets prior to a college-sponsored debate on Vietnam. The David A. Howe public library in Wellsville has accepted a gift subscription from the State Executive Committee of the SLP to the "Weekly People," official organ of the party.

Russia made its claim to Alaska on the basis of voyages by Vitus Bering in 1728 and 1741.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly lower early Friday following the sharp setback of Thursday.

Gains and losses were about even. Softness in some blue chips depressed industrials.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 2.25 at 873.56.

Great Northern Railway was up 5 points on favorable news about its proposed merger.

Gains of a point or so were made by Control Data, Polaroid and Schering.

Losses of around a point were taken by American Investment Co., Avnet and Standard Oil of California.

Fractional gains on heavy volume were made by Nalco Chemical, Corn Products, Ford and Occidental Petroleum.

Little group leadership was apparent. Steels, rubbers and motors were narrowly mixed. Oils were a little lower on balance.

Exchange Yule idea:

Put Stock in Their Stockings

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How can you give your children a Christmas gift that will "combine sentiment with good sense, show thought, and add excitement and involvement to life?"

Give them a football, you say. Perhaps. But the correct answer, says the New York Stock Exchange, which poses the question, is to "put stock in their stockings."

For Minors, Employees

Once again the exchange is urging its member firms to promote Christmas sales, especially as gifts to minors, but also as donations to employees and relatives.

The exchange promotion, which statistics indicate is successful, illustrates a tendency among some affluent Americans to buy investment gifts as well as objects, to give U.S. Savings Bonds, insurance policies, stocks and small bank accounts to youngsters.

Added to the investment list this year, of all things, are one-square-foot plots of land in Old England at $10 each. The deeds guarantee access to the plots at Castle Goring, Sussex, but forbid hunting or building.

The beauty of such investment gifts is that they usually grow rather than diminish in value.

One of the problems in giving such gifts, however, has been the dreary appearance of a securities certificate, a piece of paper that looks as merry on Christmas morning as a bill from the dentist.

Such as these the exchange now estimates that around 1.5 million minors now own stocks, almost wholly through gifts or inheritances.

But there are far more basic reasons as well for the spurt in stocks as gifts: liberalizing legislation, big tax benefits, a steady rise in the disposable income of families.

Legislation approved by all 50 states now permit a parent to buy, sell, collect dividends and reinvest stock issued in a child's name, with the only restrictions being those of normal prudence.

The tax advantages are worth noting. First, any gift up to $3,000 is exempt from the donor's gift tax. For parents, this means they can transfer $6,000 to their children without paying gift taxes.

Second, the income from the gift that is the dividends and capital appreciation, is payable not by the parent but by the child. This means that the first $600 of profit is excluded automatically. And the parent retains the child as an exemption.

City Democrats Name Group on Officer Slate

The Kingston City Democratic committee met Thursday night for its regular November meeting and a five-man nominating committee was appointed to select a slate of officers for the next two years to be voted on at the December meeting.

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, present city chairman and chairman of the County organization, announced that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself.

Prominent City Democrats whose names are being mentioned as possible candidates for the chairman position are John Heitzman, now serving as deputy chairman; Lawrence Woerner, former fourth ward alderman and regarded as an effective money raiser for the Democrats; Thomas Lyle, present city clerk; Joseph Stenson, third ward committeeman and president of the Kingston Democratic Club; Frank Sass, former seventh ward alderman and majority leader of the Common Council and former city corporation counsel and county chairman William A. Kelly.

Because of his assistance in T. Robert Gallo's successful bid for alderman-at-large, Kelly has Gallo's blessing.

Kripplebush

Charles Brand of Kingston will present an hour of music in the Kripplebush Church Sunday night.

The WSCS will hold its Christmas meeting in the church and church schoolrooms on Monday, 8 p.m. Mrs. James Harrison and Mrs. Fred Gorman will act as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christiana accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Julius Haener and family of Ellenville to spend Thanksgiving weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Davis in Erie, Pa. Christmas exercises will be held in the Kripplebush church Dec. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hough and daughter, Jeanne, spent Thanksgiving with the Rev. Mr. Wood and family in Utica.

Marbletown GOP

Slates Habernig

Marbletown Republican Club will feature guest speaker George Habernig at its December 7 meeting.

Habernig, a native of the Hudson Valley, is an administrator with Social Security and has been with the organization since 1941.

Howard Leads Dems

Yesterday's City Beat column listed Alderman T. Robert Gallo (D-Ninth Ward) as Common Council majority leader. The majority leader is James Howard (D-Tenth Ward). Howard chose not to seek reelection while Gallo was successful in his bid for alderman-at-large, a post he will assume Jan. 1. Peter C. Fisher, a Republican, was elected in Howard's ward while James Madden, a Democrat, was elected in Gallo's, Nov. 7. The Democrats have retained their 8-5 majority in the council.

Plan Hymnsing

The Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association will sponsor a hymn sing this Saturday night at the Bethel Assembly of God, Esopus Avenue at 7:30.

Many of the churches will be presenting special numbers in song. The public may attend.

Meditation Guest

The Rev. Edmund Cooksey, of Teen Challenge Institute of Missions, Rhinebeck, will be the speaker for Morning Meditation on WGHO, this coming Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning at 6:15.

The program is sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association.

Woman, 66, Killed

MUNNSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Miss Florence Faulkner, 66, of Munnsville, was killed Thursday when struck by an automobile while walking along Route 46 in this community southwest of Utica, police said.

CALDOR WINNER — Miss Sharon Miller of Lake Katrine receives portable television gift from Sidney Roseman, Caldor store manager, in conjunction with recent promotion conducted at the local store. The contest was sponsored by Caldor and Famous Showcase hosiery.

$1,860,000 Fund Campaign

Summer of 1968 Start Slated for New YMCA Complex

By CHARLES BERMFOHL

A fund-raising campaign goal of $1,860,000 has been set by YMCA officials for the construction of multi-purpose buildings and parking facilities along with the potential development of an outdoor swimming pool, basketball courts, tennis courts, archery field and softball field at the site of the present building on Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

The campaign was outlined in a press conference held at the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Summer of '68 Start

Construction on the new "Y" complex should begin in the summer of 1968.

Parking space for approximately 100 cars will be provided and off-street "pick-up" and "drop-off" of members will be convenient to the main entrance.

The construction will be set back 50 or more feet from Broadway with picturesque landscaping; along the complete 360 feet of frontage on Broadway.

Paul Coon, manager of the Governor Clinton Hotel and chairman of the public relations committee for the campaign, said that the decision to accept the new building plan and campaign goals had been "approved by all the operating committees," along with YMCA national headquarters.

Committee Workers

G. Herbert DeKay, who chairs the steering committee of the Y, outlined the six committees which will oversee the fund-raising drive through the completion of the campaign.

Public relations will be handled by Paul Coon; Robert O'Reilly will chair the audit committee, which will pay the bills as they come in and receive money and deposit it in the bank; Lloyd R. LeFever will head up an advisory committee containing approximately 60 people, a cross-section of influential people in the area; Dr. W. Wendell Hoover is chairman of the building committee; Chester A. Baltz Jr. will direct the finance committee and N. Jansen Fowler will head the prospect selection committee.

General chairman for the project is N. LeVan Haver.

Great, Urgent Need

It was pointed out that the present building at 507 Broadway was "outdated and completely inadequate," and that the need to construct the new facility "is great and very urgent," said DeKay.

General chairman Haver said that the Y was "now housed in obsolete facilities half of which was constructed in 1892, the other half built over 56 years ago."

Haver indicated that while the kickoff meeting of the campaign is scheduled for the week of January 22, some advanced solicitation will be conducted before Christmas and early in January. Towards this end Haver has been working with his chairman of the major gifts division, Ernest E. Schirmer and Paul Coon, in developing organization plans for what Y officials call "the greatest campaign effort that has ever been launched in Ulster County."

The fund campaign should, according to spokesmen, end on or about March 15.

Last Drive in 1912

The last time the YMCA conducted a building fund campaign was in 1912.

Coon said that the public was being prepared through monthly newsletter and brochures sent to "a substantial list of influential citizens" in Ulster County.

Coon said that a speakers bureau would be set up to provide speakers for the varied organizations in the county. The speakers would be accompanied by a film.

The public relations chairman also said that a billboard program was planned for December 10 and rotating signs would be placed in store windows.

Stubbs Shows Plans

It was Robert Stubbs, executive director of the Y, who showed newsmen present at the conference the actual plans for the building complex.

Stubbs explained that plans call for two main buildings, one being the physical building handling the physical program of the Y, and the other structure would be the social and administrative building.

Both buildings would have three floors, or a ground floor, first and second floor.

It was declared that there would be health club facilities, lounges, a six lane 37' by 75' official AAU and NCAA swimming pool seating 144 spectators in the bleacher section and including an observation deck.

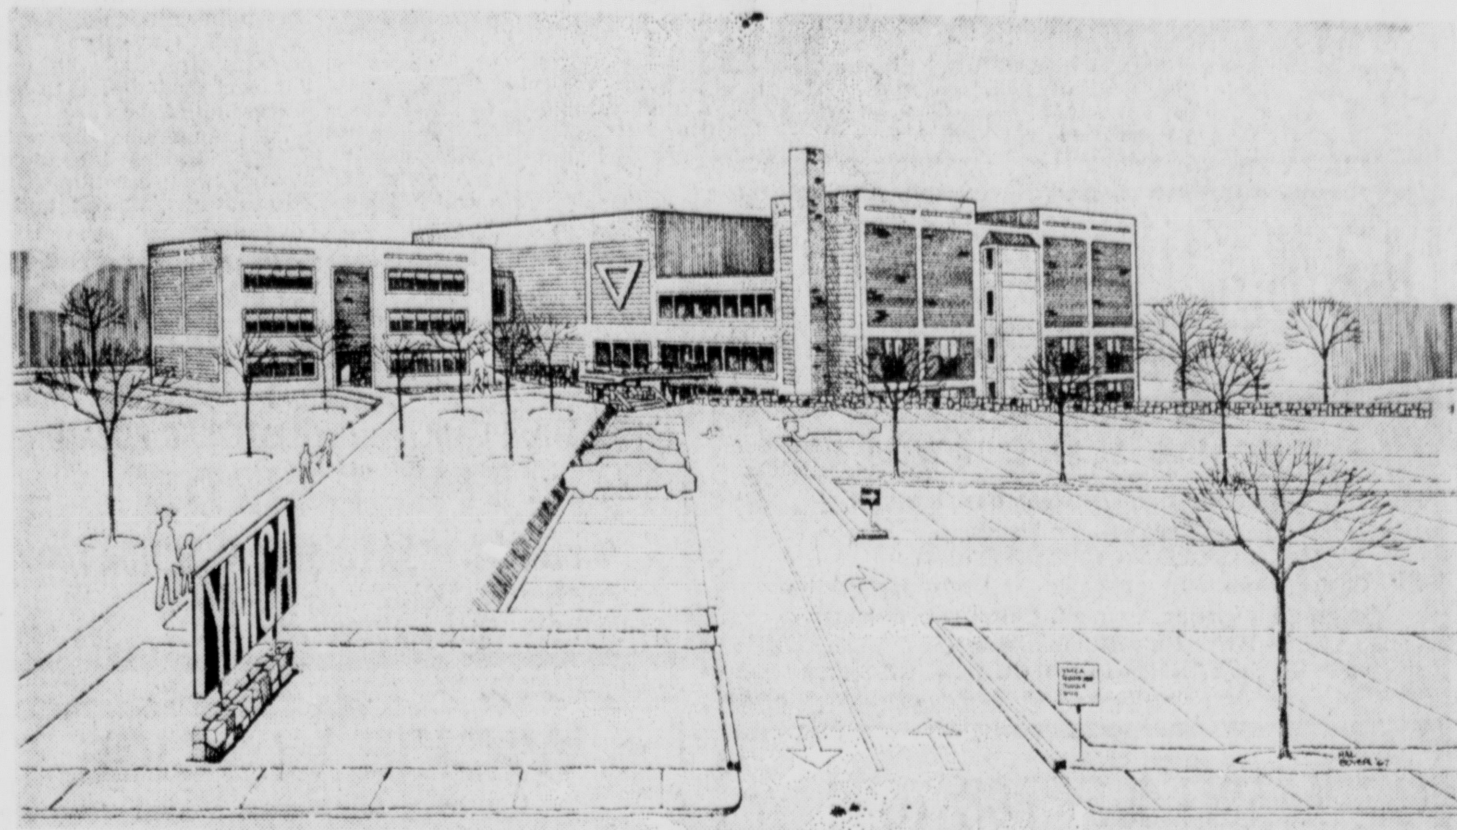

The plans outline a 72' by 98' gymnasium with official exhibition court and two full-size half courts with dividing screen, a social-administrative wing to accommodate club rooms, a crafts room, a large multi-purpose room with adjoining kitchen for special functions which will accommodate 200 people for dining and necessary administrative and office spaces.

Among other features of the new physical plant will be two regulation handball courts, a special exercise room and a body-building room.

Stress on Family Service

Separate modern and easily maintained locker room facilities will be provided for boys and senior male members. The girls' and senior women's locker room will be equipped with 20 dressing booths, private showers and hair drying and make-up facilities.

The stress will be on a family service YMCA and it was pointed out that, with the new image, membership has increased more than 33 per cent in the last 20 months.

THE NEW YMCA, to be built at the site of the present structure on Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue at a cost of $1,860,000, will look like this. Plans call for basketball courts, handball courts, swimming facilities, a health club and body building rooms and a social-administrative wing.

The new complex will be constructed while the old building remains so that Y services will not be interrupted. The health club is expected to supply additional funds for operations and will take the place of the dormitories.

Yale Club Extends Dinner Invitations

An invitation from the Yale Club has been extended to secondary school officials and guidance counselors of Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties to attend a dinner meeting Monday at the Holiday Inn, in Fishkill.

The purpose of the meeting is to update alumni and interested friends concerning admission policies for undergraduates at Yale and other Ivy League Universities, according to Shellman Brown (1949), local chairman.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be R. Inslee Clark Jr., dean of admissions. A graduate of Garden City High School, he received his BA from Yale in 1957, an MSS from the Maxwell School of Public Affairs, Syracuse University and his MA from Columbia University in 1961.

He served for three years as master of history and administrative officer at The Lawrenceville School.

Intensify Probe Of Holdup at Ardonia Store

Police continue today to press an investigation into the description of a knife-wielding bandit who robbed an Ardonia general store owner Wednesday night of $200, State Police BCI agents declared.

The man, believed to have escaped in a green 1958 Pontiac bearing license plates which begin with NB, robbed a store located along Route 44-55 around 7 o'clock Wednesday. The proprietor, Kurt Laser, told officials the thief was a Negro male, five feet, eleven inches tall, weighing about 200 pounds, between 25 and 30 years old, and wearing a brown crew neck sweater and a black beret.

Agents said this morning that the auto the man escaped in was believed to be stolen. They stated that a check reported stolen matching the description given authorities.

Serves 6-Town Area

Deferment for Lexington Doctor

Dr. Warren E. Parmelee of Lexington, has received a five month occupational deferment from the President's Selective Service Appeal Board, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's Washington Office announced today.

Dr. Parmelee is the only physician serving a six town, 30 mile area in the Catskill Mountains that has population of about 9,000. He had been ordered inducted into the service October 2, by his local draft board.

The deferment, which was authorized by a three member panel appointed by the President and acting for him, changes Dr. Parmelee's status from 1A—draft eligible—to 2A—occupationally deferred—for a six month period beginning November 17. At the end of six months, Dr. Parmelee's status will again be reviewed by his local draft board. A spokesman for Congressman Resnick expressed the hope that Dr. Parmelee's deferment will be renewed at the end of the six-month period.

Congressman Resnick intervened in the case after he had been contacted by Dr. Parmelee and had received petitions bearing between 3,500 and 4,000 signatures from persons protesting Dr. Parmelee's draft. The Congressman contacted Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, who ordered the local draft board to halt all processing of the case.

The Mountain Top Medical Center services the towns of Lexington, Prattsville, Hunter, Haines Falls, Jewett and Tannersville.

Jet Travel Makes Like Daily Double

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jet-age travel has added something new to congressional junketing: an opportunity to collect daily living expenses twice a day.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, showed the House Wednesday how it works and his colleagues responded by voting to prohibit such practices on a forthcoming trip by a House Labor subcommittee.

Law limits congressional travelers to $50-a-day expenses in the currency of the country they are visiting. But the fast-moving congressmen frequently visit more than one country a day.

Gross said five junketers on a worldwide trip last year managed to collect $100 a day on 13 occasions by picking up $50 in each of two countries. He didn't name the travelers.

"If a racetrack offered a daily double like that it would go broke in a hurry," said Gross. He demanded that "this flagrant practice be stopped."

Gross' detailed account of how the junketers operated was frowned upon by Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., sponsor of the amendment to ban the practice in the future.

"I had intended not to instruct the members in the complete technique," said Hall, whose amendment was adopted by voice vote.

Gross also criticized the proposed trip of 11 members of a postal subcommittee to inspect mechanized post office in Europe and the delivery of military mail in Vietnam.

"You could accomplish more and save a lot of money," he told subcommittee Chairman Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., "for the price of taxicab fare to the Pentagon and the Post Office right here."

Gross said the subcommittee has made two similar trips in recent years, "and since then the mail service has deteriorated. I don't think you're going to accomplish anything but have a nice junket."

Gross attack brought forth ringing defenses of congressional travel by other members.

Adjournment Dates Set in Local Court

Richard William Smith, 52, 231 Albany Avenue, was arraigned in county court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino, Thursday under a 12 count indictment charging second and third degree rape and incest.

The charge allegedly involves 13 and 14 year old girls. The indictment alleges the acts took place on September 9, September 30 and October 20, 1967.

Smith told the Court he had no funds and H. Clark Bell was assigned as defense counsel. Smith was remanded to jail and the matter adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m.

Henry Zack Dunlap, 27, who was employed in Ellenville, entered a plea of guilty to a Class A misdemeanor, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He allegedly took a car on September 29, belonging to a Mrs. Lutz. The grand jury charged him with first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Frank Spada appeared by assignment for defendant who was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca will file a reason for acceptance of the plea to the lesser count of the indictment. In the sheriff's office is a detainer from North Carolina where Dunlap is wanted on a felony charge.

Marvin Russell Weatherford, charged with third degree robbery and second degree assault, had Attorney Edward Greene assigned as defense counsel and the case was adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m. Defendant's home is in South Carolina. The indictment gives August 18, last, as date of the crime.

Serves 6-Town Area

Deferment for Lexington Doctor

Dr. Warren E. Parmelee of Lexington, has received a six-month occupational deferment from the President's Selective Service Appeal Board. Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's Washington Office announced today.

Dr. Parmelee is the only physician serving a six-town, 30-mile area in the Catskill Mountains that has population of about 9,000. He had been ordered inducted into the service October 2, by his local draft board.

The deferment, which was authorized by a three-member panel appointed by the President and acting for him, changes Dr. Parmelee's status from 1A—draft eligible—to 2A—occupationally deferred—for a six-month period beginning November 17. At the end of six months, Dr. Parmelee's status will again be reviewed by his local draft board. A spokesman for Congressman Resnick expressed the hope that Dr. Parmelee's deferment will be renewed at the end of the six-month period.

Congressman Resnick intervened in the case after he had been contacted by Dr. Parmelee and had received petitions bearing between 3,500 and 4,000 signatures from persons protesting Dr. Parmelee's draft. The Congressman contacted Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, who ordered the local draft board to halt all processing of the case.

The Mountain Top Medical Center services the towns of Lexington, Prattsville, Hunter, Haines Falls, Jewett and Tannersville.

Adjournment Dates Set in Local Court

Richard William Smith, 52, 231 Albany Avenue, was arraigned in county court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino, Thursday under a 12 count indictment charging second and third degree rape and incest. The charge allegedly involves 13 and 14 year old girls. The indictment alleges the acts took place on September 9, September 30 and October 20, 1967. Smith told the Court he had no funds and H. Clark Bell was assigned as defense counsel. Smith was remanded to jail and the matter adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m.

Henry Zack Dunlap, 27, who was employed in Ellenville, entered a plea of guilty to a Class A misdemeanor, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He allegedly took a car on September 29, belonging to a Mrs. Lutz. The grand jury charged him with first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Frank Spada appeared by assignment for defendant who was sentenced to six months in the county jail. District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca will file a reason for acceptance of the plea to the lesser count of the indictment. In the sheriff's office is a detainer from North Carolina where Dunlap is wanted on a felony charge.

Marvin Russell Weatherford, charged with third degree robbery and second degree assault, had Attorney Edward Greene assigned as defense counsel and the case was adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m. Defendant's home is in South Carolina. The indictment gives August 18, last, as date of the crime. James Louis Patrick, charged with third degree burglary, second degree criminal trespass and petit larceny, arising out of an entrance to Sacred Heart Church, Esopus, on September 18, 1967, was assigned counsel and had his case adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m. Remanded to jail.

Jet Travel Makes Like Daily Double

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jet-age travel has added something new to congressional junketing: an opportunity to collect daily living expenses twice a day.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, showed the House Wednesday how it works and his colleagues responded by voting to prohibit such practices on a forthcoming trip by a House Labor subcommittee.

Law limits congressional travelers to $50-a-day expenses in the currency of the country they are visiting. But the fast-moving congressmen frequently visit more than one country a day.

Gross said five junketers on a worldwide trip last year managed to collect $100 a day on 13 occasions by picking up $50 in each of two countries. He didn't name the travelers.

"If a racetrack offered a daily double like that it would go broke in a hurry," said Gross. He demanded that "this flagrant practice be stopped."

Gross' detailed account of how the junketers operated was frowned upon by Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., sponsor of the amendment to ban the practice in the future.

"I had intended not to instruct the members in the complete technique," said Hall, whose amendment was adopted by voice vote.

Gross also criticized the proposed trip of 11 members of a postal subcommittee to inspect mechanized post office in Europe and the delivery of military mail in Vietnam.

"You could accomplish more and save a lot of money," he told subcommittee Chairman Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., "for the price of taxicab fare to the Pentagon and the Post Office right here."

Gross said the subcommittee has made two similar trips in recent years "and since then the mail service has deteriorated. I don't think you're going to accomplish anything but have a nice junket."

Gross attack brought forth ringing defenses of congressional travel by other members.

Michael Cecelia, Kingston, charged with third degree burglary; criminal trespass in the second degree and petit larceny, arising out of an alleged entrance to the Sangi's Bowlero, Cedar Street, entered a plea of innocent. Francis Martocci appeared for defendant and an adjournment to December 13 at 11 a.m. was taken. Remanded to jail.

Romie Perkins, Kingston, charged with first degree manslaughter for the alleged death of her husband following a stabbing affair, entered a plea of innocent. G. Thomas Rea, counsel, sought time for motions and asked for inspection of the grand jury minutes since she had appeared before the grand jury on a waiver and testified. Judge Mino reserved on the application for inspection and adjourned the matter to December 13, at 11 a.m. Remanded to jail.

Michael Gerard Christoforo, Kingston, charged with second degree assault on September 17, 1967, involving one Mary Jones, appeared and his attorney, Howard C. St. John, announced the case ready for trial. Adjourned to December 6 at 11 a.m. Remanded to jail.

Holiday Music Slated at Bank Lobby

Three evenings of festive musical programs are being offered this year as Kingston Savings Bank's holiday celebration for the community. During the first three Friday nights of December, outstanding vocal groups of the area have been chosen to give approximately an hour of entertainment in the bank lobby, 237 Wall Street, 7 to 8 p.m. Groups selected are Colonial City Chapter Sweet Adelines, Lyric Choristers and Mendelssohn Club.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Dec. 1, the 35th day of 1967. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1918, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes formed a single nation — Yugoslavia.

On this date: In 1824, a deadlock developed among four U.S. presidential candidates — John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William H. Crawford and Henry Clay.

Then the election was turned over to the House of Representatives.

In 1917, the British completed the take-over of German East Africa during World War I.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened an inter-American conference at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

In 1942, gasoline was rationed in the United States during World War II.

Ten years ago: It was announced at Cape Canaveral, Fla., that the United States would try to put its first earth satellite into orbit within a few days.

Five years ago: Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru rejected Communist China's proposals for a cease-fire and negotiations to end their border dispute.

One year ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived in Paris for talks with France's President Charles de Gaulle.

be such popular ballads and songs as Drifting and Dreaming, Be My Baby, Red Rose Rag, Zippety Do Da, Wonderful One, Ma He's Making Eyes At Me, and He's All Alone.

The Sweet Adelines with 25 women, have been working together about four years. Dixie Lee Westervelt directs the group. Officers are Barbara Bondar, president; Carole Smith, vice-president; Bonnie Langston, recording secretary; Nancy Bishop, corresponding secretary; and Evelyn Roberts, treasurer. The group is scheduled to sing at the Business and Professional Women's Club and St. James Methodist Church this month.

The Lyric Choristers, a local mixed group, has chosen a program of Christmas music which the members are preparing for several concerts including the annual Kingston program, Dec. 17, 4 p.m., George Washington School. The Choristers will sing at the bank lobby Friday night, Dec. 8.

Songs for the evening will be Fanfare for Christmas Day by Shaw; Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Bach; Songs from Albert Burt's Choral Pageant; and other yuletide selections such as Ring Those Christmas Bells; Jesu, Bambino and Sleighride. Richard A. Blish, member of Ontario Central Schools faculty, directs the Lyric Choristers. Mrs. Helen Chen Ling, who has taught music for 16 years although she only arrived in the United States from Hong Kong two years ago, is the accompanist. Officers for the group are Helen V. Bowen, president; Vivian Longto, vice-president; Virginia Ackert, secretary; and Anne Sheeley, treasurer.

Mendelssohn Club, whose fine reputation for men's glee club singing has spread over a period of more than 60 years in Kingston, will conclude the musical evenings Friday, Dec. 15. The glee club will be directed by J. Brian Steeves of the J. Watson Bailey School of music, faculty, and assistant conductor of Mendelssohn. Mrs. William E. Ryland will accompany the group at the piano. Selections for the final evening will include three Christmas carols arranged for men's voices; some Negro spirituals; such songs as Throw Another Log on the Fire; I Want A Girl Just Like the Girl. The program will conclude with a sing-along of familiar carols.

Mendelssohn Club is currently preparing its annual concert to be given at Kingston High School, Dec. 12; and also for its appearance as part of the choir who will perform Handel's "Messiah," with the Little Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Claude Monteaux in Poughkeepsie, Dec. 6.

This year Mendelssohn is headed by Edward L. Sprute, president; Richard H. Uhler, vice-president; Edward J. Heaney, treasurer; and John Lathrop, secretary. Albert G. Hunter Jr., of Poughkeepsie is conductor of the group.

TV Feature Films To Change Formulas

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television programming, which has been wedded to fixed formulas for 15 years, is undergoing a small-scale revolution because of the popularity of feature films this season.

That is the outlook as seen from the vantage point of Herbert S. Schlosser, who as West Coast program vice president for NBC is one of the handful of men who decide what will appear on the home screen.

From the days of 12-inch screens, the half-hour program, particularly the situation comedy, has been a staple of television. This season the half-hours, particularly the new ones, have been hurting because of the competition of six nights of feature films on the networks.

"There will still be room for the half-hour show," observed Schlosser, "but the trend is toward fewer of them."

"There will probably be more hour shows and 90-minute shows as well. We have even considered a two-hour series, but that is something that will need to be carefully planned."

Why have feature films proved so popular this season? "Because the audience has been getting a general run of bigger pictures," Schlosser theorized. Many of them are only two years old, and that adds to the appeal.

"Also I believe the features are popular because the country is becoming more urban all the time. More people of higher income and upper middle-class watch them than most other programs. That helps make features attractive to sponsors."

Schlosser said NBC was he first to go into the field, beginning several years ago with Saturday Night at the Movies.

NBC has also pioneered with its world premiere films, created by Universal for first showing on TV. Eight were presented last season, two so far this year. All have scored as well or better than features that had already appeared in theaters.

Melanie Ann Vigna Exchanges Vows With Joseph M. Curlin at St. Mary's

Miss Melanie Ann Vigna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vigna, 3-5 Colonial Gardens, Kingston, was married Sunday, Nov. 26, to Joseph Michael Curlin, son of Mrs. Eldora Curlin, 70 Smith Avenue, at St. Mary's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. Barbara Betkowskie sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Nan Goldrick. The altar was decorated with white baskets of gladioli and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pearly and scalloped Chantilly lace gown styled with a yoked red-tinge effect revealing an A-line organza sheath. The cage effect swept into a wattleau chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to bridal crown edged with seed pearls. She carried a prayer book covered with white satin and lace with white orchids.

Mrs. Donald Pendell, Hinsdale Street, Kingston, was matron of honor for her cousin. She wore a floor length spruce green velvet gown with contrasting light mint green satin panels revealed by inverted front pleats and topped by matching satin bows. A fingertip tulle veil was shirred to a triple Dior bow in matching satin. She carried a prayer book covered in green velvet with an arrangement of rust and yellow Linda Curlin, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; Jeri Lynn Bush, Hurley; Jeanne Parmelee, cousin of the bride, Kingston. They wore forest green velvet gowns fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor and carried matching covered prayerbooks.

Miss Laina Vigna, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length spruce green velvet gown designed with a mint green skirt. A mint green bow served as her headpiece and she carried a miniature prayerbook with pompons.

Kevin Ross, Colonial Gardens, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were George Tsitsarea, Ulster Park; Don Pendell and Louis Tiano, both of Kingston.

Charles Vigna, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at the Tropical Inn. Music was provided by the bride's uncle, Joe Vigna, and his band.

For her wedding trip to the Poconos, Pa., the bride selected a light brown ensemble with white fur trim. She wore matching brown accessories with a corsage of orchids.

The bride, a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula grammar school and Kingston High School, studied cosmetology at BOCES.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at Ideal Camera, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Curlin will reside in Kingston.

HELLENIC WOMEN'S CLUB will hold its first Christmas bazaar on Saturday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and Sunday, 1 to 4 p. m. at the St. George Greek Orthodox Church. Pictured (L-R) are Mrs. Sam Matthews, chairman with

Mrs. William Frangis and Miss Anastasia Kitsos, preparing for the event. A highlight of the bazaar will be a bake sale featuring Greek pastry. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Local Bethrothals Recently Announced

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Berger, Hardenburg Road, Ulster Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Ann, to Thomas J. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Kennedy Jr., Jersey City, N. J.

Miss Berger, a graduate of Sayville High School, Sayville, L. I., attended New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Farmingdale, L. I. Her fiancé is a graduate of Newark College of Engineering and is employed as a senior associate engineer by IBM, Poughkeepsie.

A May 11 wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schwarz of Woodstock announce the en-

Complimentary Tickets Are Available for UCCC Concert

Complimentary tickets are now available to the public for the fifth annual Christmas Concert by the College Chorus of Ulster County Community College, college officials announced today.

The concert will be presented on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 10, at 3:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the J. Watson Bailey School in Kingston.

Two annual concerts, by the College Chorus, one in December and another in May, are presented each academic year as a public service and as a part of the College's continuing series of cultural and educational events for the community which the College serves.

The December 10 concert will feature three major Christmas works which have been popularized by Fred Waring: "Twas the Night Before Christmas," a choral setting of Clement Moore's well-loved poem; a choral transcription of five excerpts from Tchaikovsky's ballet suite, "The Nutcracker," and Roy Ringwald's "The Song of Christmas," a musical story of the Nativity utilizing 20 familiar Christmas songs and carols laced with a narration of Biblical passages. Also featured on the program will be several vocal and instrumental solos.

Complimentary tickets for the December 10 concert can be obtained by writing to Concert Tickets, Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge.

Conducting the College Chorus will be Dr. John F. Park, Coordinator of Music at the College and Chairman of the Faculty Organization. Dr. Park also serves as treasurer of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors and is organist and choirmaster at Temple Immanuel and Trinity Lutheran Church in Kingston.

Mrs. Evelyn Hopkins and Miss Alice Valentine will be piano accompanists for the concert. Mrs. Hopkins, the wife of Professor Walter Hopkins, chairman of the Division of Engineering and Technology at UCCC, is the director of music at Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine. Miss Valentine is a sophomore student at the college from Hurley and is a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School where she was accompanist for the Concert Choir. Leonard Stine, director. She is a piano student of Edgar Roberts.

Although admission is free to the concert, persons wishing to hear the concert are urged to request courtesy admission tickets as soon as possible.

Teenager Pamphlet Available to Public

"The Teenage Girl," second in a series of pamphlets "Analyzing the Adolescent," has recently been released by the New York State Division for Youth and is available for general distribution.

Written by Dr. Gisela Konopka, Professor of Social Work at the University of Minnesota, the 26-page, illustrated publication attempts to bridge the gap of understanding between parents and the female adolescent. Areas discussed include reaching maturity, the search for self-identity, and the formation of personal values.

Several other leaflets in the series are presently in varying stages of preparation.

Dr. Konopka holds a Doctorate in Social Welfare from Columbia University and has spent several decades in distinguished service to the cause of social work. She has been honored both nationally and internationally.

Melanie Ann Vigna Exchanges Vows With Joseph M. Curlin at St. Mary's

Miss Melanie Ann Vigna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vigna, J-5 Colonial Gardens, Kingston, was married Sunday, Nov. 26, to Joseph Michael Curlin, son of Mrs. Eldora Curlin, 70 Smith Avenue, at St. Mary's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. Barbara Betkowskie sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Nan Goldrick. The altar was decorated with white baskets of gladioli and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pearly and scalloped Chantilly lace gown styled with a yoked red-tinge effect revealing an A-line organza sheath. The cage effect swept into a wattleau chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to bridal crown edged with seed pearls. She carried a prayer book covered with white satin and lace with white orchids.

Mrs. Donald Pendell, Hinsdale Street, Kingston, was matron of honor for her cousin. She wore a floor length spruce green velvet gown with contrasting light mint green satin panels revealed by inverted front pleats and topped by matching satin bows. A fingertip tulle veil was shirred to a triple Dior bow in matching satin. She carried a prayer book covered in green velvet with an arrangement of rust and yellow pompons and gold streamers. Bridesmaids were the Misses Linda Curlin, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; Jeri Lynn Bush, Hurley; Jeanne Parmelee, cousin of the bride, Kingston. They wore forest green velvet gowns fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor and carried matching covered prayerbooks.

Miss Laina Vigna, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length spruce green velvet gown designed with a mint green skirt. A mint green bow served as her headpiece and she carried a miniature prayerbook with pompons.

Kevin Ross, Colonial Gardens, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were George Tsitseara, Ulster Park; Don Pendell and Louis Tiano, both of Kingston.

Charles Vigna, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at the Tropical Inn. Music was provided by the bride's uncle, Joe Vigna, and his band.

For her wedding trip to the Poconos, Pa., the bride selected a light brown ensemble with white fur trim. She wore matching brown accessories with a corsage of orchids.

The bride, a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula grammar school and Kingston High School, studied cosmetology at BOCES.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at Ideal Camera, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Curlin will reside in Kingston.

HELLENIC WOMEN'S CLUB will hold its first Christmas bazaar on Saturday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and Sunday, 1 to 4 p. m. at the St. George Greek Orthodox Church. Pictured (L-R) are Mrs. Sam Matthews, chairman with

Mrs. William Frangis and Miss Anastasia Kitsos, preparing for the event. A highlight of the bazaar will be a bake sale featuring Greek pastry. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Wedding Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN T. DOYLE of Salem Street, Port Ewen, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at an open house on Tuesday, Nov. 28. Married Nov. 28, 1917 at Port Ewen Methodist Church by the late Rev. Eugene Bookhout, they have twin daughters: Mrs. Irving (Irene) Maurer, Mrs. Chester (Pauline) Barth; a son, Edwin M. Doyle, all of Port Ewen. The couple have six grandchildren: Mrs. Charles E. (Dianne) Montafia; William and Christine Barth; Susan, Gregory and Douglas Doyle; and twin great grandsons, Michael and Dominic Montafia. Mr. Doyle was foreman at Hildebrand's Orchards, Port Ewen, for 26 years and worked for the Town of Esopus for 12 years. He is now retired and pursues his favorite hobbies, fishing and gardening. (Freeman photo by Haines).

43rd WEDDING ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Crosby, 140 Downs Street, Kingston, were guests of honor Sunday evening, Nov. 26, at a surprise dinner party at the Governor Clinton Hotel, celebrating their 43rd wedding anniversary. Married on Oct. 29, 1924 in St. Mary's Church, Kingston, they have two children, Edward R. Crosby, principal of Lake Katrine School, and Roseann Purcell of Valatie. The couple have nine grandchildren. Mr. Crosby is retired from Burgevin Florist's. Mrs. Crosby has been active in political and charitable events for many years. (Powell photo).

MR. AND MRS. JOHN TOMSHAW of 623 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 26, at a dinner given by their children at Leher's Restaurant. Married Nov. 27, 1907 in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kingston, by the Rev. Adam Schmidtkontz, they have six children, Mrs. F. L. (Ilona) Bume, Jack Tomshaw, Posy Tomshaw, Tibor Tomshaw, Mrs. Charles (Lillian) Gaudette and Thomas Tomshaw. Mr. and Mrs. Tomshaw have four grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mr. Tomshaw is retired from Kingston Board of Public Works.

Students Participate In Fall Field Period

They are: Miss Kayleen Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, 1008 Pine Place, Kingston. A freshman at Keuka, she is working at the Fair Street Nursery School, Kingston.

Miss Christina Hetsco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hetsco Sr., 880 Nicholas Avenue, Kingston, is a senior at Keuka and is working for the American Baptist Convention in Puerto Nuevo, Puerto Rico.

Miss Karen Pink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Pink, RD 5, Kingston, a senior of Keuka, is working for Family Counseling Service of Dutchess County in Poughkeepsie.

Miss Virginia Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Davenport, Schoonmaker Lane, Stone Ridge, a freshman at Keuka, is employed at Stone Ridge Public Library.

Keuka College students left their campus studies November 20 to participate in work and study projects in 22 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Quebec and Thailand. Field Period runs through December 23. Students will resume their classes January 8.

An integral part of Keuka's liberal arts program, field period has three main objectives:

1. To link education more closely with life situations by taking the student out of the classroom and placing her in the main currents of everyday living.

2. Provide a practical orientation to responsible citizenship by having the student work in an established community agency and study its organization, problems and function.

3. Give an opportunity for vocational experimentation as well as an introduction to responsibilities of employment and the problems of employee-employer relationships by giving students placement in work positions relating to their vocational interests.

The normal sequence of experiences for field period calls for freshmen to undertake a work and study project in a community agency. Sophomores do a cultural study, and juniors and seniors engage in activity relating to their field of major study.

Although most students elect to participate in the fall field period in November and December, field period experiences may also be elected during summer months.

While most field period placements are in the U. S., students may work and study in foreign countries through the Keuka World-Emphasis Service (KWES) Program. Most KWES placements, however, are made during summer months.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Mothers who run a family taxi service often spend a good deal of time waiting in the car for passengers.

For such otherwise wasted interludes, I have a "Goeswithme Box." It's full of items to be written, read, repaired or otherwise dealt with within the confines of the car.

Besides the obvious mending and correspondence, this box has held loose trading stamps and their books, manicure set, etc.

Start a "Goeswithme Box" soon and your whole family will be suggesting something that goes in it.

Barbara Fekete

Dear Heloise:

The straps on my 8-month-old son's crawlers were always falling off. I tried crossing the straps but that didn't help.

I solved this by putting a rubber ponytail holder (with the arrow-like end) around the straps just under his shoulder blades. It doesn't slide or tear the cloth and it can be put on without unfastening the straps. Worked great for me.

Eleanor Maddy

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

Why are some of us so dedicated that we work ourselves to death?

We will get flowers at our funeral, but we won't be able to see them. I tell others this when I see them working too hard, but I cannot seem to absorb it myself.

Boss

Dear Heloise: Approximately twelve years of rheumatoid arthritis has taught me some tricks that may help others:

A nylon sheet plus a nylon nightie enables the arthritic to turn over more easily. Also a therm o blanket or electric blanket provides our aching bones with lightweight warmth.

Twisted hands can't always open refrigerator or some cabinet doors. So a long sprig of plastic ivy dangling from the handle provides a practical, decorative touch and makes them much easier to open.

Earline Schmitz

Dear Heloise: To keep my little ones amused, I draw simple figures or large capital letters on stiff paper or cardboard from shirts, and punch holes along the lines with an ice pick.

I thread a large needle with yarn (or shoe strings for the very young) and let the children sew in and out the holes. The children love it and are always so proud of their finished product.

Mom

Dear Heloise:

Children are usually impatient. They want every special day to hurry and get here. To help them wait, you might try this:

Use an old calendar with the special day marked with some bright, eye-catching sign. Let the children keep it in a special place and each night at bedtime they can cross off each day.

This is fun for them and saves having to tell them each day how long it will be. It also helps the children to learn how to use calendars.

Beverly Berrilleaux

Dear Heloise:

I just discovered something I could really use in our house on windy, drafty days... a door stop. So I made one from a plastic lid on an empty coffee can.

I just bent the plastic lid in half with the lip or ridge on the outside and slipped it under the door. It really grips and will last a long time.

E. Probst

Dear Heloise:

All of you who have gone gung-ho with artificial flowers and plants—and find they gather a lot of dust that you have to get off once a week—try using that good old feather duster!

Just be sure it's clean. Works like magic in jig-time.

Henry

Dear Heloise:

For those gals like me who don't have a clothes dryer and like their blankets soft and fluffy...

I hang mine on the line and brush them with an old hair brush. This takes the fuzzy balls off and makes them look and feel new again. And that fuzz doesn't get all over the bedroom!

Doing the Right Thing

FIRST NAME USE FOR MARRIED WOMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to comment on the practice of people calling a man's wife by her first name, especially if they know that the husband doesn't approve. The wife will not correct the party. To me this is not good etiquette. I always believed that the wife was to try to conduct herself as a married woman. I believe that one should put the "handle" on a person's last name until such time that they are requested to leave it off. I have known this to cause trouble in many marriages.—T.H.P.

Dear Mr. P.: You are perfectly right in your opinion that a man should use a woman's title of "Mrs." until he is asked to call her by her first name. However, once adults of either sex have been acquainted for some time, it would seem most unfriendly if they did not use first names. If you have reason to suspect that the man in question is overly friendly to your wife, that's another matter, but if that is not the case, I wouldn't make an issue of the use of her first name as long as she doesn't object.

Older Friends Not Included In Young People's Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning a small party for my husband's birthday. We are in our late twenties and so are the six couples I plan to invite. Now I hear that a few acquaintances are buying my husband a gift. They are much older than we are, but are very nice, and I wouldn't want to be rude to them in any way. Should I invite them anyway?—Claudia

Dear Claudia: Don't ask the older couples to the party you have planned. They would not expect to be included with the younger people. However, a little while after your husband's birthday, give another small party for them—they will enjoy it, and it will be a nice extra "thank you" for their thoughtfulness.

Stockade

— Like we keep saying, is mostly food and drinks.

However, occasionally we allow our thoughts to ramble a few rods from the center of the Old Stockade (corner of John and Crown Sts.) to what is known as Uptown Kingston.

Firstly, we're wondering what thoughtful citizen added the "Up" to Uptown Kingston? Whosoever did must have consulted the same dictionary we did. The definition for "up" that we like is — — — IN PROCESS OF HAPPENING. Good? Certainly it's true. New trees have been set out on Crown, Green and Wall Streets. Christmas lights are already blinking their welcome to city and out-of-towners; banking institutions have improved structural and parking facilities; business men have come alive with genuine inducements to stop in and say hello—and possibly compare. Things have really been "upped" in the area by interested business men, the city's Beautification Committee (appointed by Mayor Garraghan) and, in part, by the County.

"UP—in process of happening—TOWN," it seems to us, is now pulsing with new life, gracious in the solidity of experience and steadfast in its retention of Quality. Holy Hat! That's it! That's Uptown Kingston, "Quality." Anyway, we at THE STOCKADE RESTAURANT—also quality minded—are glad we've become a small part of UP—in process of happening—TOWN.

Meanwhile, back at THE STOCKADE — —

Last week we mentioned in our STOCKADE STIRRINGS the names of four experienced cooks employed here. This week we'd like to mention that in the dining area we have six competent and, we hope, well trained girls to make your luncheon and dinners more enjoyable: Mary Krom, Mary Ann Tubby, Aleta Mastrangelo, Margaret Simpson, Jackie Soosula and our latest addition, Sandra Kutzman. All of whom are pert, proper and strictly "UP".

Wedding Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN T. DOYLE of Salem Street, Port Ewen, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at an open house on Tuesday, Nov. 28. Married Nov. 28, 1917 at Port Ewen Methodist Church by the late Rev. Eugene Bookhout, they have twin daughters: Mrs. Irving (Irene) Maurer, Mrs. Chester (Pauline) Barth; a son, Edwin M. Doyle, all of Port Ewen. The couple have six grandchildren: Mrs. Charles E. (Dianne) Montafia; William and Christine Barth; Susan, Gregory and Douglas Doyle; and twin great grandsons, Michael and Dominic Montafia. Mr. Doyle was foreman at Hildebrandt's Orchards, Port Ewen, for 26 years and worked for the Town of Esopus for 12 years. He is now retired and pursues his favorite hobbies, fishing and gardening. (Freeman photo by Haines).

43rd WEDDING ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Crosby, 140 Downs Street, Kingston, were guests of honor Sunday evening, Nov. 26, at a surprise dinner party at the Governor Clinton Hotel, celebrating their 43rd wedding anniversary. Married on Oct. 29, 1924 in St. Mary's Church, Kingston, they have two children, Edward R. Crosby, principal of Lake Katrine School, and Roseann Purcell of Valatie. The couple have nine grandchildren. Mr. Crosby is retired from Burgevin Florist's. Mrs. Crosby has been active in political and charitable events for many years. (Powell photo).

MR. AND MRS. JOHN TOMSHAW of 623 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 26, at a dinner given by their children at Leher's Restaurant. Married Nov. 27, 1907 in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kingston, by the Rev. Adam Schmidt, they have six children, Mrs. F. L. (Iona) Bume, Jack Tomshaw, Posy Tomshaw, Tibor Tomshaw, Mrs. Charles (Lillian) Gaudette and Thomas Tomshaw. Mr. and Mrs. Tomshaw have four grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mr. Tomshaw is retired from Kingston Board of Public Works.

Students Participate In Fall Field Period

They are: Miss Kayleen Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, 1008 Pine Place, Kingston. A freshman at Keuka, she is working at the Fair Street Nursery School, Kingston.

Miss Christina Hetsco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hetsco Sr., 880 Nicholas Avenue, Kingston, is a senior at Keuka and is working for the American Baptist Convention in Puerto Nuevo, Puerto Rico.

Miss Karen Pink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Pink, RD 5, Kingston, a senior of Keuka, is working for Family Counseling Service of Dutchess County in Poughkeepsie.

Miss Virginia Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Davenport, Schoonmaker Lane, Stone Ridge, a freshman at Keuka, is employed at Stone Ridge Public Library.

Keuka College students left their campus studies November 20 to participate in work and study projects in 22 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Quebec and Thailand. Field Period runs through December 23. Students will resume their classes January 8.

An integral part of Keuka's liberal arts program, field period has three main objectives:

1. To link education more closely with life situations by taking the student out of the classroom and placing her in the main currents of everyday living.
2. Provide a practical orientation to responsible citizenship by having the student work in an established community agency and study its organization, problems and function.
3. Give an opportunity for vocational experimentation as well as an introduction to responsibilities of employment and the problems of employee-employer relationships by giving students placement in work positions relating to their vocational interests.

The normal sequence of experiences for field period calls for freshmen to undertake a work and study project in a community agency. Sophomores do a cultural study, and juniors and seniors engage in activity relating to their field of major study.

Although most students elect to participate in the fall field period in November and December, field period experiences may also be elected during summer months.

While most field period placements are in the U. S., students may work and study in foreign countries through the Keuka World-Emphasis Service (KWES) Program. Most KWES placements, however, are made during summer months.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Mothers who run a family taxi service often spend a good deal of time waiting in the car for passengers.

For such otherwise wasted interludes, I have a "Goeswithme Box." It's full of items to be written, read, repaired or otherwise dealt with within the confines of the car.

Besides the obvious mending and correspondence, this box has held loose trading stamps and their books, manicure sets, etc.

Start a "Goeswithme Box" soon and your whole family will be suggesting something that goes in it.

Barbara Fekete

Dear Heloise:

The straps on my 8-month-old son's crawlers were always falling off. I tried crossing the straps but that didn't help.

I solved this by putting a rubber ponytail holder (with the arrow-like end) around the straps just under his shoulder blades. It doesn't slide or tear the cloth and it can be put on without unfastening the straps. Worked great for me.

Eleanor Maddy

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

Why are some of us so dedicated that we work ourselves to death?

We will get flowers at our funeral, but we won't be able to see them. I tell others this when I see them working too hard, but I cannot seem to absorb it myself.

Boss

Dear Heloise:

Approximately twelve years of rheumatoid arthritis has taught me some tricks that may help others:

A nylon sheet plus a nylon nylon enables the arthritic to turn over more easily. Also a thermoblock or electric blanket provides our aching bones with lightweight warmth.

Twisted hands can't always open refrigerator or some cabinet doors. So a long sprig of plastic ivy dangling from the handle provides a practical, decorative touch and makes them much easier to open.

Earline Schmitz

Dear Heloise:

To keep my little ones amused, I draw simple figures or large capital letters on stiff paper or cardboard from shirts, and punch holes along the lines with an ice pick.

I thread a large needle with yarn (or shoe strings for the very young) and let the children sew in and out the holes.

The children love it and are always so proud of their finished product.

Mom

Dear Heloise:

Children are usually impatient. They want every special day to hurry and get here. To help them wait, you might try this:

Use an old calendar with the special day marked with some bright, eye-catching sign. Let the children keep it in a special place and each night at bedtime they can cross off each day.

This is fun for them and saves having to tell them each day how long it will be. It also helps the children to learn how to use calendars.

Beverly Berrilleaux

Dear Heloise:

I just discovered something I could really use in our house on windy, drafty days... a door stop. So I made one from a plastic lid on an empty coffee can.

I just bent the plastic lid in half with the lip or ridge on the outside and slipped it under the door. It really grips and will last a long time.

E. Probst

Dear Heloise:

All of you who have gone gung-ho with artificial flowers and plants—and find they gather a lot of dust that you have to get off once a week—try using that good old feather duster!

Just be sure it's clean. Works like magic in jig-time.

Henry

Dear Heloise:

For those gals like me who don't have a clothes dryer and like their blankets soft and fluffy...

I hang mine on the line and brush them with an old hair brush. This takes the fuzzy balls off and makes them look and feel new again. And that fuzz doesn't get all over the bedroom!

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of The Emily Post Institute
FIRST NAME USE FOR MARRIED WOMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to comment on the practice of people calling a man's wife by her first name, especially if they know that the husband doesn't approve. The wife will not correct the party. To me this is not good etiquette. I always believed that the wife was to try to conduct herself as a married woman. I believe that one should put the "handle" on a person's last name until such time that they are requested to leave it off. I have known this to cause trouble in many marriages.—T.H.P.

Dear Mr. P.: You are perfectly right in your opinion that a man should use a woman's title of "Mrs." until he is asked to call her by her first name. However, once adults of either sex have been acquainted for some time, it would seem most unfriendly if they did not use first names. If you have reason to suspect that the man in question is overly friendly to your wife, that's another matter, but if that is not the case, I wouldn't make an issue of the use of her first name—as long as she doesn't object.

Older Friends Not Included In Young People's Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning a small party for my husband's birthday. We are in our late twenties and so are the six couples I plan to invite. Now I hear that a few acquaintances are buying my husband a gift. They are much older than we are, but are very nice, and I wouldn't want to be rude to them in any way. Should I invite them also?—Claudia

Dear Claudia: Don't ask the older couples to the party you have planned. They would not expect to be included with the younger people. However, a little while after your husband's birthday, give another small party for them—they will enjoy it, and it will be a nice extra "thank you" for their thoughtfulness.

UCCC Cagers Home Against Fashion T.

Ulster County Community College's unbeaten Senators seek to maintain their perfect record and 100-plus scoring pace against Fashion Institute Tech of New York tonight at the municipal auditorium.

In two games this season, the Senators trounced Post Junior College of Connecticut, 107-81, and Albany College of Pharmacy, 96-85, for six straight wins over a two-season span.

Co-Captains Joe Uhl and Rod Chando are leading the Senators in scoring. Uhl has 54 points in two games, Chando 36 and Leon Hanna, ex-KHS star, 32.

Coach Mike Perry is looking for a better defense and fewer turnovers tonight. Leo Darling and Bob Foster of Dutchess will officiate.

Off-Season Rhubarb Jolts Majors' Talks

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Major league baseball had a confusing, off-season rhubarb on its hands today between players and their owners.

"Somebody's lying. And I don't think it's the owners," said Paul Richards, general manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"If this guy continues these kind of tactics we just might have to get into the gutter with him."

Richards was referring Thursday to Marvin Miller, former negotiator for the steelworkers who is now executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Miller and 21 players called an unusual news conference Thursday to express the players' "extreme dissatisfaction in the negotiations with the owners and representatives of the owners group."

The players gave the owners a "statement of policy" a year ago which demands, among other things, an increase in the minimum big league salary from $7,000 to $12,000 a year.

"Since then we have had very few meetings and very little progress," Miller said. "The players' representatives came to Mexico expecting to at least meet with the owners' player relations committee, he said."

Cronin Statement

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, read a joint statement from the owners several hours after the news conference in which he claimed Miller knew beforehand the players could not negotiate with the owners here during the winter baseball meetings.

"Very serious consideration will be given to holding a convention of all major league players so they can decide what to do next," Miller said. "They may want to take specific action."

Neither Miller nor the players said what the specific action might be. Steve Hamilton of the New York Yankees said there had been no mention of a strike despite the unhappiness among the players with the pace of negotiations.

"We still want to negotiate," Hamilton said.

"I've never heard it mentioned," Cronin said when asked if he thought there might be a players' strike.

"I don't think it's a serious problem. When the player relations committee meets with the players I think this will be old news," Cronin said.

"We were told further discussion would be needed in Mexico City," Miller said. "The only reason the players are here is to conclude the negotiations. Now we are told the owners are too busy."

Part of the confusion was in the type of meeting referred to by Cronin and Miller. The league president's statement said Miller had been advised before coming to Mexico that "no bargaining meeting could be held in Mexico City until after the player relations committee, representing all major league clubs, had received guidance from the 20 owners."

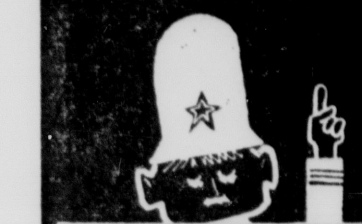

New York Meeting

Then he added: "After receiving guidance from the owners as to each item, the player relations committee reaffirmed to Mr. Miller the statement given him last evening (Wednesday) that the members of the player relations committee could not be available at any time during the balance of the week because of the heavy schedule of league meetings, but that the committee would meet with Mr. Miller and the players as soon as next Thursday in New York City."

Miller apparently was not unhappy because there could be no "20-20 meeting" but he emphasized the players expected to meet with the committee. It cost the association more than $10,000 to assemble the group in Mexico City, he said.

Cronin said there will be no meeting in New York City Thursday "to permit Mr. Miller and some of his associates to take a week's holiday in Acapulco" but that a meeting may be held the following week.

65 Area Tenpin Aces in Freeman Classic

First Annual Event Set For Sunday

Sixty-five of the top bowlers in Ulster County are scheduled to vie for the area match game championship in the First Annual Daily Freeman - Chamber of Commerce Individual All-Star Bowling Classic that starts Sunday at 1:15 p.m. at Ferraro's Bowlerama.

The final entry figures may run higher after tonight's midnight deadline for filing.

First prize will be worth $100 in cash and a trophy to the winner who will be officially recognized as the Ulster County match game champion for 1967-68.

The entry list is a Who's Who of Ulster's tenpin elite. Heading the group are three Hall of Famers—John Ferraro, Harold Broskie and Randy Keider. Other prominent "name" bowlers include Dick Howard, Chris Gallo, the Petersen brothers (Herb and Larry), Bob Shepphightner, George Shufeldt, Vince Carpino and many others.

Ellenville Aces

Ellenville will be represented by its two noted pinbusters—Tim Bilyeu and Mike Goldberg. Jim Amendola, Charlie Manfro, Rich Michaelis and Buddy Lowe, winner of a similar tournament in 1966, also will be on the firing line.

There will be three father and son combinations in the tournament — John and Jack Ferraro, John and Tony Spada and Sonny and Gary Barnes. Also listed are three sets of brothers—the Petersens (Herb, Larry and Marty); Bill and George Glaser, who are twins; and Gerry and Tom Kearney.

Eight Will Qualify

The eight high shooters in Sunday's round qualify for match game play on Dec. 10 and 17, leading up to the crowning of the champion. In the event of a tie for eighth place Sunday, there will be a sudden death rolloff.

The eight finalists will roll a two-game round robin against each other, with scoring under the Petersen Point System, which is used for all major championships.

Lanes have been assigned for the two squads on Sunday, the first at 1:15 p.m., the second at 3:45 p.m. A brief pre-tournament ceremony is planned. The public is invited.

1:15 p.m. SQUAD

Lane 19—Sonny Barnes, Gary Barnes; 20—Jerry Woodvine, George Magley; 21—Bruce Hinkley, Ernie Dousharm; 22—Joe Wilson, John Hanaman.

Lane 23—John Spada, Tony Spada; 24—Don Slicker, Al Bagatta; 25—F. J. Short, Joe Fautz; 26—Bob Overfield, Vince Clearwater.

Lane 27—Tino Reynaud, Jim Rose; 28—Lou Porei, Bob Colson; 29—Doug Tyler, Keith Kempton; 30—Joe Primo, Ed Riezzi.

Lane 31—Joe McGrane, Bill Glaser; 32—Frank Bartroff, Ernie Bartroff; 33—Tim Bilyeu, Mike Goldberg; 34—Irv Brown, Dick Howard.

3:45 p.m. SQUAD

Lane 23—Jim Amendola, Chris Gallo; 24—John Ferraro, Jack Ferraro; 25—Fred Linnartz, Pete Fabiano; 26—Tom Kearney, Gerry Kearney.

Lane 31—Craig Smith, Ben Sanford; 32—Jim Kinns, Harold Broskie; 33—Bill Noreika, Marty Hammer; 34—Bob (Tall) Smith, Henry Diehl Jr.

Projected Prize List

First place, $100 and trophy;

2nd place, $50 and trophy; third, $40; fourth, $30; fifth, $25; sixth, $20; seventh, $15; eighth place, $10.

There will be a special prize of $20 for high qualifier (for the first 8-game block) and $10 for high single game in the entire tournament.

The prize list is based on 64 entries and will be adjusted, if entries exceed that number after tonight's midnight deadline.

Long Season Begins For State U. Hawks

Basketball coach Doug Sheppard of State University College at New Paltz is expecting a rough season this year, starting with tonight's SUNYAC opener at Potsdam State.

The New Paltz squad has back to back games against Potsdam tonight and Plattsburgh State Saturday.

Coach Sheppard says that, although his first six men are better than last year's team, which finished 7-14, the squad as a whole needs experience and lacks depth.

ketball for the first time, and junior Jeffrey Berry. Peter Kane looks like this year's team leader and Sandy Cohen rounds out the first six. Charlie Lastella is back from last year's varsity, as is Tim Baird.

With only Schuster and Freer for big men, Coach Sheppard expects to have the smallest team in the league.

Potsdam figures to give the Hawks a real first night test. In the past five years, Coach Lou LaGrand's Bears have won 74 and lost 27, with two SUNYAC championships and an NCAA College Division tournament bid included.

The Bears have ranked among the top 10 small college teams in the nation on defense four times in the past five seasons, and last year ranked fourth among NCAA teams with a 58.2 defensive mark.

Bonavena Promises KO

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

Oscar Bonavena's promise to knock out Jimmy Ellis in the second round of their semifinal bout of the World Boxing Association tournament Saturday may be partially correct — it could be a short fight.

Ellis who has used classic boxing techniques to build up a 24-5 record, has always been a fast starter, and there's been no indication from his manager, Angelo Dundee, that Ellis will do anything different Saturday.

The added ingredient that could bring the fight to a fast close is the fact that Bonavena's manager, Dr. Marvin Goldberg, says Bonavena will start fast too.

"Some people have been telling me to let Oscar start slow and let Ellis extend himself in the early rounds," Goldberg said. "But I'm not too optimistic about that."

"I want Oscar to start fast too. The first combination he lands will do the job."

Dundee has a different idea about the length of the fight. "I can visualize this fight going the route," Dundee said. "Here we have two contrasting styles, one the rough puncher, one the slick boxer. What could happen is both could nail each other early and then taper off."

Bonavena, the sturdy South American from Buenos Aires, enters the fight with a 29-3 record.

The winner of Saturday's fight will take on the winner of the Jerry Quarry-Thad Spencer bout for the WBA championship. The tournament evolved when Cassius Clay was stripped of the title for refusing to be inducted into the Army.

No Hard Selling At Indiana U.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — John Pont, who transformed Indiana's football team from a dead-end trolley into a Rose Bowl-bound express, said he attracted his crop of hotshot sophomores with a "don't fool them" recruiting pitch.

"We laid our offer on the line," Pont said. "As far as Indiana University was concerned, we told them the school had not been successful. But we said 'if you come here you will be on a team which will accomplish a first—one that will win.'"

The Hoosiers rose from a record of 3-16-1 the previous two seasons to a 9-1 record and a No. 4 ranking in the final Associated Press national poll of the season.

Indiana, which won its only Big Ten title in 1945 before the Rose Bowl pact with the West Coast teams was made, had its last winning season in 1958. Before Pont arrived in 1965, the record of the four preceding coaches was 42-108-3.

The scrambling game was most associated with the sophomore trio of quarterback Harry Gonzo, halfback John Isenberger and flanker Jade Butcher. Gonzo and Butcher teamed on electrifying pass plays. Isenberger earned his fame with last-season decision to run instead of punt.

Pont's theory of "we're going to make mistakes, so we'll make them aggressively," affected his older players too.

In the Old Oaken Bucket battle with Purdue Saturday, senior linebacker Ken Kaczmarek showed the aggressiveness in the fourth quarter. He hit full-back Perry Williams charging through a line opening and forced Williams to fumble on the one-yard line.

That stalled Purdue's last strong drive, insuring Indiana's 19-14 victory, a tie for the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl journey to face top-ranked Southern California on Jan. 1.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Nothing like a shot of tequila and a visit to the bull ring to sharpen up the eye for picking those football winners.

While still checking the computer to see if that 44-7 score of the Giants against the Eagles wasn't garbled in transmission, we're ready to take another shot — at picking the winners, that is.

Last week's 7-5 record left the season mark at 87-35-9 (57-24-7 in the NFL and 30-11-3 in the AFL). Maybe it's better to be far away from injury reports and the Las Vegas line. Here we go again:

All games are Sunday.

National League

Los Angeles 31, Atlanta 14—Rams are rolling down the stretch with a five-game win streak, including a 31-3 victory over the Falcons Nov. 19 when they scored 24 in the last quarter. Rams had better fatten up here with Green Bay and Baltimore next in line.

Chicago 20, San Francisco 17—Bears didn't quite make it in try for upset of Packers but it was close enough. San Francisco on five-game losing slump with John Brodie giving way to Steve Spurrier last week in 26-9 loss to Colts.

Baltimore 24, Dallas 21—Colts still unbeaten with New Orleans Saints and Rams to go after this one. Don Meredith looked sharp against St. Louis Thanksgiving Day when Cowboys romped 46-21. Colts thumped Cowboys in Sept. 9 exhibition, 33-7.

Green Bay 28, Minnesota 13—Packers have clinched Central Division title but Vince Lombardi won't let them rest on laurels after that 10-7 loss to Vikings at Milwaukee, Oct. 15. Vikings coming on strong, rolled over Steelers 41-27 last week.

St. Louis 28, New Orleans 21—Saints on pink cloud after winning second game from Atlanta, 27-24. Cards must snap out of it or forget about Century Division title. New Orleans beat St. Louis in Aug. 12 exhibition 23-14 but this is at St. Louis.

New York 38, Cleveland 34—How can you pick against Giants after last week? We're tabbing same score as wild first game, Oct. 29 with Fran Tarkenton moving Giants into tie for first place in Century. Browns' offense had big day in last week.

Washington 28, Philadelphia 24—Despite loss to Browns, the Redskins are a wild, free-scoring team. Eagles seemed to lose heart when Dallas all but clinched Capitol crown.

Detroit 21, Pittsburgh 17—Lions' defense too much for erratic Steeler attack but Detroit must improve on its effort against Rams to avoid an upset.

American League

Kansas City 28, Buffalo 14—Both teams out of race but home park gives Chiefs edge over Bills, who were feeble in loss to Miami.

65 Area Tenpin Aces in Freeman Classic

First Annual Event Set For Sunday

Sixty-five of the top bowlers in Ulster County are scheduled to vie for the area match game championship in the First Annual Daily Freeman - Chamber of Commerce Individual All-Star Bowling Classic that starts Sunday at 1:15 p.m. at Ferraro's Bowlerama.

The final entry figures may run higher after tonight's midnight deadline for filing.

First prize will be worth $100 in cash and a trophy to the winner who will be officially recognized as the Ulster County match game champion for 1967-68.

The entry list is a Who's Who of Ulster's tenpin elite. Heading the group are three Hall of Famers—John Ferraro, Harold Broskie and Randy Kelder. Other prominent "name" bowlers include Dick Howard, Chris Gallo, the Petersen brothers (Herb and Larry), Bob Shlightner, George Shuffelt, Vince Carpio and many others.

2nd place, $50 and trophy; third, $40; fourth, $30; fifth, $25; sixth, $20; seventh, $15; eighth place, $10.

There will be a special prize of $20 for high qualifier (for the first 8-game block) and $10 for high single game in the entire tournament.

The prize list is based on 64 entries and will be adjusted, if entries exceed that number after tonight's midnight deadline.

Long Season Begins For State U. Hawks

Basketball coach Doug Sheppard of State University College at New Paltz is expecting a rough season this year, starting with tonight's SUNYAC opener at Potsdam State.

The New Paltz squad has back to back games against Potsdam tonight and Plattsburgh State Saturday.

Coach Sheppard says that, although his first six men are better than last year's team, which finished 7-14, the squad as a whole needs experience and lacks depth.

Returning senior Eddie Schuster at 6-5 is the only "big man" on the starting team and is counted on to grab a lot of rebounds for the Hawks. Ty Sands, one of last season's high scorers, is among the returnees.

Sheppard expects strong defensive performances from senior John Flyzak, out for basketball for the first time, and junior Jeffrey Berry. Peter Kane looks like this year's team leader and Sandy Cohen rounds out the first six. Charlie Lastella is back from last year's varsity, as is Tim Baird.

Bob Freer, a 6-5 junior, is also out for basketball for the first time. Sophomores Art Haviland and Larry McGoldrick have moved up from last year's squad.

With only Schuster and Freer for big men, Coach Sheppard expects to have the smallest team in the league.

Potsdam figures to give the Hawks a real first night test. In the past five years, Coach Lou LaGrand's Bears have won 74 and lost 27, with two SUNYAC championships and an NCAA College Division tournament bid included.

The Bears have ranked among the top 10 small college teams in the nation on defense four times in the past five seasons, and last year ranked fourth among NCAA teams with a 58.2 defensive mark.

The schedule:

UCCC Cagers Home Against Fashion T.

Ulster County Community College's unbeaten Senators seek to maintain their perfect record and 100-plus scoring pace against Fashion Institute Tech of New York tonight at the municipal auditorium.

In two games this season, the Senators trounced Post Junior College of Connecticut, 107-81, and Albany College of Pharmacy, 96-85, for six straight wins over a two-season span.

Co-Captains Joe Uhl and Rod Chando are leading the Senators in scoring. Uhl has 54 points in two games, Chando 36 and Leon Hanna, ex-KHS star, 32.

Coach Mike Perry is looking for a better defense and fewer turnovers tonight. Leo Darling and Bob Foster of Dutchess will officiate.

Off-Season Rhubarb Jolts Majors' Talks

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Major league baseball had a confusing, off-season rhubarb on its hands today between players and their owners.

"Somebody's lying. And I don't think it's the owners," said Paul Richards, general manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"If this guy continues these kind of tactics we just might have to get into the gutter with him."

Richards was referring Thursday to Marvin Miller, former negotiator for the steelworkers who is now executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Miller and 21 players called an unusual news conference Thursday to express the players' "extreme dissatisfaction in the negotiations with the owners and representatives of the owners group."

The players gave the owners a "statement of policy" a year ago which demands, among other things, an increase in the minimum big league salary from $7,000 to $12,000 a year.

"Since then we have had very few meetings and very little progress," Miller said. The players' representatives came to Mexico expecting to at least meet with the owners' player relations committee, he said.

Cronin Statement

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, read a joint statement from the owners several hours after the news conference in which he claimed Miller knew beforehand the players could not negotiate with the owners here during the winter baseball meetings.

"Very serious consideration will be given to holding a convention of all major league players so they can decide what to do next," Miller said. "They may want to take specific action."

Neither Miller nor the players said what the specific action might be. Steve Hamilton of the New York Yankees said there had been no mention of a strike despite the unhappiness among the players with the pace of negotiations.

"We still want to negotiate," Hamilton said.

"I've never heard it mentioned," Cronin said when asked if he thought there might be a players' strike.

"I don't think it's a serious problem. When the player relations committee meets with the players I think this will be old news," Cronin said.

"We were told further discussion would be needed in Mexico City," Miller said. "The only reason the players are here is to conclude the negotiations. Now we are told the owners are too busy."

Part of the confusion was in the type of meeting referred to by Cronin and Miller. The league president's statement said Miller had been advised before coming to Mexico that "no bargaining meeting could be held in Mexico City until after the player relations committee, representing all major league clubs, had received guidance from the 20 owners."

New York Meeting

Then he added: "After receiving guidance from the owners as to each item, the player relations committee reaffirmed to Mr. Miller the statement given him last evening (Wednesday) that the members of the player relations committee could not be available at any time during the balance of the week because of the heavy schedule of league meetings, but that the committee would meet with Mr. Miller and the players as soon as next Thursday in New York City."

Miller apparently was not unhappy because there could be no "20-20 meeting" but he emphasized the players expected to meet with the committee. It cost the association more than $10,000 to assemble the group in Mexico City, he said.

Cronin said there will be no meeting in New York City Thursday "to permit Mr. Miller and some of his associates to take a week's holiday in Acapulco" but that a meeting may be held the following week.

Ellenville Aces

Ellenville will be represented by its two noted pinbusters—Tim Bilyeu and Mike Goldberg. Jim Amendola, Charlie Manfro, Rich Michaelis and Buddy Lowe, winner of a similar tournament in 1966, also will be on the firing line.

There will be three father and son combinations in the tournament—John and Jack Ferraro, John and Tony Spada and Sonny and Gary Barnes. Also listed are three sets of brothers—the Petersens (Herb, Larry and Marty); Bill and George Glaser, who are twins; and Gerry and Tom Kearney.

Eight Will Qualify

The eight high shooters in Sunday's round qualify for match game play on Dec. 10 and 17, leading up to the crowning of the champion. In the event of a tie for eighth place Sunday, there will be a sudden death rolloff.

The eight finalists will roll a two-game round robin against each other, with scoring under the Petersen Point System, which is used for all major championships.

Lanes have been assigned for the two squads on Sunday, the first at 1:15 p.m., the second at 3:45 p.m. A brief pre-tournament ceremony is planned. The public is invited.

Bonavena Promises KO

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

Oscar Bonavena's promise to knock out Jimmy Ellis in the second round of their semifinal bout of the World Boxing Association tournament Saturday may be partially correct — it could be a short fight.

Ellis who has used classic boxing techniques to build up a 24-5 record, has always been a fast starter, and there's been no indication from his manager, Angelo Dundee, that Ellis will do anything different Saturday.

The added ingredient that could bring the fight to a fast close is the fact that Bonavena's manager, Dr. Marvin Goldberg, says Bonavena will start fast too.

"Some people have been telling me to let Oscar start slow and let Ellis extend himself in the early rounds," Goldberg said. "But I'm not too optimistic about that."

"I want Oscar to start fast too. The first combination he lands will do the job."

Dundee has a different idea about the length of the fight. "I can visualize this fight going the route," Dundee said. "Here we have two contrasting styles, one the rough puncher, one the slick boxer. What could happen is both could nail each other early and then taper off."

Bonavena, the sturdy South American from Buenos Aires, enters the fight with a 29-3 record.

The winner of Saturday's fight will take on the winner of the Jerry Quarry-Thad Spencer bout for the WBA championship. The tournament evolved when Cassius Clay was stripped of the title for refusing to be inducted into the Army.

No Hard Selling At Indiana U.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — John Pont, who transformed Indiana's football team from a dead-end trolley into a Rose Bowl-bound express, said he attracted his crop of hotshot sophomores with a "don't fool them" recruiting pitch.

"We laid our offer on the line," Pont said. "As far as Indiana University was concerned, we told them the school had not been successful. But we said 'if you come here you will be on a team which will accomplish a first—one that will win.'"

The Hoosiers rose from a record of 3-16-1 the previous two seasons to a 9-1 record and a No. 4 ranking in the final Associated Press national poll of the season.

Indiana, which won its only Big Ten title in 1945 before the Rose Bowl pact with the West Coast teams was made, had its last winning season in 1958. Before Pont arrived in 1965, the record of the four preceding coaches was 42-108-3.

The scrambling tag was most associated with the sophomore trio of quarterback Harry Gosso, halfback John Isenbarger and flanker Jade Butcher. Gosso and Butcher teamed on electrifying pass plays. Isenbarger earned his fame with last-second decision to run instead of

FRAN TARKENTON

SAYS:

Despite anything I have said to the contrary, there is a "scramble" in pro football. I do scramble.

As a matter of fact, most every quarterback in professional football has scrambled at one time or another. The scramble, to define it, is the reaction of an athlete—in this case, the quarterback—to a situation in which (1) there has been a breakdown in the pass protection, or (2) a breakdown in the pass pattern, the more likely occurrence.

When I go back to set up for a quick pass, and it isn't there because the receiver stumbles, or the defensive back jams him and knocks him down, or the linebacker gets a good drop and stand in the passing lane—when I see this, I scramble most of the time.

THE WAY OR THE DIRECTION in which a quarterback scrambles is strictly instinctive. You then become a football player, reacting to the situation as it develops, not consciously thinking of your moves, but executing them because they're natural.

For example number one:

We're playing the Philadelphia Eagles, and we're in a drive that reaches around their 30-yard line. I call a quick slant pass to Homer Jones, our split end. The actual play is an "X-slant-in."

As we come up to the line of scrimmage, I see their weak side linebacker has come inside their defensive end. Good. That leaves Homer an alley, but I have to hit him quickly within three or four steps or their linebacker will be in the passing plane and in position to intercept. Furthermore, their weak side safety, Joe Scarpati, is favoring Homer's side.

The way the play developed, when I dropped back to pass, I saw Homer running a deeper slant than I wanted. So immediately, I knew the pattern wasn't there and had to give myself an alternate route, to pass or to run the ball. I just couldn't stay in my six-or-seven-yard drop waiting for Homer to get free.

Instead, I veered right at a 45-degree angle and got around the defensive end when, lo and behold, who should be coming across the right side of the field, same as me, but good old Homer. I threw and he caught the ball for a 12-yard gain.

THERE IS A CARDINAL rule of football that once the quarterback manages to maneuver outside of the pocket, he has an extra four or five seconds to pass. And you know that's murder on the defensive back.

In that same game against the Eagles, Norm Sneed of their side was able to do just that and hit fullback Tom Woodeschick with a pass that set up their only touchdown.

To contain quarterbacks—i.e., keep them from scrambling—there are two schools of defensive line play. One advises the cautious approach, a contained rush that's designed to keep me inside. The Dallas Cowboys like to use it. The other advocates an all-out charge by three defensive linemen, with one guy hanging back as a "policeman." You'll find the Baltimore Colts favoring it.

ON A HOT DAY, a scramble can be a frustrating tactic for the defense. It tires guys out. Last year against the Cowboys, I set some kind of record with a 40-second continuous scramble, reversing my field three different times. Jim Colvin, who's now with me on the Giants, was a Cowboy then. He's told me that when the play was over, the Dallas coaches immediately sent two substitute linemen on the field to give the boys a breather. But all four of the regular defensive linemen headed for the sidelines.

Incidentally, I was dead tired myself. I called a simple handoff to a running back on the next play. I used to be quite sensitive about scrambling because I was supposed to be unorthodox. But in recent years the accusations haven't bothered me.

TEAMS ARE INCREASINGLY aware of the threat of a quarterback with running ability. That accounts for the recent popularity of the moving pocket used by Kansas City and rollout patterns run by Dallas.

Of course, your own offensive linemen must adjust. I remember in my Minnesota days, after one particularly long scramble against Los Angeles, Merlin Olsen, the All-Pro defensive tackle of the Rams, finally turned to Grady Alderman, our offensive tackle, and asked, tongue hanging out:

"How do you keep up with this guy?"

"Easy," advised Grady. "I pick up a guy, block him and then just stick around. Sooner or later, Fran's gonna be coming back my way again."

Weak Defense Hurts Navy Against Army

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "but they're a good football team." Navy pits its air attack and suspect defense Saturday against a well balanced Army team which is seeking the Eastern college football championship as well as its best record since 1949.

The Middies, with a 4-4-1 record against a tougher schedule than the Cadets, are counting on quarterback John Cartwright to pass them to their first victory over Army since 1963. The Cartwright to end Rob Taylor passing combination is the chief weapon of a team which has had difficulty establishing a running game.

Navy's biggest problem in this 68th of the traditional service classics is its defense. The Middies have given up an average of 26.5 points per game. Army has held seven opponents to no more than one touchdown, with only two scoring more than 10 points.

If Navy is to win its first game in the series since 1963, and cut down Army's over-all 32-29-6 edge, it will have to shore its defense against the passing of quarterback Steve Lindell and the power running of fullback Charley Jarvis. The Middies also must contend with a hard charging army line which has forced 25 interceptions, eight by linebacker Jim Bevens.

Navy Coach Bill Elias obviously is concerned with his defense. He has decided to send out three green players as defensive starters against the Cadets. Jim Sheppard, Shelly Buttrill and Gerry Mott are being inserted into the line-up. Mott has seen 92 minutes of action. Sheppard 10 and Buttrill only a minute.

Navy people are counting on the fact that Army has compiled its 8-1 record against comparatively soft opposition. None of the Cadet's nine opponents have had winning seasons. Middle scout Steve Belichick warned, however, not to count on that phase.

"I'm not saying Army is No. 1 in the nation," said the scout,

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer Louisville, Princeton and Davidson, three of the nation's top ranked teams help usher in the college basketball season officially tonight, but most fans are looking ahead to the UCLA at Purdue game Saturday night.

UCLA, with towering Lew Alcindor back as a junior, was an unanimous choice in the pre-season Associated Press poll to again win the national collegiate championship.

The big question with most fans is: How many games can UCLA win in a row? The Bruins went unbeaten last season and will be after their 35th straight against Purdue.

The game marks the opening of Purdue's new 14,500-seat arena on the campus at Lafayette, Ind., and is in the nature of a homecoming for Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach.

A native of Martinsville, Ind., Wooden played basketball at Purdue and coached at Indiana State before going to UCLA where his teams have won the national championship three in the last four years.

Louisville at Home Louisville, ranked third to UCLA in the preseason AP poll, opens at home against Georgetown, Ky. Princeton, ranked eighth, also opens at home against Army as does Davidson, No. 10, against Bucknell.

Louisville and Princeton, although playing under new coach John Dromo and Pete Carril, respectively, are favored to win, but the Davidson Wildcats are a question mark.

The Wildcats beat out Indiana and Tennessee by a narrow margin for the last spot in the preseason Top Ten on the strength of reports they have their best team since Fred Hetzel.

Southern Ill. Debut Southern Illinois, the NIT winner last year, will play its first game as a major power at home against Sam Houston State.

Other major opening games tonight include Temple at Creighton, Richmond at Tennessee, Greensboro, N.C., Centenary at Oklahoma, Texas Tech at Colorado, New Mexico at Oregon, Miami, Fla., at Washington, Idaho at Southern California and Portland at Stanford.

With the exception of Boston College, No. 7, other teams in the AP Top Ten play Saturday. In addition to UCLA at Purdue, Sacramento State is at Houston, No. 2; Virginia Tech is at North Carolina, No. 4; Utah State is at Kansas, No. 5; Northern Michigan is at Dayton, No. 6, and Vanderbilt, No. 9, is at Southern Methodist.

Boston College doesn't open until next week.

Odrowski Can Turn a Deficit

When the Oakland Seals were short-handed, hustling Gerry Odrowski can turn the deficit into a windfall.

Odrowski, Oakland's veteran penalty-killer, scored twice Thursday night as the Seals upended Philadelphia 3-1 for their first National Hockey League road victory.

The 29-year-old utility man shot the Seals to a 2-0 lead and they went on to snap a 10-game victory famine away from home.

In other games, Frank Mahovich scored one goal and assisted on another as Toronto battled Detroit to a 3-3 deadlock and Minnesota earned a 1-1 tie with Montreal on Ted Taylor's goal late in the final period.

UCAL Cagers Ready for Openers

The 1967-68 area scholastic basketball season swings into full stride with six games on tap tonight in the UCAL and DCSL circuits.

Saugerties High hosts Wappingers Central in a DCSL contest and Poughkeepsie plays at Beacon. Cardinal Farley meets Our Lady of Lourdes at home.

In two UCAL clashes, New Paltz is at Ontario and Marlboro Central hosts high scoring Rondout Valley Central which has flashy football half-back Gordie Taylor changing uniforms without breaking stride. The game will be played at the new Marlboro school gym.

Coach Wes Kissel of Ontario hopes to remedy the mistakes made in losing to Ellenville, 82-70, in the Indians' opener. It's the first game for New Paltz and Coach Franklin

Davis hopes the Huguenots will improve last years 2-14 record.

Ellies Favored

Ellenville, fresh from its impressive victory over Ontario, is favored to down the Highland squad.

Saugerties, 51-46 winners over Catskill, is favored to topple Wappingers in the DCSL opener for both teams on the Sawyers' home boards. The Fallsmen are expected to get tougher as the season progresses but are underdogs tonight.

Trouble for Dukes

Marlboro Dukes, the defending UCAL champions, have a tough league game on their hands against Coach John Meehan's Rondout squad.

While the Ganders were blowing over Tri Valley, 88-52, the Dukes came a cropper against highly rated Chester, 57-50, in their opener.

Poughkeepsie, a strong contender for DCSL honors this season, travels to Beacon where visiting basketball teams expect trouble and usually get it.

Coach Vince Dutkowski of Lourdes, with his tallest team in three years, thinks his squad will give a good account of itself in the DCSL tussle against Cardinal Farley.

Saugerties High hosts Wappingers Central in a DCSL contest and Poughkeepsie plays at Beacon. Cardinal Farley meets Our Lady of Lourdes at home.

In two UCAL clashes, New Paltz is at Onteora and Marlboro Central hosts high scoring Rondout Valley Central which has flashy football half-back Gordie Taylor changing uniforms without breaking stride. The game will be played at the new Marlboro school gym.

Coach Wes Kissel of Onteora hopes to remedy the mistakes made in losing to Ellenville, 82-70, in the Indians' opener. It's the first game for New Paltz and Coach Franklin

Davis hopes the Huguenots will improve last year's 2-14 record.

Ellies Favored Ellenville, fresh from its impressive victory over Onteora, is favored to down the Highland squad.

Saugerties, 51-46 winners over Catskill, is favored to topple Wappingers in the DCSL opener for both teams on the Sawyers' home boards. The Fallsmen are expected to get tougher as the season progresses but are underdogs tonight.

Trouble for Dukes Marlboro Dukes, the defending UCAL champions, have a tough league game on their hands against Coach John Meehan's Rondout squad. While the Ganders were blowing over Tri Valley, 88-52, the Dukes came a cropper against highly rated Chester, 57-50, in their opener.

Poughkeepsie, a strong contender for DCSL honors this season, travels to Beacon where visiting basketball teams expect trouble and usually get it. Coach Vince Dutkowski of Lourdes, with his tallest team in three years, thinks his squad will give a good account of itself in the DCSL tussle against Cardinal Farley.

Kansas City Pursues Bid for '69 Franchise

MEXICO CITY AP) — Four Kansas City groups will follow up Seattle's pitch for ownership of 1969 expansion franchises in the American League today, and the National League will consider expansion at a more leisurely pace.

Seattle's group, known as Pacific Northwest Sports, headed by President Max Soriano, appeared at Thursday's league meetings while the Kansas City folks cooled their heels outside the door.

The National League, whose President Warren Giles repeatedly has said he expects no expansion timetable to be adopted here, has advised all interested parties to stay away. However, delegations from San Diego, Milwaukee, Dallas-Fort Worth and Buffalo are on the scene, distributing brochures and talking up their cities to anyone who will listen.

Unless there is an unexpected roadblock, the two leagues are expected to finish their individual meetings in time to hold their final joint session in late afternoon. The joint meeting originally had been scheduled for Saturday morning.

The manner of stocking the new franchises and the cost of the players to the new owners still is being kept quiet by the American League. In previous expansion moves, the costs averaged about $2 million but these are expected to be much more expensive.

"The plan for expansion will involve 30 players for each new team," said President Joe Cronin. "Chub Feeney (vice president of San Francisco) and Lee MacPhail (general manager of the New York Yankees) have worked out a plan for major league expansion."

The majors are due to consider a proposal to set maximum and minimum shares for World Series clubs in view of the comparatively small payoffs after the St. Louis-Boston Series last fall. One proposal would set a $10,000 minimum for winner and $7,500 for losers.

Another suggestion that the World Series be started on Saturday, instead of the traditional Wednesday date, has been deferred until the summer meetings. If adopted, it would not go into effect until 1969. This also would involve closing the season on Wednesday instead of Sunday.

The player market slacked off a bit Thursday but there were a few deals.

The Chicago Cubs, who tried 11 different right fielders last season, acquired 34-year-old Lou Johnson from the Los Angeles Dodgers in return for infielder Paul Popovich and minor league outfielder Jim Williams.

Johnson, hero of the Dodgers' 1965 pennant drive after he was brought up from the farm club following Tommy Davis' broken ankle, hit .270 last season with 11 home runs although he missed many games due to a broken ankle and a knee injury.

Popovich hit .214 in 49 games with the Cubs and Williams batted .248 at Quincy, Ill., in the Midwest League.

Cincinnati dealt off right-handed pitcher Sammy Ellis, a disappointing 8-11 performer last season, to the California Angels for relief pitchers Bill Kelso, 5.3, and Jorge Rubio, 0.2, both right-handers. Manager Bill Rigney of the Angels promptly announced Ellis, who has balked at bullpen duty, would be a starter.

The New York Yankees bought shortstop Gene Michael from the Dodgers for an unannounced sum of cash. Michael, hailed as the replacement for Maury Wills a year ago when he came to the Dodgers in the Wills' deal, failed and batted only .202.

The Boston Red Sox acquired nor league outfielder Bill Schleight-handed pitcher Ray Culp singer and an unspecified amount from the Chicago Cubs for mid-out of cash.

The Advent and Christmas decorations for the church are under the supervision of Mrs. Peter Emerick.

The Women's Guild will meet Wednesday, Dec. 6, at 8 p. m. for a Christmas Party. All women of the church are invited to attend and all are asked to bring a gift for exchange.

The Junior High Youth Fellowship, Scott Shultis, president, will have a "Toy Party" on Monday, Dec. 4 at 7:30 p. m. in the parish hall.

Elect Slate

Saugerties freshmen class has elected officers for the year.

Named were: Gary A. Myer, president; James Stegmayer, vice president; Linda Temple, secretary; Terry Fitzpatrick, treasurer; Marcia Auer, social director.

Class advisor is Edward Trnka.

An exchange of gifts will be held after the meeting: Friday, Dec. 8, Holy Day Masses at the Presentation Church will be at 7:30 a. m., 9:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Dec. 2, Boy Scout Troop 26 paper and rags drive will start at 8 a. m. from the Reformed Church, covering the Port Ewen Water District. Residents will have papers tied and rags in bundles and placed on front porch for pick up.

Church Meetings

A tentative date of Dec. 7 has been set for a meeting of officers and teachers of the First Congregational Church.

On Dec. 10 the Women's Fellowship will hold its annual Christmas meeting. All women of the church are invited to attend and bring a one dollar gift to exchange.

No School

Saugerties Central Schools will be closed all day Monday, Dec. 4, for an in-service training workshop for teachers. The session will conclude nine weeks of after-school workshops which began in September.

Program On Music For PTA Meeting

Saugerties PTA will meet at the high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday, December 4. "Music in the Saugerties Schools," will be presented by Robert Palmatier, music coordinator of the Saugerties Central Schools. It will cover the music program from kindergarten through grade 12, and will explain what is being done and what it is hoped will be accomplished.

Dear Abby

These 'Roses' Win No Prize

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Every Thanks giving my husband's boss who lives out of state sends us a huge bouquet of roses. The boy they come in bears the name of a local florist, and their truck delivers them, so it's not as tho these flowers have been shipped any great distance. Well, I have never seen sorrier flowers in all my life! It is getting to be an annual joke around here. They aren't even worth putting into a vase. I just open the box, and carry it right out to the trash.

Then I sit down and write a "thank you" note for the "beautiful" flowers. I told my husband this year I think we should tell his boss what kind of flowers he has been paying for. My husband says we should be quiet. What do you say?

MRS. M. J. L.

DEAR MRS. L.: I say a rose by any other name would smell. And so would the deal you've been getting from your florist. By all means let the sender know the kind of flowers you have been receiving. He would appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a problem I can't discuss with anyone. Teddy, our 12-year-old son, wants to take ballet! He is slim, graceful, a very beautiful boy and not very masculine.

He's been taking ballroom and tap since he was nine, but I never dreamed he'd become interested in ballet. His father will die. He's a rugged sportsman and has a five handicap in golf. Teddy has always been a rather delicate child and never cared much for sports so I thought dancing would be good exercise for him.

I am worried because you don't see many real he-men in ballet, and I do so want our Teddy to be a real he-man, marry some nice girl and have children. I would so love to have a little granddaughter. Teddy is our only child and I was so disappointed when he was not a girl. I wept for a week.

Should I discourage his taking ballet, or do you think it's too late?

TEDDY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: First you ought to find a psychiatrist with two couches. One for you and one for Teddy. The doctor can tell you if it's "too late," and so why. Environment plays a very important role in shaping a child's destiny. Many a mother's "dream" of having a "little girl" has created a nightmare for the unlucky boy she bore instead.

Abby, we love our grandchildren, but we are getting up in years now and can't run after them all the time. And the noise of their fighting gets on our nerves.

Our parents told us, "We raised ours, now you raise yours." Why do the children of today take advantage of their parents?

"NEVER SAY NO GRANNY!"

DEAR GRANNY: If you never say no, maybe they don't know they're imposing. Some parents still say, "We raised ours, now you raise yours." So why don't you? It's just that simple. No one can take advantage of you without your cooperation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Money isn't everything. Sometimes it's not even enough.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Dispute over worth of property or other possession could mar day. But if you maintain poise all turns out to your benefit. Means avoid frantic action. Take it slow, easy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Some values could be upset. If single, you might find out to day what member of the opposite sex really thinks, feels. If married, long overdue discussion takes place.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Study legal procedures. Take time to be positive. What you take for granted could erupt into problem. Be ready. Have facts at hand. You succeed if thorough.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Dormant issues now become open for consideration. Involves work, relatives, messages and short journeys. Be receptive. Express yourself in creative manner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may have to spend more than planned in order to please loved ones. Domestic adjustment dominates scene. You cannot put off discussion, decision without causing loss. Act.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some phases of your activity are disrupted. But they are replaced. You go through a process today of tearing down in order to rebuild. One who makes promises may have tongue in cheek.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What brews behind the scenes is more powerful than you might imagine. What is in sight is apt to be trivial. Don't waste time, emotions. Conditions due to change abruptly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Finish rather than begin projects. Some friends, associates are more than a little restless. Don't prolong difficult task.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Higher-ups announce revision of plans. You appear to be directly affected. Lunar cycle is high. You land on your feet. New assignment proves beneficial. Accept with enthusiasm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some around you choose indirect methods. You appear caught in quandary, wondering which course to follow. Key is to be informed, aware and neutral. Don't judge by outward appearances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend comes up with plan. But it appears to lack solid base. Don't throw good money after bad. Call a halt to waste. Relatives who squabble could try to involve you. Stand firm.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Agitation appears, boils to surface due to long-time disagreement. Can actually work out in favorable manner. Important thing is to come out in open. Be frank, fair.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a person of principle, subject to moods, emotional, dedicated to fight for what is right. You started something new. Now you become more familiar with surroundings. Take your time. Don't rush, push or force. You're gaining, even if the pace appears slow.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SAGITTARIUS, CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS. Special word to GEMINI: do more listening than talking.

No Shining Hour for Perry

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry Como appeared on NBC Thursday night for the first time this season, with a new sponsor, a new tempo to his program and new attention to the music of today's youth.

The star of the program ambled through his special with his usual easy manner, singing nicely, smiling a lot and essaying an occasional low-key joke. But the unusual part of the show was definitely not Como's familiar style.

Interesting, Disturbing

It was the two numbers by San Francisco's Jefferson Airplane, a long-haired, strangely attired singing group with an interesting, disturbing sound—at least disturbing to the older square folks at home. The small screen suddenly looked like a cross between an episode of

Corno's singing guest was

Bobbie Gentry, the long-haired singer in slacks who has been making the variety rounds assiduously of late, so she was not a novelty.

All in all, it was not one of

Perry Como's most shining

There were slow-motion sequences with various members of the group in curious costumes galloping across a field as in a dream. There were cut-ins on film to simulate a psychedelic effect. There were double and triple images. Sometimes the background against which the group sang looked like an enor-

and sometimes like magnified

numbers with a song that start-

Rep. Dow Emphasizes Long-Range Planning

Soil conservation problems were explored by Congressman John G. Dow of 27th District at the second day of the New York State Soil and Water Conservation Districts Association meeting Thursday.

Partnership Vital
The gathering at the Governor Clinton Hotel heard the congressman link soil conservation problems to the broader issue of land use and zoning. He stressed the importance of long-range community and regional planning in partnership between community state and regional governments. "We need local, state and regional planning boards and commissions to protect, develop and make optimum use of our land; to investigate, survey, classify and map land areas," he said.

"Land and soil conservation, then, are related not only to agriculture, but must be the primary factor in zoning, in planning our communities for maximum comfort and efficiency."

"The issue of soil conservation also bears heavily on the development of recreational areas for our young and old—and thus on their health and maximum use of leisure time. It is immediately apparent that in discussing soil conservation we are discussing no less than the overall appearance of our countryside and cities. The need for caution and wisdom in our use of land, therefore, could not be more clear," he added.

Highlight of final sessions today is an address by Don Wickham, commissioner of Department of Agriculture and Markets. He is slated to be lunch speaker. Reports on the Soil Conservation Service will be given by Victor Barry, assistant to the state conservationist, Wallace Anderson.

General theme of the conference which started Wednesday is Expanding District Responsibility. Representatives from all over the state are participating in the meet which has included major addresses, panel discussions and banquet festivities.

Concluding Today
Activities today included a state directors breakfast followed by final general session. Committee reports were given by Harold Carmen, audit; Hartley Payne, registration and Richard Shields, legislative.

State committee chairman, Silas Eakins detailed his committee concerns.

Victor McCord of Gardiner, chairman of the Ulster Soil and Water Conservation District, greeted the more than 65 delegates on behalf of host committee which includes Arthur Kurtz of New Paltz; Andrew Lehtonen of Hurley; Thomas Shea of Highland and Bowman Owen of Lew Beach, all district directors.

Francis E. Mulvaney, representative of the United States Soil Conservation Service in Ulster County and Phil Comings, association president, have been active in making arrangements for the three-day parley.

The program for women attending included a tour of the Senate House Museum and a bus trip to points of interest in the Hyde Park area.

GM Willing
General Motors has indicated it is willing to write a contract with the union that is within the limits of the record economic agreements won for the union's 160,000 members at Ford Motor Co. and 103,000 at Chrysler Corp.

Whether or not the union makes any special demands of GM could be a key factor in causing a strike.

One company source said that if Reuther goes for any "frosting" on the cake at GM, "He'll be in for a big fight."

The union told the company Monday that what it called "erosion of the bargaining unit" by moving automated jobs out of union jurisdiction will be an important issue.

Representation, specifically the company requirement that union committeemen work at least an hour a day on their regular jobs, is also expected to cause trouble.

The union represents 380,000 workers at GM.

A strike at the Detroit universal division of Chrysler was averted Thursday night with a tentative agreement on local issues. A strike deadline set for this morning was withdrawn pending expected ratification of the contract.

5 1/2 Hour Meet
The 26-member UAW executive board emerged from a 5 1/2-hour meeting Thursday with "not a word" of comment on what had happened at the gathering at the union's Detroit headquarters.

There have been reports that a UAW boycott of the AFL-CIO convention at Miami Beach, Fla. next week would be the next step in a running feud between UAW President Walter P. Reuther and federation President George Meany.

Reuther is expected to use the GM negotiations as an excuse for not attending the convention. Reuther has not been to General Motors since July 10, when the 1967 bargaining began, but he usually participates in the final bargaining.

In Miami Beach, Paul Hall, president of the labor federation's maritime trades department, said Thursday it would be "regrettable" if Reuther doesn't show up, and "shameful" if he pulls his 1.5 million member union out of the AFL-CIO.

Caldor Correction
In Caldor's advertisement of Wednesday, Nov. 29, the price for boy's Navy Pea Coats was listed as $19.97 and should have been listed as $16.97.

SENIOR CITIZENS AID — Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan commends Alexander Yosman of the Kingston Housing Authority, coordinator for the new senior citizen "trouble phone" project launched this week by the Senior Citizens Advisory Council. Senior citizens may call 338-0933 between 1 and 5 p. m. Monday through Friday for advice and help on variety of problems. Response to the new help for oldsters has been overwhelming and Yosman stressed the necessity of keeping calls within the allotted hours.

In 1966 the DECA Club celebrated Career Day by "running Britt's department store for a day" and increasing its sales over the same day of the preceding year," said Lange.

Lange stressed that the DECA Club was vitally interested in promoting "educational opportunities for youth in marketing, management, and distribution."

Marketing, management, and distribution were the three factors which receives the attention of DECA Club members, said its president Frank Lange. Along with these Lange stated that another idea was the promotion of good citizenship and leadership in business affairs.

The club offers its members a supervised training program with on-the-job training, through its diversified activities. A belief in competition is a basic thought emphasized by the "American free enterprise system which is responsible for the growth of our economic system."

Favorite Son Decisions Could Aid McCarthy Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two by Hartke and McGovern would broaden the political confrontation outlined by McCarthy.

But neither senator would say whether he would attempt to deliver his state's presidential support to the Minnesota should he become a favorite son.

McCarthy listed four primary areas as certain targets. They are Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

He said he also will enter the contests in either New Hampshire or Massachusetts—or possibly both.

"I just hope he stays out," said Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H. "It's a lot of hard work for us if he doesn't."

New Hampshire holds the nation's opening presidential primary next March 12, and McIntyre said neither he nor Democratic Gov. John W. King now plans to enter the race as a Johnson representative. Both are Johnson backers.

"Of course, we can always adjust our plans," McIntyre said, should McCarthy enter the New Hampshire race.

No Real Threat: King "But neither the governor nor I am anxious to get into this thing as a stand-in," added McIntyre. In Concord, N.H., King told newsmen he sees no real threat to Johnson from McCarthy.

There were indications McCarthy may skip New Hampshire anyhow. He said it might conflict with his schedule for an overseas trip next winter, a

Rep. Dow Emphasizes Long-Range Planning

Soil conservation problems were explored by Congressman John G. Dow of 27th District at the second day of the New York State Soil and Water Conservation Districts Association meeting Thursday.

Partnership Vital The gathering at the Governor Clinton Hotel heard the congressman link soil conservation problems to the broader issue of land use and zoning. He stressed the importance of long-range community and regional planning in partnership between community state and regional governments. "We need local, state and regional planning boards and commissions to protect, develop and make optimum use of our land; to investigate, survey, classify and map land areas," he said. "Land and soil conservation, then, are related not only to agriculture, but must be the primary factor in zoning, planning our communities for maximum comfort and efficiency."

"The issue of soil conservation also bears heavily on the development of recreational areas for our young and old—and thus on their health and maximum use of leisure time. It is immediately apparent that in discussing soil conservation we are discussing no less than the overall appearance of our countryside and cities. The need for caution and wisdom in our use of land, therefore, could not be more clear," he added.

Highlight of final sessions today is an address by Don Wickham, commissioner of Department of Agriculture and Markets. He is slated to be luncheon speaker. Reports on the Soil Conservation Service will be given by Victor Barry, assistant to the state conservationist, Wallace Anderson.

General theme of the conference which started Wednesday is Expanding District Responsibility. Representatives from all over the state are participating in the meet which has included major addresses, panel discussions and banquet festivities.

Concluding Today Activities today included a state directors breakfast followed by final general session. Committee reports were given by Harold Carmen, audit; Hartley Payne, registration and Richard Shields, legislative. State committee chairman, Silas Eakins detailed his committee concerns.

Victor McCord of Gardiner, chairman of the Ulster Soil and Water Conservation District, greeted the more than 65 delegates on behalf of host committee which includes Arthur Kurtz of New Paltz; Andrew Lehtonen of Hurley; Thomas Shea of Highland and Bowman Owen of Lew Beach, all district directors.

Francis E. Mulvaney, representative of the United States Soil Conservation Service in Ulster County and Phil Comings, association president, have been active in making arrangements for the three-day party.

The program for women attending included a tour of the Senate House Museum and a bus trip to points of interest in the Hyde Park area.

General Motors has indicated it is willing to write a contract with the union that is within the limits of the record economic agreements won for the union's 160,000 members at Ford Motor Co. and 103,000 at Chrysler Corp.

Whether or not the union makes any special demands of GM could be a key factor in causing a strike.

One company source said that if Reuther goes for any "frosting" on the cake at GM, "He'll be in for a big fight."

The union told the company Monday that what it called "erosion of the bargaining unit" by moving automated jobs out of union jurisdiction will be an important issue.

Representation, specifically the company requirement that union committeemen work at least an hour a day on their regular jobs, is also expected to cause trouble.

The union represents 380,000 workers at GM.

A strike at the Detroit universal division of Chrysler was averted Thursday night with a tentative agreement on local issues. A strike deadline set for this morning was withdrawn pending expected ratification of the contract.

5 1/2 Hour Meet The 26-member UAW executive board emerged from a 5 1/2-hour meeting Thursday with "not a word" of comment on what had happened at the gathering at the union's Detroit headquarters.

There have been reports that a UAW boycott of the AFL-CIO convention at Miami Beach, Fla. next week would be the next step in a running feud between UAW President Walter P. Reuther and federation President George Meany.

Reuther is expected to use the GM negotiations as an excuse for not attending the convention. Reuther has not been to General Motors since July 10, when the 1967 bargaining began, but he usually participates in the final bargaining.

In Miami Beach, Paul Hall, president of the labor federation's maritime trades department, said Thursday it would be "regrettable" if Reuther doesn't show up, and "shameful" if he pulls his 1.5 million member union out of the AFL-CIO.

Caldor Correction In Caldor's advertisement of Wednesday, Nov. 29, the price for boy's Navy Pea Coats was listed as $19.97 and should have been listed as $6.97.

SENIOR CITIZENS AID — Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan commends Alexander Yosman of the Kingston Housing Authority, coordinator for the new senior citizen "trouble phone" project launched this week by the Senior Citizens Advisory Council. Senior citizens may call 338-0933 between 1 and 5 p. m. Monday through Friday for advice and help on a variety of problems. Response to the new help for oldsters has been overwhelming and Yosman stressed the necessity of keeping calls within the allotted hours.

DECA Club Function Noted for Kiwanis

The purposes of the DECA Club in Kingston High School were explained to the members of Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by Frank Lange of Kingston, president of the school club.

"Apparently there were many Kiwanians who had little knowledge of what the DECA was—Distributive Educational Club of America—but remarks made by Loryne B. Connick, member of the school faculty in charge of the club, indicated that the organization had been introduced locally in 1943 by James Tobin, another faculty member. Connick also indicated that since its inception, the DECA Club members has recorded over three million hours of work and had totalled a sum of approximately three million dollars in earnings for its members. This was termed "an impressive record."

Marketing, management, and distribution were the three factors which receives the attention of DECA Club members, said its president Frank Lange. Along with these, Lange stated that another idea was the promotion of good citizenship and leadership in business affairs.

The club offers its members a supervised training program with on-the-job training, through its diversified activities. A belief in competition is a basic thought emphasized by the "American free enterprise system which is responsible for the growth of our economic system."

The local DECA Club carries on its own competitive

Upstate Getting Objectionable Meat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "A substantial amount of objectionable meat products" is being shipped from New York City into the upstate area, says State Sen. Thomas LaVerne, R-Rochester.

The Kingston Freeman has just completed a three-day series of articles concerning the meat industry as it pertains to the Ulster-Dutchess County area.

The city lacks a proper meat inspection program, LaVerne said Thursday, and the state should step in and ensure that the city conforms to state standards.

The shooting was witnessed by another foreman, who summoned a plant physician, the spokesman said. No weapon was found.
